$2,000,000,000 BANK POOL PLAN FOR RECOVERY VOTED BY BIG MAJORITY IN HOUSE

Passed by Senate, Bill Now Nearing White House.

MINOR DETAILS MUST BE FIXED

Ballot Count Is 335-55; Farm Loan Program Work Speeded.

(Associated Press.)

The $2,000,000,000 reconstruction corporation bill—foremost and mightest of the measures proposed by President Hoover for enlivening business—last night was given the overwhelming approval of the House.

Already passed by the Senate, the measure now is one step away from the White House. It next goes to conference for the adjustment of differing provisions accepted by the two chambers.

The purpose of the bill is to infuse $2,000,000,000 of credit into business channels by loans from its vast, Government supported funds, to banks and other financial institutions, which, in turn are to pass the money on to industry, agriculture and commerce.

Vote Is 335 to 55.

After passing the measure by a vote of 335 to 55, the House last night sent to conference the second item on the Hoover economic program, a bill to increase the capitalization of the Federal Land Banks by $100,000,000 and thus increase the credit resources of the farmers. The major task of the conferees will concern an amendment attached by the Senate adding $25,000,000 to enable the banks to postpone mortgage payment installments.

Another of the President's suggestions for helping economic recovery—a balanced budget—received the attention yesterday of the House ways and means committee in consideration of tax increases. It heard Chester Gray, of the American Farm Bureau Federation, present a broad increase program calling for additional revenue totaling about $1,500,000,000 annually through levies on American investments abroad, higher surtaxes, income and corporation taxes.

Forty-three Democrats and twelve Republicans voted against the reconstruction corporation bill. During the prolonged debate this group assailed the proposal as one that would relieve big business corporations and impose additional burdens on the taxpayers.

Four Amendments Accepted.

More than 50 amendments were offered, but only 4 of any importance were accepted. An amendment by Chairman Jones, of the agriculture committee, allotting $200,000,000 of the total capitalization to agriculture through intermediate credit banks, agricultural credit and live stock credit corporations and agricultural associations, was approved.

Two amendments by Representative Rayburn (Democrat), Texas, were accepted unanimously. One would prohibit the payment of any fee or commission by any applicant for a loan to any representative or attorney, and the other would impose heavy penalties for violations of that section.

An amendment by Chairman Steagall, of the House banking committee that drafted the bill eliminating a provision that Speaker Garner and President Hoover each appoint two members to the board of directors of seven was approved. As passed, the bill authorizes the President to appoint the four members while the Secretaries of the Treasury and Agriculture Departments and the governor of the Federal Reserve Board are to serve ex-officio.

Sponsors Not Worried.

In this the bill differs from the Senate measure which places the farm loan commissioner on the board instead of the Agriculture Secretary.

Another Steagall amendment approved makes the obligations of the corporation lawful investments in order that they may be accepted for all fiduciary, trust and public funds.

In getting the bill to conference, parliamentary technicalities may cause some difficulty, but in view of the overwhelming vote in both chambers, its sponsors are not worried. The technical obstacle lies in the fact that the Senate and House each approved a separate bill to bring about the same result. The parliamentarians say the House measure must now go

Belgrade Students Riot; Scores Seized by Police

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—University students rioted on the occasion of the joint parliamentary session today. They threw bricks and other missiles at the police and shouted, "Down with Zivkovitch, long live the king!" From 75 to 100 of the demonstrators were arrested. Similar scenes were enacted at Zagreb.

Mexico City, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Discovery of an ancient tomb described as the richest ever found in the Western Hemisphere was announced today in a letter from Alfonso Caso, chief of the government archelogical expedition at Monte Alban in the State of Oaxaca.

Reed Would Give Aid To Britain on Debts

(Associated Press.)

Europe was reminded last night by Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, an administration spokesman, that there is no relation between war debts to America and Germany's reparations, but he did offer to consider help for Great Britain.

Senator Reed issued a formal statement in response to "constant press reports from Europe attempting to class debts due to us with reparations." He called attention that America's loans to the allies were made after the armistice and represented money from the people of the United States.

His willingness to consider a "tem-

JAPAN ANSWERS U.S., PLEDGING OPEN DOOR

Policy Will Be Maintained in Manchuria, Nation Assures America.

Tokyo (Saturday), Jan. 16 (A.P.).—Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshizawa replied today to Secretary of State Stimson's note invoking the nine-power treaty in the Manchurian conflict by declaring that the open-door policy will be maintained in Manchuria.

The Japanese note, addressed to Mr. Forbes, follows:

"I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your excellency's note of January 8, which has had the most careful attention of this government.

"The government of Japan is well aware that the Government of the United States could always be relied upon to do everything in their power to support Japan's efforts to secure full and complete fulfillment in every detail of the treaties of Washington and the Kellogg treaty for the outlawry of war.

"They are glad to receive this additional assurance of the fact.

"As regards the question which your excellency specifically mentions of the policy of the so-called open door, the Japanese government, as has so often been stated, regard that policy as a cordial feature of the politics of the Far East and only regret that its effectiveness is so seriously diminished by the unsettled conditions which prevail throughout China.

"Insofar as they can secure it, the policy of the open door will always be maintained in Manchuria as in China proper.

"They take note of the statement by the United States Government that the latter can not admit the legality of matters which might impair the treaty rights of the United States or its citizens or which might be brought about by means contrary to the treaty of August 27, 1928.

"It might be the subject of an academic doubt, whether in a given case the impropriety of the means necessarily and always voids the ends secured, but as Japan has no intention of adopting improper means that question does not practically arise.

"It may be added that the treaties which relate to China must necessarily be applied with due regard to the state of affairs from time to time prevailing in that country and that

DEMOCRATS WARNED TO DISCARD RASKOB

Scott McBride Tells Party to Steer Clear Also of Smith and Roosevelt.

"If the Democratic party can free itself from the stranglehold of John J. Raskob and nominate a constitutional Democrat, it will have a chance," declared F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-saloon League of America, speaking last night at the opening session of the organization's twenty-fifth biennial convention now being held at the Mayflower Hotel.

The Rev. W. J. McGlothlin of Greenville, S. C., also addressed the convention. Bishop Ernest G. Richardson of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Philadelphia, Pa., was elected president of the league. He succeeds Bishop Thomas Nicholson, of Detroit, Mich., who has directed the organization since the enactment of the prohibition law.

Dr. McBride continued, in part:

"If it (the Democratic party) submits to Smith, Raskob and Roosevelt, it will lose its great chance to perpetuate the memory of the party.

"These three men will then sit around the table and decide who will be the next presidential candidate on the Democratic ticket. In the shadows overlooking this trio will be the wet influences that have enticed Mr. Raskob, a backsliding Republican, into the Democratic party.

"There will also be a fight for a wet platform and a wet candidate in the Republican party convention. If both parties offer candidates and platforms upholding the eighteenth amendment, the Antisaloon League will hold to its nonpartisan position and take no sides as between the two.

"Prohibition is the answer to the question how to solve the alcoholic liquor problem, and the only real one given. The eighteenth amendment clearly establishes the principle that no one should be given the legal right to impair his health, the well-being, or endanger the safety of the individual or society by the manufacture or sale of beverage alcohol, a mind-destroying, habit-forming poison.

"Resubmission is the first step in the wet program to destroy prohibition. When the records show when and where wet leaders asked wet members of Congress to vote for the submission of the eighteenth amend-

3-POWER PACT FOR ARMS CUT HINTED TO U.S.

Envoys of Germany and Italy Make Overtures for Support.

PACIFIST DELEGATES LEND HOPE TO PLANS

American Group to Sail for Parley Next Wednesday, Headed by Dawes.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Diplomatic overtures leading to the formation of a tripartite agreement at the forthcoming general disarmament conference next month have been in progress at the Department of State for the last few days. The visit yesterday of the German Ambassador, Baron von Prittwitz, to Secretary Stimson and the repeated calls of Italian Ambassador Giacomo de Martino have been authoritatively interpreted here as official bids for American cooperation with these countries at the discussions to open in Geneva on February 2.

German Ambassador von Prittwitz reminded the Secretary of the text of the Treaty of Peace between the United States and Germany, which provided:

"The maintenance of peace requires the reduction of national armaments to the lowest point consistent with national safety and the enforcement by common action of international obligations."

Italy and U. S. Share Views.

The Italian Ambassador has had frequent opportunities to remind the State Department of the similarity of views shared by the United States and by Italy which permitted Signor Mussolini to accept the Hoover moratorium before any other European nation had taken this action and which the American Government promptly reciprocated by enthusiastically indorsing the twelve months arms truce proposal of Italian Foreign Minister Grandi, at Geneva last September.

No confirmation of this new tendency could be derived from any official sources here, however. It was believed that the subject was so delicate that any comment, however innocuous, would be likely to cause misinterpretation in several quarters.

Germany's present state of disarmament, as described in the draft proposal which will be submitted to the consideration of all the delegates, represents the ideal state of disarmament toward which the delegates of every nation should strive, it was explained here. The presence of such a noted pacifist as Dr. Mary Emma Woolley on the American delegation and Secretary Stimson's recent statement before the House ways and means committee stressing the pacifist nature of the American delegation, as a whole, has created the hope in the German mind that the United States is prepared to demand the utmost in the way of armament concessions from every nation.

Germany Under Rigid Limits.

Germany, under the Treaty of Versailles, is held down to a very limited armament with no capital ships

Hunger Marches Blamed on Politics

(Associated Press.)

The Republican national committee clipsheet yesterday carried a statement that the recent unemployment marches on Washington had their inception in politics and not in economics.

The statement said that "any child should know" that the first one was inspired by Communist agitators and the second one had its genesis in the activities of a powerful political figure opposed to President Hoover. Officials of the committee said yesterday they did not care to amplify this statement.

The clipsheet continued that both groups of marchers came to Washington in automobiles and trucks and appeared to be well financed. It charged that the efforts were made to embarrass President Hoover and not to assist the unemployment situation.

MELLON DENIES COLOMBIA LOAN AND OIL CHARGE

BARCO NOT INVOLVED IN TALK WITH OLAYA

Loan Discussed With None, House Judiciary Body Is Informed.

(Associated Press.)

Through a specially designated spokesman, Secretary Mellon denied flatly yesterday any conversation with bankers or State Department officials concerning loans to Colombia or with President Olaya of that country, regarding a concession to the Gulf Oil Co.

It was part of a sweeping disavowal to the House judiciary committeee of every charge made against the Treasury chief by Representative Wright Patman, Texas Democrat, who is seeking his impeachment. Alexander W. Gregg, youthful and quiet-spoken attorney, was Secretary Mellon's spokesman.

On Thursday, after Mr. Patman had said Secretary Mellon was connected with the valuable Barco oil concession granted to the Gulf company just before New York banks made Colombia a credit advance, Mr. Gregg said he visited the Secretary. He said:

Mr. Mellon's Statement.

"I was present when Mr. Mellon dictated the following statement:

"'Mr. Mellon said that he met President Olaya at one of the usual social functions, and of course conversed with him, but such conversation was general and respecting financial and other conditions in Colombia.

"'Mr. Mellon had no conversation with President Olaya that had to do with the so-called Barco concession, nor the Gulf Oil Corporation, nor with and suggestions whatever, alleged or implied, as to any support or assistance upon the part of this Government with respect to Colombia obtaining credit.

"'Mr. Mellon has never had any conversation with officials of our State Department concerning the Colombian loan nor has he had any conversation with any bankers with respect to this loan.'"

On Stand Two Hours.

Mr. Gregg spoke nearly two hours and estimated he would require only 5 minutes to conclude next Monday. Assisting him was D. D. Shepard, of Pittsburgh. Representative Patman was an attentive listener and wants to reply when Attorney Gregg has concluded.

When asked whether Secretary Mellon's statement meant the Secretary never had been consulted about the Barco concession, Mr. Gregg hastened to explain:

"I was careful not to say that—I don't know. He never suggested that the Gulf Oil Co. confer with representatives of the Colombian government to arrange the concession."

Before turning to the Colombian affair, Mr. Gregg dealt with each charge in Mr. Patman's impeachment resolution, which, in general, contends Secretary Mellon has en-

'Gen.' Coxey Would Run for President

Announces His Candidacy for Nomination by Republicans.

Massillon, Ohio, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—"Gen." Jacob S. Coxey, who went to jail in Washington 38 years ago, would like to go back there in state—as President of the United States.

Coxey, grizzled campaigner for "money at cost," and now Mayor of Massillon, today announced himself a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

The gaunt, gray-haired "general," now in his seventy-sixth year, said a "wide circle" of friends would file his petition in the North Dakota presidential preferential primary of March 15. His platform will be the same he advocated in 1894. He will advocate the sale of noninterest-bearing bonds for public improvements and issuance of legal tender by the Government against these bonds.

'Bomb' Sent to Dr. Klein Proves to Be Perfect Dud

Suspected Mail Package, Opened With Great Care at Naval Magazine, Contains Unidentified Powder; Bullets Fail to Cause Explosion.

Washington's lack of persons willing to open suspected bombs was indelibly impressed upon three detectives who yesterday played a six-hour game of "bomb, bomb, who'll open the bomb?" with a package sent to Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce.

The contents of the small wooden box, finally opened at the naval magazine behind an iron shield after being peppered with bullets, are still a mystery. The box contains some white chemical which will not explode, however, and there was no mechanism in the box. An analysis of the chemical will be made today.

The package, first noticed in the mail room of the new Department of Commerce Building, was passed from hand to hand with the celerity of a hot potato. A messenger, who had read of the bombs recently found throughout the East, grew suspicious of it. He called the guards and gave it to them. They didn't like it and called the District police, who took it to the Bureau of Standards.

Nobody there was a bomb expert and nobody was willing to begin his career on the little box. All we could do would be to take it out in a field and throw rocks at it," somebody said. Detectives O. W. Mansfield, Howard Ogle and John Wise sighed. Frankly, they were tired of the box. They would like to give it away. Maybe the Bureau of Mines would take it.

The Bureau of Mines wouldn't. The officials were polite, but firm—even immovable. They would send Dr. Charles E. Monroe, chief of the explosives division, with the policemen to try to find a volunteer, but they wouldn't take it and they would not open it. There was still the naval magazine, at Bellevue, D. C., where they know about explosives. Two men were killed in one of their explosions just before Christmas. So the package went to Bellevue, with three policemen and an explosives expert sitting lightly in the same automobile.

Sure, they knew about bombs at

Mercury at 77 Shatters 60-Year District Record

A maximum temperature of 77 yesterday topped by two degrees a 60-year January record in what Weather Bureau officials believe will prove the last day of the current hot spell.

Until yesterday, 76 was the highest tempearture ever recorded here in January. Only four times since 1871 has this been equaled, one of the times being on Thursday. Yesterday's record-breaker was reached at 2:15, just before the sky became overcast and a few scattered raindrops fell. By 4 o'clock the mercury was down to 74 on the official thermometers, with a promise of a 44-degree minimum before morning.

Tonight will be much colder, the forecast is, with rain, and the heat is not expected to return until a more seasonable time. The south winds which brought in the heat wave will veer to the West and cool off some, it is thought. Incidentally, yesterday's heat almost equaled the February mark, which stood until 1930. Until last year 79 was the highest February temperature ever recorded, but it was jumped to 84 by a wave in that month.

East Capitol Street Branch Is Scene of Holdup.

4 YOUTHS FLEE IN GREEN SEDAN

Attaches and Customers Forced to Lie on Floor as Thieves Work.

Armed with a submachine gun and revolvers concealed in brief cases which they carried, four youthful and well-dressed bandits staged a daring daylight holdup at the Ninth and East Capitol streets branch of the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank, shortly before closing time yesterday and escaped in a waiting car with $14,135.

The car used by the four in escaping after the holdup was found by police early this morning, abandoned at Second street and Massachusetts avenue northeast. The sedan was discovered by occupants of the Traffic Bureau radio cruiser. The car appeared devoid of clews, but was towed to the police garage and will be given a minute examination by finger-print experts.

Silver and Gold Untouched.

The first intimation of danger that the five employes and three customers of the bank had was the gruff demand for an entrance to the safe deposit vault made by the marauders. This demand was reenforced with a revolver leveled at Joseph N. McCarthy, manager of the bank, by the leader of the band, who kicked a hole in the glass door leading to the vault and entered while one of his aids threatened the occupants with a submachine gun.

The holdup is the first of its kind in Washington since a group of bandits staged a similar robbery in 1926.

The bandits yesterday ignored silver and gold money within their reach, taking only $14,135 in bills. According to Ezra Gould, president of the bank, who arrived when informed of the holdup, the total amount of money in the bank at the time was approximately $25,000.

Forced to Lie on Floor.

The bandits, while removing the money, ordered the employes and customers to recline on the floor in the back of the office and remain there for ten minutes, while they placed the money in their brief cases and fled to their car, in which one of the band was waiting with the doors open, on the outside.

The employes in the bank were Gorden E. Arnett, T. Grant Bidgely, Arthur L. Deuterman and a colored janitor. Mr. Deuterman, who crawled out of the back room to see if the bandits had left, was confronted by a depositor engaged in making out a deposit slip.

Mr. Gould, bringing $10,000 with him to supplement the depleted counter money of the bank, said that while the machine gun was trained on the occupants of the institution one of the bandits smashed the glass door leading to the back and that the patrons and the five employes were then forced into the rear part of the office.

Depositor Describes Scene.

The customers in the bank were Mrs. A. J. Keady, East Capitol street near H, who entered the bank while the holdup was in progress; Mrs. Lena Staples, 803 Massachusetts avenue northeast, and Armand and Ines Runnels, 1703 West Virginia avenue.

Mrs. Keady, director of the Christ Child Society, related the story of her entrance in the bank.

"It was about a quarter to 3 o'clock," she said, and when I noticed the door was closed I thought I had come too late. The door was slightly ajar and a strange man opened it and motioned for me to come in.

"I did so and the strange man led me to the back of the office, sort of pushing me along. He was well dressed and courteous. Despite the fact that I never had seen the man before, it did not occur to me that anything was wrong until I noticed a pile of broken glass on the floor.

"I thought that was strange, but said nothing. Arriving in the back

WOMAN IS KILLED IN 12-STORY PLUNGE

Wife of Newspaperman Falls From Window in Her Husband's Office.

Mrs. Edith M. Strout, 32-year-old mother of three small children and wife of Richard Lee Strout, of the Washington Bureau of the Christian Science Monitor, was instantly killed last night in a 12-story plunge from a window of the Monitor office in the National Press Building.

Mrs. Strout's body was found in an alley in the rear of the building by George A. Lee, of 1338 Monroe street northwest. Lee said he was standing near the stage entrance of the Fox Theater when he heard the body strike the ground. He rushed to the woman's side, he said, only to find she had been instantly killed. Her shoes were torn off by the rush of air as she hurtled through space.

She was taken to the Emergency Hospital by the Fire Rescue Squad and pronounced dead by a staff physician.

Mr. Strout told Coroner Joseph D. Rogers that he and his wife went to the Press Building shortly before 10 o'clock. They went directly to the twelfth floor he said, and he left Mrs. Strout in the hallway while he stopped for a moment in the office of the New York Herald Tribune.

He found he was going to be in the Tribune office longer than he had at first expected, Mr. Strout said, so he went into the hallway and asked Mrs. Strout to join him. She declined, he said, declaring she was not dressed to meet anyone.

Mr. Strout told the coroner he then opened the Monitor office and after seeing his wife inside, returned to the Tribune offices, which are an adjoining suite.

He had been in there about ten minutes, he declared, when he heard a disturbance in the alley below. He looked out the window, he said, and saw the crowd gathered in the alley.

When he rushed into his office Mr. Strout said, he found his wife had disappeared. Sensing what had happened, he hurried to the street and entered the alley to find Mrs. Strout being placed in an ambulance.

Detectives from Police Headquarters who investigated the tragedy were unable at an early hour this morning to determine just what happened. Mrs. Strout, it was learned had recently suffered a nervous breakdown. Whether she leaped or accidentally fell from the window is not known.

Mrs. Strout was the mother of

OKLAHOMA'S PLEDGE IS SEEN FOR HOOVER

Hurley Predicts Instructed Delegation; President to Enter State Races.

(Associated Press.)

The movement to renominate President Hoover yesterday moved forward briskly.

A prediction that the Oklahoma delegation to the Republican convention would be pledged to him came from Secretary Hurley.

Meanwhile James Francis Burke, general counsel of the Republican national committee, conferred with Republican leaders on methods of entering President Hoover in various State primaries. He said Mr. Hoover would be entered in Pennsylvania.

Concerning the announcement Thursday by Postmaster General Brown that Mr. Hoover was a candidate for reelection, it was said at the White House the Chief Executive is giving little attention to personal politics at this time. He was described as concentrating on his economic rehabilitation program.

After attending the Cabinet meeting yesterday Secretary Hurley and the Postmaster General and Mr Burke sat in the White House lobby chatting. The topic of conversation was not made known.

During the day Charles G. Dawes, who will resign as Ambassador to Great Britain, conferred with the President. Gen. Dawes has denied he is a presidential candidate.

Mrs. Jonathan B. Carter, vice chairman of the Republican State committee of Kansas, at the White House said Mr. Hoover would be entered in the Kansas primary in July and support for him appeared assured.

After she had visited the Chief Executive she was asked if he had appeared pleased at her optimistic report. Mrs Carter nodded in the affirmative, hesitated for a moment and said, "But why should he show especial pleasure over something he already knew?"

Mr. Burke said in Pennsylvania certain Republican leaders would enter the President's name, but declined to say who they were.

The War Department said Oklahoma does not have a primary, but selects its delegates through the convention system, and he is "altogether certain that they would be Hoover delegates."

He hopes to be able to take some part in the preconvention campaign.

Post Essay Contest Called Aid to Better Citizenship

Charles L. Pack, American Tree Association President, Praises Work and Washington Bicentennial Year as Opportunte Time for Its Undertaking.

"In turning the thought of American youth to George Washington," declared Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree Association yesterday, "The Washington Post through its Essay Contest is doing a fine piece of work on behalf of American citizenship."

Mr. Pack, who has in charge the tree planting phase of the bicentennial celebration, has been active in civic and patriotic work for years. Under his inspiring leadership it is planned that millions of trees will be planted throughout the country this year in memory of George Washington. This tribute to Washington is particularly timely and appropriate because George Washington was a great lover of trees and many of those at Mount Vernon today were planted under his personal supervision.

"During this bicentennial year," continued Mr. Pack, "too much can not be done to attract the boys and girls of the country to study the life and works of the great Father of His Country. The American Tree Association has this end in view. It is to turn the thought of the American people to George Washington and to the value of tree planting. We have now registered more than 9,000,000 tree plantings dedicated to the memory of George Washington. In the Southern half of the United States, the 1932 planting campaign is now getting under way and it will move gradually northward with the approach of spring.

"In a campaign such as The Washington Post is conducting the thought of new thousands will be turned toward a study of the life of the Father of Our Country. In the study of that life there is a tremendous fountain of inspiration and The Post is to be commended highly for this bicentennial endeavor."

The flood of letters concerning The Post Washington Essay Contest is assuming large proportions. Judging from the interest and inquiries a large percentage of public, private

WETS IN HOUSE TO FORCE VOTE ONREFERENDUM

Antidry Leaders of Two Parties Join to Work for Ballot.

LAW "STRADDLERS" TARGET OF ACTION

Measure Presented Is Culled From Report Made by Wickersham.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Republican and Democratic wets in the House yesterday culled from the report of the Wickersham commission a prohibition referendum measure which they intend to force to a record vote. Defeat of the measure is a foregone conclusion.

The mere fact, however, that the wets are able to force the measure to a record vote is a sweet morsel and victory enough for them at the moment after years of overwhelming defeat at the hands of the rampant drys.

The wet leaders are counting on the efficacy of a record vote on the measure. They intend that every member of Congress shall go formally on record. They are aiming at those straddlers who have, in their belief, prolonged their political lives by the process of walking on both sides of the line.

By Linthicum and Beck.

Representative J. Charles Linthicum (Democrat), Maryland and Representative James M. Beck (Republican), Pennsylvania, leaders of the wets of their respective parties, jointly introduced the prohibition referendum measure, which was in the form of a joint resolution, amending the eighteenth amendment, and required approval of two-thirds of the membership of the House and Senate.

Briefly the amendment would return to the various States authority to regulate the manufacture and sale of liquor as each State sees fit, with Federal authority backing up the decision of each State.

The resolution, it was said in a statement issued by Mr. Linthicum and Mr. Beck, "follows the recommendations of the entire membership of the Wickersham committee as to the form of any such amendment."

Claims for Home Rule.

The wets regard it, they said, "as a home rule method of solving the liquor problem, and, it is claimed in this respect, it accords with the best political traditions of the American people and should satisfy all reasonable men, whether wet or dry."

It is likely that the referendum resolution will not be brought to a vote on the floor of the House for nearly two months.

Although they took the spotlight the House wets were not the whole bill on the congressional prohibition stage yesterday. Senator Morris Sheppard (Democrat), of Texas, told his colleagues that he would follow his usual practice and address the Senate today on the anniversary of the amendment.

A confirmed dry, Senator Sheppard is primed to tell not only the Senate but the country, about the benefits of prohibition he helped bring about.

Representative Emmanuel Celler (Democrat), of New York, introduced a measure, designed to relieve the limitation on liquor prescriptions which may be issued by physicians. That measure undoubtedly will go to the limbo of similar antiprohibition measures.

Senator John B. Kendrick (Democrat), of Wyoming, presented the Senate with a petition signed by several thousand of his constituents demanding prohibition reform.

Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, issued a statement in which he said that although his organization was in favor of an outright repeal of the eighteenth amendment it would support the Linthicum-Beck resolution, which Mr. Curran described as a substitute.

METHODISTS' BOARD FOE OF DRY ACT VOTE

Resolution Also Denounces "Low Moral Tone" of Motion Pictures.

A resolution vigorously opposing a referendum as a means of ascertaining the feeling of the Nation on prohibition was passed yesterday by the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church at its annual meeting held in the Methodist Building.

"We are willing to go to the mat with the wets on any clear-cut issue," said Bishop William F. McDowell, president of the board, which is composed of representative ministers and laymen from all parts of the country. "We shall continue to emphasize," he said, "that we want no sham vote."

Challenging representative wet organizations to propose a substitute for prohibition, the lengthy resolution of the Methodist Board criticized a suggestion that an amendment "to reestablish the liquor traffic be submitted for ratification by Constitutional conventions." The latter method was described as substituting for the action of experienced legislative bodies "the deliberations of inexperienced men."

"The talk of a referendum," the resolution continued, "in the sense of a direct poll of sentiment, is mere folly. It attacks our form of government, under which the States are sovereign and equal units in the process of constitutional revision, and constitutional accommodation, without which the Union could not have been formed and which the States will certainly not now surrender."

Resolutions calling attention to "the low moral tone of the moving pictures and their unfair treatment of prohibition" also were passed by the board. The measure urged that protests be filed in the latter connection with film producers.

Another resolution called for a more vigorous and widespread educational campaign among young people, while still another ordered a "District Minute Men's Service" composed of laymen to present prohibition in churches and luncheon service clubs.

room and noticing several persons lying face downward on the floor and hearing the man say, 'We'll do business here,' I turned to go, but he had a gun in his hand and told me to stay where I was and closed the door."

An hour after the holdup was staged a check for $14,135, the amount of the loss, was presented to the bank by R. B. Cummings & Co., general agents for the Globe Indemnity Co., which insures the bank against robbery and similar losses. Mr. Gould, president of the bank, said that, due to expected pay day rush, there was a good deal of counter money on hand.

Holdups Believed Using Stolen Washington Auto

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Jan. 15.—The Maryland license plates—124-256—seen on the automobile used by the bandits who held up the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank in Washington today, were issued to Daniel M. Blumenberg, of 453 Whitridge avenue, records of the commissioner of motor vehicles show.

Police records show that Mr. Blumenberg's Chevrolet coach, for which the licenses were issued, was stolen from a parking lot at Elgin and Monroe streets January 8. The automobile has not yet been recovered, police said.

On January 12 Baltimore police received a telephone message from the Washington detectives to be on the lookout for an Essex sedan bearing a District automobile dealer's license, which had been taken from a salesman for the Blanton Motor Co., of Washington, in a holdup on that day. Local police believe the stolen sedan and the licenses from Mr. Blumenberg's automobile were used in the bank hold-up.

MELLON PLEDGES $50,000 FOR CHEST

$20,000 More Than Donation in 1931; Numerous Other Gains Reported.

Prolonged applause on the part of members of the special gifts unit of the Community Chest campaign committee yesterday greeted the announcement of Newbold Noyes, captain of the unit, that Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon had pledged $50,000 to the Community Chest this year, an increase of $20,000 over his 1931 contribution. This is the largest increase so far reported to the special gifts unit, although increases continued to mark reports of contributions received yesterday.

In announcing Mr. Mellon's generous pledge, Mr. Noyes called attention to demands made on the Secretary by conditions in his own home city and State, and said that while he had expected an increase, that the size of Mr. Mellon's pledge was an agreeable surprise.

Clarence A. Aspinwall, chairman of the special gifts unit, urged every team member to exert greater efforts in getting increased pledges. "The people of Washington are responding generously," Mr. Aspinwall said, "but our unit is not averaging the one-third increase that is necessary if this unit is to do its part in meeting the greatest peace-time emergency ever faced by the National Capital."

Contributors of $500 or more who showed increases over last year, as reported yesterday, were:

Mrs. Beale R. Howard, $2,000, an increase over last year's gift of $500; Edward G. Yonker, $2,000, an increase of $1,000; Sanitary Grocery Co., $10,000, an increase of $4,000; Mr. and Mrs. Alan B. Houghton, $1,100, an increase of $100; Miss Anna M. Carrere, $600, an increase of $100; anonymous, $1,000, an increase of $400; anonymous, $1,200, an increase of $200; Mrs. Zaidee Ellis Gaff, $800, an increase of $200; The Hecht Co., $5,000, an increase of $1,000; Mr. and Mrs. William M. Hannay, $600, an increase of $100; Harry Lee Rust, jr., $750, an increase of $250.

Also Mrs. James Parmelee, $2,500, an increase of $1,000; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. May, $1,200, an increase of $100; Miss Belle Sherwin, $1,200, an increase of $400; Mrs. Walter Schoellkoff, $750, an increase of $250; Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur J. ment, it will be time enough for a dry representative to vote for resubmission," Dr. McBride said.

Following Dr. McBride's talk, Bishop William N. Ainsworth, of Birmingham, Ala., addressed the delegates, saying: "Once our cities had saloons by hundreds and thousands. Liquor came to them by trainloads; today it comes by an occasional auto load or a satchelful.

Must Not Forget.

"This generation must not be allowed to forget the conditions that brought prohibition. Saloons sold to minors and inebriates, harbored prostitutes, gamblers and criminals of every class, dominated politics, and made municipal government reek with corruption.

"The South is for prohibition. We know its benefits with only partial enforcement. We have not forgotten the days when men lashed their horses and shot their pistols and whooped like howling dervishes along the country roads that led from the saloon-infested cities. We secured the gains we have gotten by the bloody sweat of an age-long struggle. We do not mean to surrender them.

Willis J. Abbott, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, told the convention "The dry sentiment of the United States, if it can be got to the polls, is overwhelmingly in favor of prohibition."

"I have not the slightest doubt," he said, "that if we get behind prohibition we can be victorious in the fall elections irrespective of party labels."

The convention will continue until Tuesday evening. Among the speakers scheduled to address the delegates are: Senator Robert B. Howell, of Nebraska; Gov. John C. Winant of New Hampshire, Dr. James M. Doran, Bishop James Cannon, jr., Gov. William H. ("Alfalfa Bill") Murray of Oklahoma, Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock, Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, president of the National Woman's Democratic Law Enforcement League, and Senator Morris Sheppard, of Texas.

Dramas to Be Presented.

Two one-act dramas "The Mocker" and "The Harvest" will be presented during the convention, as well as an all-talking version of the famous old temperance drama, "Ten Nights in a Barroom."

Philadelphia, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Bishop Ernest G. Richardson, of this city, who was elected president of the Antisaloon League of America today, is resident head of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the Philadelphia area. The area includes the annual conferences of Philadelphia, New Jersey, Wyoming and Delaware.

The new president is a member of the headquarters committee of the Pennsylvania Antisaloon League and has been identified with its work for many years. At various times his statements on prohibition topics have been widely quoted. He is regarded as one of the outstanding administrators and parliamentarians of the church.

Bishop Richardson came to the Philadelphia area in 1928 from Atlanta. He was born in the West Indies in 1874 and was educated at Dickinson College and Yale University.

Bishop Richardson, on learning of his election today, said he felt he should not make a statement in advance of the meeting of the Antisaloon League when the new president would be officially received. The bishop expects to go to Washington tomorrow.

Finland's Envoy Denies Outside Aid in Wet Vote

(Associated Press.)

A satement by the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals that Finland's recent prohibition referendum was "effected by outside pressure" was described yesterday as "entirely erroneous" by L. Astrom, the Finnish Minister to the United States.

Minister Astrom, in a formal statement, said the law providing for the referendum was proclaimed on December 12, nearly a month after an interview cited by the Methodist Board had appeared in a Finnish newspaper. He added the interview could have had no influence on the campaign.

"When the government presented to the Parliament its proposal for a referendum," the statement continued, "it gave us a reason, in the first place, the detrimental effect of the common disobedience of the prohibition law upon respect for law in general. * * *

"Seeing the respect for lawbreaking down, the Finnish government pointed to a certain law as one root of the evil, and the Finnish people voted with overwhelming majority to repeal that law.

"In these circumstances it is easy to see under what kind of influences the Finnish people and government selected their course of action regarding the Finnish prohibition law."

Doyle Ends 44 Years In Service of U. S.

Fellow Workers in Postal Department Honor Colleague, 74 Today.

Today, on his seventy-fourth birthday anniversary, John Hadley Doyle, of 3016 O street northwest, will retire from the Government service in which he has known 44 years. Yesterday fellow-employes of the money order division of the Postoffice Department gave him a traveling bag as a parting gift.

Prior to entering the Federal service in 1888, Mr. Doyle was an active newspaperman, having worked in Washington. He has also been attive in amateur baseball and as an oarsman. For 14 years he was president of the Potomac Boat Club.

He was president of the Holy Name Society of Baltimore, president of the Washington branch for five years, and president of the Holy Trinity branch for 10 years. In 52 years as prefect of the Sodality of Holy Trinity Church, he has missed only four meetings. Mr. Doyle entered the city postoffice originally, and was transferred to the classification division in 1903. He served in this branch until 1914, when he went with the money order division, where he has been ever since.

10 Destroyers Will Join Virginia Naval Reserve

(Associated Press.)

A flotilla of ten Navy destroyers will be placed in reserve commission at the Norfolk Navy Yard, Portsmouth, Va., as soon as they are turned out at the Philadelphia Yard.

Fifteen destroyers, in all, will be recommissioned at the Philadelphia Yard beginning today, the Navy Department yesterday announced. Two are to go into active status with special service squadron replacing the Wickes and Philips, and three more will be placed in reserve commission at the Mare Island Yard, California.

The ships placed in reserve, including the ten to be sent to Norfolk, will go into fleet service within a year after starting reserve duty.

In reserve, they will carry 25 per cent of a full complement of officers and men, which will be augmented when they are ordered to sea.

The placing of the ships in reserve is part of the Navy's "rotation plan," inaugurated last fall, by which the Navy hopes to keep in semireadiness as many fleet units as possible.

The ships to undergo commissioning at the Philadelphia Yard are: Hatfield, Brooks, Fox, Kane, Humphreys, McFarland, J. K. Paulding, King, Sands, Lawrence, Reuben James, Bainbridge, Goff, Overton and Sturtevant.

EUROPE IS REMINDED DEBTS ARE FOR CASH

porary" readjustment of the war debts for "certain nations" was a concession on Reed's part. He previously has declared against the proposal of President Hoover to revive the War Debts Commission. But he insisted that each nation be dealt with alone.

Significance was attached to the Reed statement because of his closeness to the administration, and because of the parleys now proceeding in Europe looking to a readjustment of the German war repatrations.

The statement said:

"The constant press reports from Europe attempting to class debts due to us with reparations will not meet a responsive chord in the United States. The debts were for monies advanced, not for indemnities. They were generously funded by the United States, and the agreements voluntarily signed by the representatives of the various governments. In their present form and amount they represent only a small part of the money actually advanced by this country and, including the interest adjustments, cover in some cases not much more, in some cases no more, than the money advanced for reconstruction after the signing of the armistice. They represent money realized by the sale of United States bonds to the people of the United States, most of which bonds are still outstanding and must be paid by the United States Government.

"It is, therefore, impossible for the United States to admit that if Germany is or may be unable to pay further reparations this automatically cancels the debts, since the debts have no relation to the reparations. When the debts were created, no reparations existed. At the time of funding, the amount of the debts was estimated on the normal capacity of the various nations to pay, irrespective of reparations.

"It is obvious that since that time the world-wide economic crisis has in certain nations deeply affected that capacity and that certain nations may, in consequence, have to request consideration from the American Government as to their temporary capacity.

"I have in mind, for example, the situation of Great Britain at the present time. Everyone knows the difficulties there in the very heavy taxation, and knows that if the depreciation of the pound continues it will probably greatly affect the British capacity to make the payments which will fall due next December. It is inconceivable that the United States would not sympathetically consider a proposal for temporary adjustment based on temporarily diminished capacity.

"What I have been steadily trying to bring out is that the debts are in a totally different status from reparations and that there should be no repudiation of the principle that they are valid and sacred obligations and that these obligations are individual to each nation, not collective to the debtors as a whole or to be dealt with in that fashion."

Canadian Says Dominion and U. S. Have Agreed on Development.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—The Ogdensburg Journal today quoted A. C. Casselman, member of the Canadian Parliament, as saying that an agreement between the United States and Canada has been reached on the St. Lawrence waterway and power development.

"If the books of both countries could be opened today the public would find everything settled," he said. "At a meeting in Ottawa on January 13, attended by Premier Bennett, Premier Henry of Ontario, Arthur Meighen, Ontario hydrocommissioner; Robert Cooke, chairman of the hydrocommission; W. D. Herridge, Canadian Minister to the United States; Col. Hanford MacNider, United States Minister to Canada, and William Finlayson, Ontario minister of lands and forests, as well as technical experts, a step of highest importance was taken.

"The federal government of Canada has recognized the province's claims to ownership of power. This has smothered out the tangle in Canada. Only the economic situation now may delay this important development."

AIR WARS PICTURED IN PLEA FOR PLANES

Moffett Says Sea Defense Is Endangered by Better Submarines.

(Associated Press.)

Wars of the future were pictured before the House naval committee yesterday in a plea for more aircraft carriers.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, head of the Navy's Aeronautics Bureau, requested ships to carry 800 more airplanes and asked this question:

"If the submarine, with a subsurface speed of only 12 knots and carrying only a few hundred of pounds of explosives, with a range of only a few hundred yards, nearly won the last war, what will a vehicle having a speed of 200 knots and carrying torpedoes and bombs having 2,000 to 4,000 pounds of explosives do?"

"The importance of aviation can not be overemphasized," he said. "An adequate naval air force, based on carriers and flying deck cruisers, is the best protection against aircraft attack on the shores of the continental United States and our outlying possessions."

Moffett indorsed the pending $616,250,000 Vinson construction bill, but suggested it be changed to require the building of eight instead of one of the newest type ships, not yet tried out by any power—fast cruisers armed with 6-inch guns and carrying 24 airplanes each.

"By building eight flying deck cruisers instead of eight ordinary 6-inch-gun cruisers, we lose 24 6-inch guns and gain 160 airplanes in the fleet (more than carried by the Lexington and Saratoga) plus eight mobile landing fields," he testified.

He estimated 800 more planes would be needed for the eight flying deck cruisers and the aircraft carriers the Navy could build under treaty limits.

TWO SUSPECTS SEEN NEAR ILSLEY HOME

Middleburg Citizens Meet to Plan Protection of Their Homes.

The two colored men suspected of having murdered Mrs. Agnes Beeing Ilsley and her maid early Wednesday were less than a half mile from the Ilsley home in Middleburg, Va., a few hours before the murder, it was established last night by Washington detectives.

While prominent citizens of the town held an indignation meeting in the Middleburg National Bank and devised means of creating a one-man police department, Gov. Pollard, directed State Motor Vehicle Director T. McCall Frazier to investigate an alleged assault by a State policeman on several news photographers.

Lieut. John H. Fowler and Detective Sergeant Dennis J. Murphy, who are assisting Commonwealth Attorney John Galleher in the investigation, it was learned last night have found two witnesses who say they saw Crawford and his accomplice near the Ilsley home a few hours before the murders.

The two suspects, were in "the jungles" a half-mile from Ilsley estate, and were seen at a bonfire they had built. Crawford, it was learned, sent his alleged accomplice to the village to obtain food. On the previous night, it was learned, the two suspects had lived in the woods only a short distance from the crime scene.

Spent Night Near Herndon.

They went to Middleburg on Monday afternoon, after they spent the night in the vicinity of Herndon. The police have also obtained a note book from which the scrap of paper was torn, upon which was written an address of a colored Herndon "woman," to whom Crawford, on Sunday night, promised to send money. This slip of paper was found in Mrs. Isley's abandoned automobile, found near the Highway Bridge on Wednesday night.

This "woman" was taken into custody Thursday night. It developed, however, that the "colored woman" is a colored man who has been masquerading as a woman for 30 years. This diguise was discovered only by chance. The detectives learned this person had been wearing a woman's wig for twenty years, and for many years has done washing and ironing for many families in the vicinity of Herndon and Tysons Crossroads. Authorities will not reveal the name of the person.

Now that the identities of the alleged murderers are fairly well established, since the writing on the paper in the Ilsley automobile has been identified as his handwriting, and they have demonstrated that Crawford was in the vicinity of the crime scene, and was accused of having robbed the place once before, it is likely that the Washington detectives will be withdrawn from the case.

Encounter After Funeral.

More than 2,500 circulars have been sent to various cities of the country, asking that Crawford be apprehended. All of the material witnesses who were being held by Virginia authorities have been released.

Directly after the funeral services, a scuffle started between newspaper photographers and policemen, when State Policeman T. F. Stafford attacked Joseph Roberts, of the Washington Herald, knocking him to the street. Stafford said that the Rev. Dr. D. Campbell Mayers of the Emmanuel Protestant Episcopal Church had ordered that no pictures be taken.

The cameramen were released after they had turned over their exposed plates to Deputy James Williams, who destroyed them. Roberts swore an assault warrant for Stafford before Seaton. There will be a hearing on Monday.

The strife occurred just as the casket was borne down the steps of the church. The photographers said the dead woman's brother, Paul Boeing, had given them permission to take the pictures.

After being advised of the affair by the Washington Star and the Washington News, Gov. Pollard at Richmond directed Mr. Frazier, director of the division of motor vehicles, to make an investigation of the State policemen's action.

Annexation Discussed.

The governor described the protests of the papers as being couched in "indignant language." He refused to comment until the affair had been investigated.

The citizens who met in the bank with Dr. Mayers, included Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, Raymond Belmont, son of August Belmont, noted breeder of horses; Daniels Sands, president of the bank; Mayor William J. Luck, Erman C. Downs, L. C. Leith, Maj. Turner Wiltshire, and Thomas H. Dudley.

They discussed annexing two neighboring villages, Ridgeview and Windy Hill, so that the tax revenue of the town would be sufficient to pay for the services of a police officer. At present Middleburg is only 1,000 feet wide and 3,000 feet in length.

Police yesterday said that one or both of the fugitives might bear scratches on the face from the desperate fight of the society woman before she was killed.

Lieut. Fowler, of Washington, with Galleher, spent yesterday in Richmond hoping to trace the man through his friends there.

They also received information from Sheriff R. L. Cooksey, of Leonardtown, Md., that two colored men answering the description of the fugitive yesterday had taken a ferry to Colonial Beach, Va., from Morgantown, Md. They were reported to be in a small touring car bearing Virginia license plates.

False Clew Furnished.

The detectives were sent on a false clew in the afternoon when a telephone call was received here that Crawford had been seen in the vicinity of Brandy, near Culpeper, Va.

The call purported to be from Ben Durrett, in whose custody Crawford was paroled when released from the Virginia Penitentiary, where he was serving a 20-year sentence for murder.

Durrett denied that he had called and said that he had not seen the man. The authorities are attempting to trace the phone message.

The body of Mrs. Ilsley was shipped to Milwaukee, where relatives of her late husband, Spencer Ilsley, have arranged that she be buried today beside him in Forest Home Cemetery.

HARRISON ECONOMY RESOLUTION ALTERED

Pittman Amendment Makes It Indorse Hoover's Demand for Cuts.

Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), of Mississippi, called up a resolution yesterday which, after it had been amended and adopted, placed the Senate on record as backing up President Hoover's demand for economy in government.

However, that isn't what the Harrison resolution was originally designed to do. As written by the Mississippian, it ordered the appropriations committee to slash the President's budget estimates by $300,000,000.

Democrats joined with Republicans in criticizing the resolution and poking fun at its author. It was called, among other things, a mere "gesture."

Pittman's Amendment.

In the end, on the motion of a Democrat, Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, the resolution was amended to say simply that governmental expenditures should be reduced wherever possible. Not even President Hoover could object to that, it was later pointed out.

The Pittman amendment was adopted 50 to 9. This was in effect on the original resolution itself. The amended resolution was adopted without a record vote.

In the debate, Senator Harrison said that salaries of Government employes and the number of employes should be cut if necessary.

Defenders of Federal Salaries.

This was opposed by several senators, including Brookhart, of Iowa, Trammell, of Florida, and Jones, of Washington, chairman of the appropriations committee.

Senator Norris (Republican), of Nebraska, said that if the original Harrison resolution were adopted, it would mean that the Senate, in ordering a $300,000,000 slash in the estimates, was deciding the case before the evidence was in.

Senator Couzens (Republican), of Michigan, called the resolution a "gesture," a piece of "shadow boxing."

the present distracted and unsettled state of China is not what was in the contemplation of the high contracting parties at the time of the treaty of Washington.

"It was certainly not satisfactory then but it did not display that disunion and those antagonisms which it does today. This can not affect the binding character or the stipulations of the treaties; but it may in material respects modify their application, since they must necessarily be applied with reference to the state of facts as they exist.

"My government desires further to point out that any replacement which has occurred in the personnel of the administration of Manchuria has been the necessary act of the local population. Even in cases of hostile occupation—which this was not—it is customary for the local officials to remain in exercise of their functions.

"In the present case they, for the most part, fled or resigned; it was their own behavior which was calculated to destroy the working of the apparatus of government. The Japanese government can not think that the Chinese people, unlike all others, are destitute of the power of self-determination and of organizing themselves in order to secure civilized conditions when they are deserted by the existing officials.

(Associated Press.)

Chinese troops were understood in Harbin yesterday to be fighting among themselves in northern Manchuria for the first time since the beginning of the Sino-Japanese conflict.

An army belonging to Gov. Hsi Hsia, of Kirin Province, has been battling for several days near the town of Pinhsien, 60 miles east of Harbin, with an unidentified force. Fears were expressed that the hostilities might transgress the zone of the Chinese Eastern Railway, jointly owned and controlled by China and Russia.

Chinese newspapers in Tientsin reported that Chinese troops had reoccupied the important city of Tahushan on the Peiping-Mukden Railway, after 48 hours of heavy fighting with the Japanese, inflicting a hundred casualties.

Progress on New State.

Formation of an independent state comprising all Manchuria and Mongolia was reported in Japanese dispatches to Shanghai to be progressing rapidly at Mukden under the sponsorship of the Japanese military. It may be set up February 11.

A Japanese delegation in Tsingtao called at all newspaper offices and threatened reprisals if news unfavorable to Japan were published. Authorities were vigilant in fear of a repetition of the serious rioting between Japanese and Chinese early in the week.

Foreign Minister Eugene Chen denied in Nanking reports from Tokyo that he had broker off negotiations for a settlement with the Japanese minister after the issuance by Secretary of State Stimson of a note citing the nine-power treaty.

MURRAY DENOUNCES 'OWEN YOUNG TYPE'

Claims Election Would Mean Continuance of Hoover Policies and Slump.

Marshalltown, Iowa, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Gov. Murray of Oklahoma, himself the vehicle of a presidential boom, told Iowa Democrats here tonight that election of "a Democrat of the Owen D. Young type" would continue "the policies of Hoover and Mellon, * * * with bankruptcy and economic slavery staring in the face the middle class and all the poorer class."

Declaring the Government must be returned to the people soon, Murray said victory could not be won with a third party.

"I plead with everybody, let us capture the Democratic party," he said. "That would mean success and that would mean a restoration of the interests of the farmer and the little business man."

"The American people had just as well now understand that forces are working with a view of capturing both political parties. They have already captured the Republican, but want the Democrats as well," Gov. Murray asserted. "So that if a Democrat be nominated of the Owen D. Young type, head of the greatest monopoly in the world, the campaign will be a tame one and his election would mean a continuation of the policies of Hoover and Mellon and the continued price of 25 and 30 cent wheat and 4 and 5 cent cotton, with bankruptcy and economic slavery staring in the face the middle class and all the poorer class."

He said the third party idea was "the greatest danger to the people at this time," and added that "the flunkeys of the interests have seen to it that the election laws are so written that a new party can not get on the ticket in many States; in others it requires great effort, much money and organization.

"It is much easier for them (the people) to capture the Democratic party and use its organization for the betterment of the country than to organize a new party."

50-Day Hunger Strike Kills Plotter.

Cairo, Egypt, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Hussein Taha, who was serving a seven-year prison sentence for plotting to kill Premier Sidky Pasha, a year ago, died in prison after a 50-day hunger strike, the newspaper Guehad said today.

SENATOR JOSEPH T. ROBINSON.

WHEN Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, makes a speech—that is, a real, meaningful speech—he is nothing short of magnificent.

He is a big man, standing over 6 feet and weighing more than 200 pounds. In a physical tussle, there is perhaps no man in the Senate who could cope with him, unless it be the new member, Senator Warren "Whale" Barbour, of New Jersey, a former amateur heavyweight champion.

When Senator Robinson talks, it is like thunder rolling down a valley, punctuated by sharp cloud collisions. These collisions, of course, are the terrific raps that Robinson takes at his desk. A Robinson speech is indeed a grand thing to hear, and Robinson making a speech is an exciting spectacle to see.

For a man his age—he is 60—Robinson probably has had more experience in the science of government than any individual in Congress. He went to the Arkansas legislature when he was 22. He was elected to Congress when he was 31. He served four terms, and then quit to become governor of Arkansas. He had been governor only 12 days when he was elected to the United States Senate. That was in 1913. He has been there ever since, and for many years has been the minority leader. In 1928, he was Al Smith's running mate on the Democratic ticket. Senator and Mrs. Robinson live quietly in an apartment in the Methodist Building near the Capitol.

back to the Senate for consideration there before the conferees can be appointed.

Those voting against the bill were:

Republicans — Amlie, Christgau, Kading, Knutson, LaGuardia, Lambertson, McFadden, McGugin, Nelson of Wisconsin, Peavey, Schneider, Withrow.

Democrats—Ayres, Blanton, Carden, Cartwright, Chavez, Collins, Cross of Texas, Dickinson, Dies, Disney, Doxey, Eslick, Evans of Montana, Fullbright, Glover, Griffin, Griswold, Howard, Huddleston, Johnson of Missouri, Jones of Texas, Keller, Lanham, Lankford of Georgia, Larrabee, Milligan, Morehead, Nelson of Missouri, Norton of Nebraska, Parker of Georgia, Patman, Patterson, Pettingill, Polk, Rankin, Romjue, Sanders of Texas, Shallenberger, Shannon, Sumners of Texas, Swank, Williams of Texas, Wood of Georgia.

An outline of the legislation and the important differences between the House and Senate bills follow:

Differences Between Bills.

It sets up a corporation with a capital stock of $500,000,000 to be subscribed by the United States and appropriated for by Congress out of the national Treasury. It is authorized to sell bonds to the amount of $1,500,000,000, the proceeds to be used for loans.

Each director is to receive a salary of $10,000 annually, with no employe receiving more.

The directors and employes are prohibited from participating in any matter of personal interest to them.

The corporation is set up for ten years.

The House bill empowers the corporation to make loans to any bank, savings bank, trust company, building and loan association, insurance company, intermediate credit corporation and any agricultural or farmers' association incorporated under the laws of any State, and on the assets of any closed bank or bank in the process of liquidation.

The Senate bill excludes intermediate credit banks.

Limit On Loans.

All loans must be adequately secured and can not exceed three years, with extensions limited to two additional years. Loans to railroads must have the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Loans can not exceed 10 per cent of the authorized capital stock of any corporation.

The corporation has complete administrative authority over the type of collateral acceptable.

The House bill permits no loans or advances on foreign securities or acceptances, while the Senate put a $500,000,000 limit on them.

Bonds issued by the corporation in the House bill are exempt from all taxes except surtaxes, estate, inheritance and gift taxes, but the Senate measure does not except surtaxes.

After one year of making loans the corporation may liquidate its assets and wind up its affairs, and if the liquidation is not completed within ten years the duty will be turned over to the Secretary of the Treasury.

Heavy penalties are imposed for any criminal act toward the corporation.

Two Billion Bond Issue To Provide Jobs Urged

(Associated Press.)

A $2,000,000,000 long-term bond issue to provide money for an expanded public construction program was urged yesterday by Senator Wagner.

In a lengthy speech in the Senate assailing the Hoover relief program as insufficient, the New York Democrat warned the only effective check against the dole was more jobs through additional public works.

"The President says that he is opposed to any direct or indirect Government dole," he said. "These are hollow words of opposition. He knows that 70 per cent of the relief administered is provided through Government taxation.

and the most rigorous regulations for control of all armament manufacture under the Council of Ambassadors, which is almost exclusively under the dominion of the French general staff.

Signor Grandi's proposal for an arms holiday was dictated by motives of national economy, as Italy, with a narrow favorable balance of trade, can ill afford to embark on a ruinous armament race with any nation, particularly with such a neighbor as gold-endowed France.

The frequent occasions which the Italian foreign minister received here for discussing armament problems with President Hoover, as well as with his host, Secretary of State Stimson, provided the opportunity for spade work. Further diplomatic attention through the Italian Embassy here is hoped to bring forth at Geneva the first fruits of a preliminary understanding between the United States and Italy and perhaps between the United States and Germany as well. It was also recalled that Signor Grandi had graciously declined to call his arms truce the "Grandi" proposal, but he suggested the more popular title of an American-Italian proposal.

Anxious to Include U. S.

Signor Grandi's visit to Berlin before coming to the United States was the first step in the construction of the three-cornered understanding with which Italy and Germany hope the disarmament conference will open.

Italy and Germany have a common cause in the necessity for limitation of armament by any method, but they are represented in diplomatic circles as being most anxious to include the United States in their agreement.

Signor Grandi brought to the United States the outlines of the position which he and the German delegation will assume when the discussions begin next month. The State Department has been studying the entire question of disarmament from a unilateral viewpoint, however.

The American delegation, headed by such a "lone wolf" as Gen. Charles G. Dawes, will not participate in any specialized agreement from which all the other members of the conference would be eliminated, it is authoritatively believed.

Delegates Sail Wednesday.

The entire American delegation will sail on the President Harding, an American liner, on Wednesday. The chairman of the delegation, Gen. Dawes, is a guest at the White House at the present time and is reviewing the general propositions of the American program with several technical experts who will also accompany the delegates.

While Gen. Dawes will not be in attendance at the discussions for more than a fortnight after the opening sessions, the vice chairman, American Ambassador to Belgium Hugh Gibson, who is familiar with the entire question of arms limitation through his long experience on the various preparatory commissions, will take charge.

The most litigous feature of the preliminary discussions is expected to be the revised form of budgetary limitation, which has been now changed to arms limitation by self-comparative reduction. This would cause every country to reduce her armament by a certain percentage of her previous budget.

ECONOMISTS BEHIND RECOVERY FORMULA

Credit Expansion and Finance Corporation Urged in Revealed Program.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

New York, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—A financial program to restore better times—indorsed by more than 30 leading economists of the country—is rapidly taking root, it was explained in prominent banking quarters today.

The program, as announced by Warren M. Persons, consulting economist to a number of large corporations, is based upon the conclusion that recovery in the United States need not await solution of Europe's problems.

It urges credit expansion through cooperation of the Federal Reserve and the commercial banks, maintenance of the gold standard, governmental economies, and acceptance of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation proposal.

Wins Wide Approval.

Banking leaders who commented on the economists' program found it strongly reassuring, in view of the progress already being made toward carrying out the proposals, which the economists believe will inject new life blood into the business structure, tend to restore values, increase employment and strengthen banks. Bankers pointed particularly to the Federal Reserve system's recently initiated program of credit expansion and the progress of the reconstruction finance bill in Congress.

Dr. Persons, former professor of economics at Harvard, said the program had been finally agreed upon after two months of interchange of opinion, that it had the approval of numerous trade associations, farm organizations, and prominent individuals. Among the indorsing group of economists are such leaders as Dr. Edwin W. Kemmerer, of Princeton, monetary consultant of several governments; Dr. Edwin R. A. Seligman, emeritus professor of political economy, Columbia; William A. Berridge, economist, metropolitan Life Inusrance Co.; Prof. Frank W. Taussig, Harvard; Prof. Irving Fisher, Yale; David Friday, Washington economist, and many others.

List of Recommendations.

The economists state that the depression will not cure itself, but requires prompt, intelligent, and vigorous action.

Their recommendations follow:

"The enactment of the bill establishing the reconstruction finance corporation to deal more effectively with emergency situations; proper economy in municipal, State, and national budgets, and increased taxation; a liberal Federal reserve policy, designed to check credit contraction and encourage some expansion, and a commercial banking policy cooperating with the reserve banks in checking credit decreases and encouraging increases."

The commercial banking policy, they say, should include "an increase in sound investments; cooperating in aiding necessary Treasury financing, and borrowing from the Federal Reserve banks when necessary to meet these and other sound needs."

It is explained that these recommendations represent merely the highest common factor upon which agreement among the economists was found possible, and that matters not touched upon are not omitted because they are considered unimportant.

Opinion in Wall Street.

Regarding the proposed expansion of bank credit, it was recalled in Wall street that George L. Harrison, governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, recently pointed to the $6,500,000,000 shrinkage in bank credit in the past two years, and said "deflation must stop if we hope to see any early turn in the tide." He explained that reserve has gold to provide an expansion of Federal Reserve credit by $3,500,000,000, which would be used as the base for a stupendous increase in banking credit, theoretically as much as $35,000,000,000.

Also, Charles E. Mitchell, in his annual report as chairman of the National City Bank, said on Tuesday, "the chief problem is to eliminate uncertainty and fear as influencing factors, and so to bring about a check to deflation and a basis for a flow of Reserve Bank credit that will give the banker greater ability to lend, reawaken in business men a desire to proceed with their plans involving the use of credit, and encourage the investor to reenter the security markets."

Police Official and Aid Killed in Plane Crash

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Lieut. Tremain M. Hughes, flying trooper and idol of the rough riders of Troop D, State police, crashed to his death at dusk today with Corporal Theophilus Gaines, in a State-owned plane recently placed in official service.

He and his companion were trapped in a pyre of wreckage after the open cockpit ship clipped a tree and dropped to the side of the Cazenovia-Peterboro highway. No one saw the accident, although it happened between two farm houses and virtually within a stone's throw of either. The cause probably never will be known.

PROMPT FINANCING SEEN FOR U.S. BODY

Officials of Treasury and Bankers Pave Way for New Corporation.

New York, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Leading American financial interests, including United States Treasury Department officials and private bankers as well, are already clearing the way for successful and prompt financing of the proposed new $2,000,000,000 reconstruction finance corporation.

Instead of withholding action of any kind until the pending bill before Congress was finally passed, these Government leaders and public spirited men in private life have given preliminary study to the best way for meeting the large money requirements the new corporation will need. Thus, a minimum of delay would be encountered.

Bankers said today that the present week's rally in United States Government securities, was an excellent augury that buyers would readily purchase securities to be floated to give the reconstruction finance corporation the money needed for its operation.

Temporary Halt in Liberties.

A temporary setback, which occurred in the market for Liberties today, had been anticipated as a natural "breathing spell" after the spirited gains of the last few days.

While detailed plans for financing the proposed corporation can not be worked out until the corporation is authorized by Congress, a general basic understanding has been reached on the essentials, bankers explained.

The first step, it was indicated by a banking authority today, would be the issuance of short-term paper by the United States Treasury. Proceeds from this offering, probably $500,000,000, will be subscribed to the corporation as capital.

Later financing, if necessary, will be arranged, he said, through the offering of the corporation's own securities as contrasted with Treasury Department securities. These will be debenture bonds.

May Not Need $2,000,000,000.

Bankers said it was entirely likely that the Treasury Department's furnishing of $500,000,000 capital funds to the corporation might represent all the financing necessary. While the corporation, as now planned, will have $2,000,000,000 in potential credit resources, it is improbable that so large an amount may not be called into use. When the War Finance Corporation operations were at their peak, total loans outstanding did not exceed $280,000,000, although Congress had provided that substantially more credit resources should be constantly at the disposal of the corporation.

Receivers Appointed For Securities House

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Herbert L. Nichols, of Chicago, and John K. Garrigues, of Wilmington, today were appointed receivers by Chancellor J. O. Wolcott for the American Commonwealth Securities Corporation, of New York, upon application of Daniel A. Hegarty, of New York, a creditor.

MRS. GANDHI PEEVED BY SHORT SENTENCE

Leader's Wife Gets 6 Weeks in Jail; Vows She Will Repeat Offense.

Bombay, India, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Mahatma Gandhi's wife, a little old lady of 60, went to jail today for six weeks because she had taken up where her husband had left off in the Nationalist campaign for independence.

The comparatively short sentence they gave her touched her pride. "Why do you send me away for only six weeks?" she cried as a court attendant led her out. "Do you want me free again so quickly to take the lathi blows with the rest of my countrymen? I won't keep quiet even after I am released. Give me the same sentence you give my sisters."

But the judge only shook his head. "What's done is done," he said. "I am helpless."

Mrs. Gandhi picked up her Hindu Bible and her spinning wheel and followed the jailor.

Up to that outburst she had taken no part in the hearing, in accordance with the Nationalist boycott of the British courts. When they took her husband away from her several weeks ago she pleaded with the police to arrest her, too, but they left her behind with a warning to do nothing which would violate the law.

When they got through with her today the court imposed a sentence of three and one-half months at hard labor, with a fine of 100 rupees, on Miss Maniben Patel, daughter of the imprisoned president of the Nationalist Congress for taking part in an unlawful assembly.

Sentences were imposed also on two other leaders of the Nationalist movement, one of them Abdul Guffar Khan, sometimes called the "Frontier Gandhi."

Al Smith's Son, 22, Held in Auto Death

Released in Bail After His Car Kills Man; Hearing Is Next Friday.

New York, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Walter Smith, 22 years old, youngest son of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, was held today on a technical charge of homicide. He had been arrested early in the morning at Harlem Hospital after his car had struck and fatally injured Harry Wallace, 55.

Police absolved Smith, a college student, saying the accident was unavoidable. They filed the homicide charge against him, however, as a matter of routine.

The youth covered his face with his hands when he appeared before Magistrate H. Stanley Renaud in Homicide Court. His brother, Alfred E. Smith, jr., and John Glynn appeared for him and were granted an adjournment until Friday, January 22. Bail of $1,000 was arranged.

Wallace, police said, was crossing the street against the traffic lights when he stepped in front of young Smith's car, and was caught by the windshield as Smith swerved in an effort to avoid hitting him.

Civil Service Board Of Appeals Proposed

(Associated Press.)

Creation of a civil service board of appeals to deal with injustices to Government workers from their superiors was proposed yesterday by Representative Sirovich (Democrat), New York.

The President would appoint the board's three members from among employes' association heads of twenty years or more service. Under the Sirovich resolution this board would hear and adjust appeals on efficiency ratings and other complaints.

gaged in business in violation of Federal law.

Mr. Gregg said he did not know whether Mr. Mellon owns stock in 300 corporations with resources of $3,000,000,000.

"Mr. Mellon controls no corporation," he emphasized. "He does not own more than 50 per cent of the stock in any corporation. I do not regard his family as an issue."

Another time he said Mr. Mellon owned "about 15 per cent" of the stock of the Aluminum Co. of America.

Mr. Gregg drew on his own seven years of experience in the Internal Revenue Bureau, of which he was once chief counsel, to say:

"The Secretary of the Treasury has never passed on a tax refund since 1920. I know that of my own knwledge."

Since being Secretary, he said, Mr. Mellon has received $91,000 in refunds, the largest of which was described "clearly allowable" by the joint congressional tax committee, and had been assessed $209,000 in additional taxes.

Mr. Gregg said Secretary Mellon disposed of all his bank stocks and created an irrevocable trust to dispose of his distillery holdings before taking office. He denied the Secretary ever used his influence to further the use of aluminum in public buildings.

Other Secretaries of the Treasury, Mr. Gregg said, including William G. McAdoo and Carter Glass, now senator from Virginia, had owned stock.

Stock Ownership Legal.

"It seems to me," he said just before the committee adjourned, "that the history and the uniform construction has been that ownership of stock is not in itself sufficient to disqualify a man under the statute now under consideration."

A message from President Olaya to the Colombian Congress in June, 1931, urging it to approve the Barco oil concession to make it possible for the country to obtain credit was read yesterday to the Senate finance committee.

The message was submitted by Senator Johnson (Republican), California, who has attempted to find out whether there was any connection between a $4,000,000 loan to Colombia last year and the granting of the valuable oil concession to the Gulf Oil Co. ten days previously.

Assistant Secretary White, of the State Department, who was on the witness stand, pointed out the contract for the loan had been made a year previous and the National City Co. was obligated to extend it. He contended President Olaya's message was designed to clear the way for future credits.

Bankers Held Up Loan.

"The fact is," Senator Johnson replied, "the bankers held up the credit they were obligated to give. They wouldn't and didn't give it until the Barco concession was granted."

"That is true," Mr. White replied.

President Olaya in his message said Colombia needed outside capital and told the Congress when J. P. Morgan & Co. had been approached for a loan, its officials expressed the view that such difficulties as revolved about the Barco concession "created in banking circles an impression of definite resistance to the investment of capital in Colombia or loans to its government."

Senator Johnson also read a Colombian newspaper interview with President Olaya of August 7, 1931, in which he told of a conversation with Secretary Mellon in Washington at a dinner given by Secretary Stimson. President Olaya, according to the newspaper, quoted Mr. Mellon as saying:

"Settle your pending questions on petroleum, decide fairly and justly the difficulties which have been presented in this respect and once you have adopted a policy which gives stability to industrial activities in this branch, there will be opened for Colombia, no doubt, ample ways for its economic progress and for its financial restoration."

A statement from Secretary Mellon read before the House judiciary committee yesterday said his conversation with Olaya concerned general subjects only.

Newport, R. I., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Charles M. Oelrichs, 73, prominent for many years in the Newport Society Colony, died today after two months illness.

He leaves three children, Mrs. Harrison Tweed, whose pen name is Michael Strange and whose former husbands were John Barrymore and Leonard M. Thomas; Charles de L. Oelrich and Harry Oelrich. Mr. Oelrich was born in Baltimore in 1858.

Miss Lewis to Be Bride Of John M. Cabot 3d

Mexico City, Jan. 15 (U.P.).—The engagement of Miss Elizabeth Lewis, daughter of the late Herbert Pickering Lewis, of Chicago, to John M. Cabot 3d., secretary at the United States embassy, was announced last night. The wedding will be April 2.

Mrs. William Frazer, of Mexico City, is the mother of Miss Lewis. Cabot is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Lowell Cabot, of Boston.

Song Hit of Bing Crosby Held Plagiarized in Suit

New York, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Bing Crosby, stage and radio singer, was made defendant in a Federal district court suit today by Serge Walter and Ross Mobley, authors of the song "Jealous." They claim the "At Your Command" that Crosby sings is a plagiarism of it. Harry Tobias and Harry Barris, who composed "At Your Command," are joint defendants.

The plaintiffs' demand an accounting for all profits, with triple damages and destruction of all infringing records, plates and copies.

Forces Desert Hoover, J. I. France Declares

New York, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Asserting the Hoover forces are "being deserted on all sides," former United States Senator Joseph Irwin France, of Maryland, arrived here today to open headquarters from which to conduct his own campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

The former senator declared himself in favor of repealing the Volstead act first and then the eighteenth amendment.

POLICE IN HONOLULU FACE QUICK CHANGE

Hawaiian Officials to Speed Reorganization; Massie Cases at Standstill.

Honolulu, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Already facing two investigations into Honolulu's crime situation and its climax in attacks on women and a resort to lynch law, the Territorial administration acted today for a quick reorganization of the city's allegedly inefficient and politically crippled police department. A bill designed to purge the department of politics and provide it with an appointive instead of an elected head was prepared for presentation to the special session of the Territorial Legislature Monday.

Legislative authorities said they expected the bill to become a law within four days after convening of the lawmaking body, which was summoned by Gov. Lawrence M. Judd especially to deal with the crime situation.

Blamed by a congressional committee for acts which allegedly contributed toward the recent trouble, Gov. Judd also promised to ask the Legislature to make the crime of rape punishable by death or life imprisonment.

The matter of bringing to trial Mrs. Granville Fortescue, society matron; Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N., and two Navy enlisted men charged with the murder of Joseph Kahahawai, one of Mrs. Massie's alleged attackers, was at a standstill temporarily.

Montgomery Winn, defense attorney, announced they would waive preliminary hearing, which had been set for tomorrow. City and County Attorney Gilliland said he was unprepared for any hearing tomorrow.

Winn's announcement means the defendants probably will not appear in court until after indictment and are called for arraignment. Gilliland said the case would be presented to the grand jury "early next week." The grand jury was organized today. Deputy Prosecutor Griffith Wight said its first work would be six routine cases.

Gilliland charged that the investigations in Washington constituted a move "to get me out of office" and said he would have "a few things to tell the investigators myself."

In charging and qualifying the grand jury, Circuit Judge Charles E. Davis stressed the importance of its duties and urged it to refrain from heeding "well minded individuals who sometimes attempt to influence the action of the grand jury and the administration of justice."

All the grand jurors, who will pass upon the case of Mrs. Fortescue, Lieut. Massie and the enlisted men, Albert O. Jones and E. J. Lord, told the court they were citizens and voters and could understand, read and write English.

4 Cabinet Officers Called In Senate Hawaiian Quiz

(Associated Press).

The Honolulu law enforcement crisis moved into the muted machinery of Federal investigation yesterday, but four department heads were called upon to talk it over publicly today.

The Senate territories committee summoned Attorney General Mitchell and Secretaries Adams, Wilbur and Hurley. Meanwhile Assistant Attorney General Seth W. Richardson, began detailed plans for an on-the-ground inquiry.

Chairman Bingham, of the Senate group, said he wanted the Cabinet members to "tell what they know" and "what they're going to do." He added:

"From what I hear and read it looks as though they've got the situation in hand in Honolulu. From what I've seen in the papers it would seem the police have not been very effective, but the legislature apparently is ready to remedy that."

Otherwise public men refrained from comment on conditions brought to a climax by a charge of murder against four Americans for killing an Hawaiian suspected of assaulting a Navy officer's wife. Richardson expects to sail on January 29, from San Francisco, with at least half a dozen helpers. He is in charge of the Department's Senate-ordered examination of Hawaiian law and its enforcement.

Mr. Bingham said that the hearing today is a matter of preparation for disposing of the McKellar resolution, for direct Senate investigation, "if and when it is referred to us."

Secretary Hurley and Secretary Adams each will be requested to tell what they can of "the situation respecting their forces and the civilians," Senator Bingham said, and Secretary Wilbur will be asked for all the information he has. Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of Naval operations, also was summoned, as was Victor Houston, Hawaiian delegate to Congress.

DR. KLEIN'S "BOMB" PROVES TO BE DUD

the magazine. They knew what to do, too. Six marines, armed with service rifles, retired safely from the box, resting in the middle of a field, and fired at it. Still it didn't explode. Long pincers and mirrors were utilized to pry it open, the operators of the pincers behind an iron screen. Still it didn't go off.

Growing impatient, somebody looked over the screen.

"Just some kind of pills," he said. And so it was—a box full of white powder and broken pills. Originally the wooden container had been packed full of white, glistening cubes, but the impact of rifle bullets had broken most of them into powder. A dynamite cap was inserted into the powder and fired, but nothing happened. The powder was put into water, and still nothing happened. The powder was heated, and it burned in a tired manner, slowly and with lots of blue, sputtering sparks.

It was late in the afternoon then. Dr. Monroe would analyze it in the morning. And in the meantime the policemen, still unable to get rid of the stuff, took it to police headquarters. They think Washington ought to have a regular bomb squad.

Even while the policemen were escorting the box from place to place Dr. Klein did not believe it was a bomb. People often sent him samples of things to analyze, and he was expecting bird seed and some canned heat from Chicago, where the package was mailed, he said. The paper wrappings on the wooden box said to return it to "401 29 South LaSalle street, Chicago."

The Mystery of Life

By H. G. WELLS

IT is impossible to dismiss mystery from life. Being is altogether mysterious. Mystery is all about us and in us, the inconceivable permeates us, it is "closer than breathing and nearer than hands and feet." For all we know, that which we are may rise at death from living, as an intent player wakes up from his absorption when a game comes to an end, or as a spectator turns his eyes from the stage as the curtain falls, to look at the auditorium he has for a time forgotten. These are pretty metaphors, that have nothing to do with the game or the drama of space and time. Ultimately the mystery may be the only thing that matters, but within the rules and limits of the game of life, when you are catching trains or paying bills or earning a living, the mystery does not matter at all.

* * * *

It is this sense of an unfathomable reality to which not only life but all present being is but a surface, it is this realization "of the gulf beneath all seeming and of the silence above all sounds," which makes a modern mind impatient with the tricks and subterfuges of those ghost-haunted metaphysicians and creed-entangled apologists who are continually asserting and clamoring that science is dogmatic—with would-be permanent dogmas that are forever being overthrown. They try to degrade science to their own level. But she has never pretended to that finality which is the quality or religious dogmas. Science pits no dogmas against the dogmas of the ghost worshipers. Only sometimes, when perforce science touches their dogmas, do these latter dissolve away. Science is of set intention superficial. It touches religious dogma only in so far as religious dogma is materialistic, only in so far as religious dogma is a jumble of impossible stories about origins and destinies in space and time, a story pretending to a "spirituality" that is merely a dreamy, crazy attenuation of things material. And even then does it touch these dogmas only because they involve magic irrational distractions, interferences and limitations of the everyday life of man.

* * * *

I WISH that there was a plain and popular book in existence upon the history of scientific ideas. It would be fascinating to reconstruct the intellectual atmosphere that surrounded Galileo and show the pre-existing foundations on which his ideas were based. Or ask what did Gilbert, the first student of magnetism, know, and what was the ideology with which the natural philosophers of the Stuart period had to struggle. It would be very interesting and illuminating to trace the rapid modification of these elementary concepts as the scientific process became vigorous and spread into general thought.

Few people realize how recent that invasion is, how new the current diagram of the universe is, and how recently the ideas of modern science have reached the commoner sort of people. The present writer is 65. When he was a little boy his mother taught him out of a book she valued very highly, "Magnell's Questions." It had been her own school book. It was already old-fashioned, but it was still in use and on sale. It was a book on the eighteenth-century plan of question and answer, and it taught that there were four elements—earth, air, fire and water.

These four elements are as old, at least, as Aristotle. It never occurred to me in my white-sock and plaid-petticoat days to ask in what proportion these fundamental ingredients were mixed in myself or the tablecloth or my bread and milk. I just swallowed them as I swallowed the bread and milk.

From Aristotle I made a stride to the eighteenth century. The two elements of the Arabian alchemists, sulphur and mercury, I never heard of then, nor of Paracelsus and his universe of salt, sulphur, mercury, water and the vital elixir. None of that ever got through to me. I went to a boys' school, and there I learnt, straightaway, that I was made up of hard, definite molecules, built up of hard, definite indestructible atoms of carbon, oxygen, hydrogen, nitrogen, phosphorus, calcium, sodium, chlorine, and a few others. These were the real elements. They were shown plainly in my textbook like peas or common balls suitably grouped. That also I accepted for a time without making any fuss about it. I do not remember parting with the Four Elements: they got lost and I went on with the new lot.

* * * *

AT another school and then at the Royal College of Science I learnt of a simple eternity of atoms and force. But the atoms now began to be less solid and simple. We talked very much of ether and protyle at the Royal College, but protons and electrons were still to come, and atoms, though taking on strange shapes and movements, were intact. Atoms could neither be transformed nor destroyed, but forces, though they could not be destroyed, could be transformed. This indestructibility of the chameleon of force was the celebrated Conservation of Energy, which has since lost prestige, though it remains as a sound working generalization for the everyday engineer.

* * * *

But in those days, when I debated and philosophized with my fellow students, I was speedily made aware that these atoms and molecules were not realities at all; they were, it was explained to me, essentially mnemonics; they satisfied, in the simplest possible arrangement of material models and images, what was needed to assemble and reconcile the known phenomena of matter. That was all they were. That I grasped without much difficulty. There was no shock to me, therefore, when presently new observations necessitated fresh elaborations of the model. My schoolmaster had been a little too crude in his instructions. He had not been a scientific man, but only a teacher of science. He had been an unredeemed Realist, teaching science in a dogmatic Realist way. Science, I now understand, never contradicts herself absolutely, but she is always busy in revising her classifications and touching up and rephrasing her earlier cruder statements. Science never professes to present more than a working diagram of fact. She does not explain, she states the relations and associations of facts as simply as possible.

Her justification for her diagrams lies in her increasing power to change matter. The test of all her theories is that they work. She has always been true, and continually she becomes truer. But she never expects to reach Ultimate Truth.

FLETCHER STARTS DRIVE TO GET POST OF DAWES

Hoover to appoint him to the Court of St. James.

Such a move is unusually audacious in a matter so delicate as a diplomatic appointment.

Mr. Fletcher's telegram to Senators David A. Reed and James J. Davis and the 31 Republican representatives from Pennsylvania follows:

"I would sincerely appreciate your willingness to unite with other Republican members of our Congressional delegation in earnestly urging upon the President my appointment to succeed Gen. Dawes as Ambassador to London.

"Please consult or notify Dr. Temple or Representative Henry W. Temple (dean of the delegation), if you are willing to join. Pennsylvania has not had the London post since before the Civil War."

Mr. Fletcher, so it is reported in political and diplomatic circles, has long coveted the London assignment. He expected to get it (or else the post of Secretary of State) at the outset of the Hoover administration.

He was Ambassador to Italy in 1926, having been appointed four years before by President Coolidge. He returned to this country to vote, and afterward Mr. Hoover, then the President-elect, asked him to go along on the South American tour as guide and friend. Fletcher did.

When Mr. Hoover took office and began making appointments, Fletcher got neither of the posts he wanted. Gen. Dawes was named Ambassador to Great Britain, and Henry L. Stimson was made Secretary of State.

Later on President Hoover asked Mr. Fletcher to accept appointment as chairman of the reorganized Tariff Commission. The Pennsylvanian declined at first, but finally accepted, stipulating, however, that he would not remain very long.

May be Disappointed.

A few months ago Fletcher resigned as chairman of the commission. Not long thereafter it was reported that he would be made chairman of the American delegation to the Geneva arms conference. This honor, however, went to Ambassador Dawes. Fletcher, it was reported, was offered a place on the delegation, but declined.

Now it appears that Mr. Fletcher, notwithstanding his career of a quarter of a century in the Nation's diplomatic service, is to be disappointed again. In well-informed circles yesterday, it was said that the President will not appoint him as Ambassador to Great Britain.

Senator Reed is among the half dozen or more men who, according to reports, may be named. Commenting on these reports yesterday, Senator Reed said:

"I am not a candidate, and I have urged the President several times to name Mr. Fletcher as Ambassador to England."

Extensive Position.

Reed added that he could not afford the position.

So far as money is concerned, Fletcher is well qualified for the post of Ambassador to Great Britain. He is a wealthy man. The fact is he would have to be, for the post calls for entertainment on a lavish scale.

The ambassador receives a salary of $17,500, and out of this he is supposed to pay for entertainment. To adequately entertain in London, however, an ambassador must spend at least $100,000 a year.

All of those who are being mentioned for the post are wealthy men, as, for example, Undersecretary of State William R. Castle, jr., who has vast holdings in Hawaii, and Henry M. Robinson, California banker.

Pennsylvania politicians here suggested yesterday that behind Mr. Fletcher's bold move to get the London post, was bad news from William S. Vare, Republican boss of Philadelphia. Vare, so it is said, has decided that Senator Davis has to get out of the Senate when his term expires. Three men have been suggested as Davis' successor—Vare himself, Fletcher and Representative James M. Beck.

Fletcher sent his wire here, it is reported, immediately after a conference with Vare, or with some of Vare's lieutenants. The supposition is that he was told that he would not be supported by the organization if he ran in the primary.

If Vare himself does not run, it is expected that the Vare machine will line up behind Representative Beck.

Jury Fails to Indict 'Mercy' Case Killer

Father Who Chloroformed Baby Will Be Given Test of Sanity.

Millersburg, Ohio, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—A grand jury today refused to indict a father who killed his baby because it was incurably ill.

Fifteen men and women who have pondered the case since Monday, recommended that James Stenhouse, a stonecutter of Killbuck, near here, be given a sanity test and if found insane to be committed to an asylum. He had confessed to slaying his 2-year-old son, David Oscar.

The "merciful killer" maintained that "I know I did right." He said the baby was suffering from a brain disease which the doctor said was incurable. He chloroformed the child two years ago to spare his wife the agony of her grief, he said in a confession as related by Sheriff John A. Stevens.

Mrs. Stenhouse, standing firm with her husband, was the chief witness before the grand jury.

Driven by the fear of being found out the stonecutter walked into the sheriff's office last week and confessed, Sheriff Stevens said. Stenhouse, according to his story, was unable to forget the deed, and frequently went on drinking sprees to bolster him up to keep his secret.

River Pirates Rob Ship Of $400 at Baltimore

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Two river pirates boarded the steamship H. F. De Bardelieben early today, held the captain, his wife and a representative of the owners at pistol point, and escaped with $400 from the ship's safe.

Capt. Chas. T. Knight said he recently had discharged several members of the crew. Police began rounding them up for questioning. The ship is owned by the Balk Transportation Co., of New Orleans.

COAST GUARD CRAFT RAMMED BY COLLIER

Casualties Believed Few in Crash Off New York; Two Ships Are Crippled.

New York, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Somewhere off New London, Conn., tonight two crippled ships were limping into port.

One was the Coast Guard destroyer Herndon, with a gaping hole in her forward fireroom. She was being towed by the collier Lemuel Burrows, which rammed her in dank fog midway between Montauk Point and Block Island early this afternoon.

The Herndon carried 85 men and 8 officers, and the Lemuel Burrows, a coastwise steamer, usually carries 38 men.

The tow was making about 5 knots toward New London, Conn., Coast Guard advices said. The Herndon was being hauled stern first.

Four other Coast Guard ships converged upon the scene shortly after darkness, but their assistance was not needed. The cutters Champlain and Boutwell and the destroyers Wilkes and Wainwright fell into line and wirelessed they would escort the tow.

Coast Guard officials here said they had received no casualty reports, but Commander J. F. Farley, acting chief of staff of the destroyer force, at New London, Conn., announced receipt of a radio saying the Herndon's crew had suffered a few minor injuries.

Plates were ripped away from the port side of the Herndon from the wardroom pantry to the No. 1 fireroom, Commander Farley said.

For 54 minutes after the crash, broadcasting stations were silenced, while the air was filled with a confusion of crackling messages, most of them from the Burrows.

The first message—a blunt "S O S" — came from the Herndon at 12:40 p. m. It was then that land stations were silenced, while wireless men strained their ears to pick other faint messages out of the fog-filled air.

Finally, after many garbled messages the Burrows wirelessed she had the Herndon in tow, but she still sent out calls for help. It was impossible to ascertain whether these calls meant the Herndon was in danger or whether the Burrows needed assistance in the towing.

Coastguardsmen at headquarters refused to be alarmed. Even if the Herndon's fire room were flooded, they said, her other watertight compartments would keep her afloat. The chief uneasiness was the possibility that some of the complement of 93 officers and men might have been hurt or lost overboard.

Then came the second scary message—the Burrows towline had snapped and the Herndon was again adrift.

There followed another period of confusion, in which it was once reported that the tanker Yorba Linda had the Herndon in tow. The situation was not cleared up until 3:20 p. m., when the Burrows wirelessed: "Again have Herndon in tow."

The Coast Guard said the message regarding the Yorba Linda probably was confused with her announcement that she had changed her course to head for the scene.

Neither the Coast Guard, the Mackay Radio Corporation nor the Radio Marine Corporation could estimate the exact position of the two vessels. At dusk, however, it was believed they were about 75 miles off New London. The sea tonight was fairly calm, with only a slight sea.

Lieut. A. C. Richmond, second in command of the Coast Guard destroyer Herndon, is son of Mrs. Lucy T. Day, of Cherrydale, Va. He attended George Washington University in 1920 and 1921 and was a member of the varsity football squad his last year there. In 1922 he went to the Coast Guard Academy and was graduated with the highest record in his class.

Theological Professor Wins on Heresy Appeal

Capetown, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Prof. Duplessis, of the Steelenbosch Theological College of the Dutch Reformed Church, today won an appeal from a conviction of heresy, ending a trial which has stirred religious feelings in South Africa for many months.

He was charged with heresy on the ground that he taught that the Bible is inspired in its main purpose but not in its details. The commission of the synod, highest court of the church, convicted him last March and disciplinary action was taken. Subsequently he pleaded successfully that nothing in his teaching was opposed to the laws of the church.

1,900,000 RAIL MEN TOLD PAY CUT VITAL

Workers Reply With Request for More Employment; Accord Predicted.

Chicago, Jan. 15 (U.P.).—Executives of America's railroads told their 1,900,000 employes formally today a 10 per cent reduction in pay for one year is necessary for the future prosperity of the country's steam transportation lines.

The workers replied that they needed immediate relief for their unemployed, to be provided through a shorter working day and week and a general stabilization of railroad jobs.

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio and chairman of a committee of nine railroads, presented capital's program to keep the railways out of the sheriff's hands.

Robertson Takes Floor.

He then turned the floor over to David B. Robertson, leader of 21 railroad union presidents, who spent the rest of the afternoon explaining labor's needs. He asked that the average force of employes be assured of work for one year; that the six-hour day be put into effect; that Federal compensation laws be enacted for the benefit of the worker, and that competing forms of transportation be regulated.

Mr. Robertson detailed the unions' stand at the unprecedented conference between the railroad worker and owner at the Palmer House. When he had finished Mr. Willard told newspapermen:

"Mr. Robertson presented a clear and constructive program in a most statesmanlike way."

Mr. Willard will explain the railroads' stand more fully tomorrow, whereupon both sides will argue their demands. All delegates were optimistic in the belief that they would reach a definite decision some time next week.

The first day's negotiations, started after three delays asked by the railroad presidents, tended to bear out the exclusive United Press dispatch of last Tuesday, which said the workers would accept a 10 per cent wage cut for a year in exchange for greatly increased employment.

Conference Is Secret.

So important was the conference considered that both the railroad owners and their workers insisted it must not fail. Their representatives met amicably in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House.

On one side of a long, white-clothed table sat nine railroad presidents, headed by Mr. Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. Mr. Willard and his cohorts were empowered by the 210 Class A railroads in the United States to "negotiate to a conclusion" all wage and employment problems.

The conference was secret. Guards inspected the ballroom balcony to see that no spies were hiding behind the artificial palms. Other guards stood at the gilded doors.

Farmer and Rich Man Yet May Meet on Even Terms

By JOHN J. DALY

CONSIDER the farmer and the laboring man, though the farmer, per se, is also a laboring man—and how.

They toil and they spin. They spin and they toil, and at the end of it what have they? Broken backs and the sweat on their brows.

Senator Borah, looking over the high-salaried list of Government officials who sit at desks, smoke their pipes, and prescribe ways and means of selling surplus crops and putting the unemployed to work, says that something ought to be done about this. So he wants a lot of salaries cut.

Starting with the Vice President of the United States, coming then to the Speaker of the House, down through the Cabinet members, the members of Congress, and into the very Farm Board itself, the senator from Idaho would work havoc with the bimonthly pay checks.

The idea is to reduce all high-powered Government officials to the comparative status of the farmer and the laborer. It is pointed out that last year the farmer drew an average income of $600 and the laboring man twice that much.

Government officials, especially the staff of the State Department, the elite of the service, if they must meet the farmers on common ground, will do away with high silk hats and spats, striped trousers and fancy waistcoats, and go to work in overalls.

'Twould be a grand sight to see a Cabinet meeting called, the members riding to the White House on horseback, or driving one-hoss shays.

* * * *

YET, this would be merely a return to that Democratic simplicity which prevailed in the early and austere days of the Republic. Then, men were men and women were not bridge hounds, statesmen were statesmen and politicians paid their compliments to the pee-pul, listening for the echo of Vox Populi. Old Glory proudly waved from its masthead, fluttering over the land of the free and the home of the brave—a land free from panicky feelings and men brave enough to have the courage of their convictions. They looked their fellows in the eye and told them where to get off.

The senator's measure is a temporary one, so he states, and would be in operation only two years.

In that time the country could return to the status that obtained when poet laureates of the land sang virtues of the barefoot boy, their blessings on the little man with ruddy lips and cheeks of tan.

From such wholesome stock came the farmer.

Should they live like farmers, it would be expected of Cabinet members, congressmen and other officials that they get out in the early morning and pitch hay while the sun shines. It would mean a return to safe and sane living, as it was lived on the Sabine Farm—early to bed and early rising.

COCKTAIL parties would go the way of the world. The afternoon tea would be "out." Diplomatic receptions would be superseded by corn huskings. Glory of glories, the 5-cent cigar would return and burn up on one side.

Pay-cut bills strike terror in the hearts of the beholders, naturally. Pay cuts mean the postponement of haircuts and shaves, shoe shines and shampoos—all the niceties of life as it is lived on a Government pay roll.

The consolation is that it will not be long before everything rights itself. Once the men who occupy the seats of the mighty start living like farmers they will see to it that the farmer begins life on the grand scale. It means riding to work in limousines, wearing morning coats and boutonnieres in lapels—a high heart and a light foot. When this day comes America will have attained the heights. Farmers will reap huge returns in monetary reward.

It is, of course, the dream of centuries—ever since it was said, "Blessed are the meek, for they shall possess the land"—and till it, too.

FAMILIES TRAPPED IN SLEEP BY FLOOD

Lives in Tippo Basin Are Menaced; Homeless Now Number 30,000.

Swan Lake, Miss., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—A new 10-foot flood swept down on a thousand Tippo Basin homes tonight as the families, unaware of the danger, slept in their already surrounded houses.

Three major breaks north of here at dusk gave the signal that the rampant Tallahatchie River had won its five weeks' battle for the Tippo Basin. It was also the signal for men who have relentlessly sought to choke the river into its artificial banks to turn as actively to rescuing the thousands of persons in the path of the released waters.

Fear was expressed that the sudden rise might cause a heavy loss of life.

Most of the homes in the basin were surrounded by water from a break at Sharkey last week. Yesterday the water was deepened considerably by crumbling of the levee across from Glendora 3 miles down the river.

Complete collapse of the levees north of here today, however, will probably send most of the families to their roof tops to await rescue. Adding to the missery is a drop in temperature which, while not severe, will cause acute discomfort.

E. P. Krick, Red Cross disaster relief director, tonight appealed to all northern Mississippi cities to cooperate in immediate concentration of boats at Glendora.

Glendora, Miss., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—A Red Cross estimate of 30,000 persons driven from their homes and $100,000 needed for immediate relief work in north Mississippi flood area was made today as the rivers were reinforced by new rains and a breakdown of the dyke system threatened.

Rescue boats sped over the basin last night and today, bring refugees to higher ground.

shows from 4 to 10 degrees more than the official temperature, but yesterday it was only 1 degree above Thursday the official mark was 76, but the kiosk showed 82, the highest registered during the current wave, and four above yesterday's official maximum.

Spring flowers growing from bulbs, such as tulips, hyacinths and daffodils, will not be harmed by subsequent cold weather, even though the warm days have brought them above ground, according to the Department of Agriculture. If the stalks are not more than two inches above ground, they can stand temperatures as low as 20 degrees below zero. In case extremely cold weather is predicted, they may be covered with a light mulch, such as straw or pine boughs, but this must be removed as soon as the cold snap is over.

Prof. Shepherd to Lecture in Vienna.

New York, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Appointment of William R. Shepherd, Seth Low professor of history in Columbia University, as visiting Carnegie professor at the University of Vienna was announced today by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia.

PUBLIC WORKS BODY GOAL OF ENGINEERS

Council Indorses Measure to Speed Up Building During Slumps.

A movement to align the Nation's 100,000 professional engineers in support of legislation to create an administration of public works was launched yesterday by the American Engineering Council on the first day of its meeting here at the Mayflower Hotel.

William S. Lee, of Charlotte, N. C., vice chairman of the Duke Endowment, was elected president of the council yesterday. L. B. Stillwell and Gen. Richard C. Marshall, jr., of New York, were chosen vice presidents. Farley Osgood, of New York, was named treasurer, succeeding Dr. Harrison E. Howe, of this city.

The council, composed of 30 large engineering corporations, will push for enactment in the present Congress a bill introduced by Representative Cochran (Democrat), of Missouri, to accelerate public construction in periods of business depression through the creation of an administration of public works.

Members of the council asserted that much economy in administration and balancing of the Federal budget would be accomplished by the general principles of the Cochran measure. A number of emandments will be suggested by the council.

Opposition to the bill of Senator Fess (Republican), Ohio, which would amend the radio act of 1927, was expressed by the council. Objection to the measure was based on the ground that it sets up a Federal censorship of radio programs. The bill of Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, which would transfer all functions of the radio division of the Department of Commerce to the Federal Radio Commission, was indorsed.

gress authorizing the Secretary of the Legislation now introduced in Con- Terasury to employ private architects in the designing and planning of public buildings was sanctioned. The engineers, however, asserted their belief that the employment of private architects should be optional instead of mandatory as provided in the bill pending.

$375,000,000 U. S. Relief Bill Offered

La Follette and Costigan Join in Measure to Assist Needy.

(Associated Press.)

A bill calling for $375,000,000 for direct Federal relief to the needy was introduced jointly yesterday by Senators La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin, and Costigan (Democrat), Colorado.

It represents the result of extensive hearings recently concluded on similar measures which they had introduced separately.

Senator La Follette said it represents a "remodification" of both, making changes in the set-up for distribution of the money while seeking the same ends. The money would be allocated to the States by a "Federal Emergency Relief Board," under the new measure.

Air and Ocean Mail Inquiry Is Ordered

Senate Postoffice Group to Conduct Quiz Into Contracts.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday ordered an investigation of air and ocean mail contracts.

A resolution by Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, directing the postoffice committeee to inquire into the mail contracts and into the necessity for an increase in parcel post rates, was adopted without debate.

The investigation would include the policy of the Government in erecting postoffices in small towns.

Slayer of Dry Agent Hanged.

G. B. NICHOL RITES TO BE HELD TODAY

Veteran Newspaperman's Burial to Be Conducted in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Funeral services for Graham B. Nichol, veteran newspaperman, will be held at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at All Souls' Memorial Episcopal Church, with the Rev. H. D. Sterrett, rector, officiating. Interment will be private in the family plot at Oak Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Nichol, who was 56 years old, died Thursday night at Garfield Hospital, where he was taken after an attack of partial paralysis. Six weeks ago he was stricken with a heart attack and remained at home until last Saturday. That day he suffered the paralysis attack.

He was well known in newspaper work and was one of the founders of the National Press Club in 1908. He was leader of the group of 32 news writers who started the organization. In 1918 Mr. Nichol became public relations counsel for the Internal Revenue Bureau.

He is survived by his widow, Annis, and two stepsons, Warren Benjamin and Stanley Benjamin, who resided with him at 1927 First street northeast.

Honorary pallbearers will include former friends and associates from the Bureau of Internal Revenue and the Press Club. They are:

David Burnet, Commissioner of Internal Revenue; George J. Schoeneman, deputy commissioner; Frank Matson, former deputy commissioner; Elmer L. Irey, Joseph Moyer, James Hay, jr., A. J. Montgomery, Frederic J. Haskin, H. O. Bishop, Theodore Tiller, Daniel E. O'Connell, Joyce O'Hara, Benjamin Meiman and Frank Matson.

Freedom of Press Bill Introduced in Kentucky

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—A repetition of Circuit Judge Henry R. Prewitt's recent action in barring a Knoxville (Tenn.) News Sentinel reporter from his courtroom would be prevented under a bill introduced in the Kentucky Legislature today by Representative Herman G. Handmaker, Louisville attorney.

Here for the week-end, Mr. Handmaker explained his bill was not intended to cast a reflection on Judge Prewitt or his action, but to prevent other jurists from taking advantage of his precedent.

Oil and Potash Found in Bavaria.

Berlin, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Dispatches from Aschaffenburg, Bavaria, to the Zwoelfuhrblatt today said experiments with a diviniig rod have disclosed the existence of a subterranean oil lake 9 square miles in area at Dittlofsroda, near Wuerzburg, and also 16 square miles of potash deposits extending toward the River Main.

Orville S. Swank Dead at Age of 69

Employe of Civil Service Commission Was in Office 43 Years.

Orville S. Swank, an employe of the United States Civil Service Commission for 43 years, died yesterday at his home, 412 Oglethorpe street northwest. He was 69 years old.

Mr. Swank entered the service of the commission as a stenographer in 1889, a month before Theodore Roosevelt was named commissioner. He acted as stenographer for Roosevelt, Gen. John C. Black and other commissioners. From the time of his appointment he prepared the daily minutes of the commission proceedings. He was born in Iowa and was educated in Burlington.

The funeral will be held at his home Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Place of burial has not been determined. Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Jessie Swank, and two daughters, Mrs. Ethel Oliver, of Silver Spring, Md., and Mrs. Elsie Jansen, of Detroit, Mich.

MRS. Z. W. REYNOLDS DIES

Former Capital Resident Expires at Sea on Way From France.

Mrs. Belle Stewart Reynolds, formerly a resident of Washington, died yesterday on the steamship City of Baltimore, en route to Norfolk, Va., from France, it was learned through a radio dispatch from the ship last night. Mrs. Reynolds was the widow of the late Capt. Z. W. Reynolds, U. S. N.

The City of Baltimore is expected to arrive at Norfolk on Wednesday. Mrs. Reynolds is survived by two daughters, Mrs. P. C. Murray and Miss Eleanor Reynolds, and a son, Stewart Reynolds.

OKLAHOMA'S PLEDGE IS SEEN FOR HOOVER

Republican national committee will meet in Chicago, Friday, January 22.

This committee will make all preparations for the national convention which convenes in the Illinois metropolis on June 14.

Chairman Fess, of the national committee, is acting as chairman of the committee on arrangements. He will be accompanied from Washington by Mr. Burke and a number of workers from Republican national headquarters.

Jersey G. O. P. Not Apt To Give Hoover Pledge

Newark, N. J., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—E. Bertram Mott, chairman of the Republican State committee, said today he thought New Jersey delegates to the Republican national convention ought not to be pledged to support President Hoover or any other candidate.

"It has been the policy of the Republican party in this State to send unpledged delegations," Mott said. "I believe this procedure should be followed. There is no indication of any contest for delegates and nothing would be gained by pledging the delegation under such circumstances. I will call a meeting of the State committee late this month to work out our plans."

Greece to Get American Orphanage.

Athens, Greece, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—A commission of Americans and Greek officials will go to Syra tomorrow to transfer to the Greek government the orphanage established on that island by the American Near East Relief organization.

Blame Heflin Fund For State Job Loss

Prison Guard Tells Inquiry He Refused to Give and Was Dismissed.

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—A former guard for the State convict department testified today in the Bankhead-Heflin senatorial contest that he was discharged because he refused to make a contribution to a campaign fund for former Senator Thomas Heflin.

Joe Sellers told a commissioner for the Senate elections subcommittee that he was employed as a guard at the Marion County convict camp, but was discharged because he did not contribute to the fund for the campaign of Heflin for senator and Hugh Locke for governor on an independent ticket.

J. B. Mixon, who said he also formerly was a guard at the Marion convict camp, testified that although he was named after Senator John Bankhead, he contributed to the Heflin-Locke campaign fund. Asked why he made no complaint regarding the request for a contribution from a superior officer, Mixson said guards were "supposed to keep their mouths shut and work."

North Carolina Bank Reopens.

Mount Olive, N. C., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—The First National Bank of Mount Olive reopened for business today after being closed since December 28. Under an agreement depositors could withdraw only 25 per cent of their funds immediately. T. R. Thigpen, president, said new deposits greatly exceeded withdrawals.

Old-Age Pensions Proposed in Senate

Dill's Bill Would Create New Department of Labor Bureau.

A national old-age pensions law, administered through an "old-age securities bureau," created within the Department of Labor, was proposed in a bill introduced yesterday by Senator Clarence C. Dill (Democrat), Washington.

The law would be carried out by the various States under supervision of the bureau. The bill would appropriate $10,000,000 for the purpose. Persons 65 years old and over, with possessions no in excess of $5,000, would be eligible.

Another bill introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senator Thomas D. Schall (Republican), Minnesota, would create a "bureau of welfare of the blind" in the Department of Labor, which would issue licenses to blind persons to operate stands in the various Government departments.

Maryland Fire-Fighters May Get District Water

Maryland communities could draw water from the District's conduit for fire-fighting purposes between Washington and Great Falls, under provisions of two bills introduced in the House yesterday by Representative David J. Lewis (Democrat), Maryland.

One of the bills instructs the Secretary of War to permit the withdrawal, and the other authorizes the District to enter into agreements with adjacent communities for tapping unmetered mains of the conduit, for fighting forest fires and other conflagrations.

Pure as Mountain Air

ABOVE the timber-line! Another world. Where every breath is like a tonic. Every step a thrill . . . and every man a king. Because the air is pure.

It's purity that distinguishes the good things of life from the almost-good. And that's as true at the cigarette counter as it is 5000 feet above sea level.

Chesterfield's purity starts with tobacco . . . the ripest, finest, purest leaf that money can buy! Mild tobaccos . . . made mild still more by cross-blending. Then they're wrapped in paper so pure it burns without taste or odor.

Every ingredient . . . every method used in making Chesterfields is checked by a staff of scientists. Even the air in the factories is washed and changed every 4½ minutes.

By our use of a highly scientific process which was worked out by Dr. Paul Gross, Head Chemist of our Research Department, Chesterfield reaches a state of purity unmatched, to our knowledge, by any other cigarette.

Try the air at the bottom of a mountain. Try it at the top. Try any other cigarette. Then Chesterfield. The difference is purity . . . and what purity means in milder, better taste. You'll find . . . they satisfy!

RELIEF, NOT POLITICS.

Postmaster General Brown's statement that President Hoover will be a candidate to succeed himself in 1932 can not be interpreted as a formal throwing of the President's hat into the political ring. Mr. Brown casually stated an obvious fact of which the people have been aware for a long time. President Hoover has not launched a campaign to secure the Republican nomination. He is giving his whole time to problems of economic relief.

It may be assumed, of course, that the President's friends will not remain quiet or inactive. But the White House will not become embroiled in politics. In the first place, President Hoover has constantly put the public business above politics. In presenting his relief program to Congress and in working for its adoption, he has laid politics aside, expecting his political opponents to do likewise.

This cooperative attitude on the part of the President has had a most wholesome effect upon Congress. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation bill has moved through the Senate and House with remarkably little obstruction and a minimum of spleen. Work has begun on other relief measures, and indications are that they will be considered in a nonpartisan light.

President Hoover does not need to make a fight for the Republican nomination. It is true that some of the insurgents are still kicking over the traces, but the country does not take them seriously. When it comes to opposing President Hoover for the Republican nomination they do not even take themselves seriously.

President Hoover will be nominated without turning over his hand to win delegates. The convention will unanimously call upon him to carry the party's banner. The record of the Republican party during the last four years is the record of Herbert Hoover. His leadership has been clear-cut and distinct. The only national program that has been formulated to help business, industry and working men out of their predicament, he has initiated and directed. Any talk of a Republican platform that would ignore the valiant work of the President is pure nonsense.

President Hoover is free to devote his whole time and thought to his relief program and other national problems that confront his administration. He is doing so. If Congress continues to cooperate on the rehabilitation measures, there need be no fear that politics will interfere with the prompt enactment of the measures that are designed to put an end to the depression.

TROPICAL WASHINGTON.

Whence and why this warm weather in January? Trite summer greetings that were supposed to be safely moth-balled and hibernating have been heard on every hand this week. Announcement of flowers blooming in the backyard, speculation as to whether swelling buds will ruin fruit prospects alternate with jovial remarks about getting out linen suits and limbering up the electric fans. Perspiring days in mid-January are even more unusual for Washington than snow-blockaded presidential inaugurations in March.

With the Western half of the United States suffering almost equally unprecedented cold, where is this tropic weather of the Atlantic Seaboard coming from? One of the first culprits to be suspected in any extreme, if sun spots are not found guilty, is the Gulf Stream. And this time there appears to be foundation for the mild indictment. Not only is the Gulf Stream several degrees warmer than usual this winter, but it is hugging the Eastern coast of the United States closer than usual.

For the first year since their observation and charting was undertaken, there have been no icebergs in the North Atlantic. This is another factor in the warmth of the adjacent waters. The weakness of the Labrador current, which has not brought out the icebergs on schedule, is now responsible for a lesser volume of frigid waters descending from the North. There has been no definite survey of possible changes wrought in the ocean bed by submarine disturbances off Newfoundland, but they may have been sufficient to have diverted the Gulf Stream nearer the coasts of New England and Canada.

There is no assurance as yet that we are headed back toward the days when the tropics existed clear to the present polar regions. However, the weather sharks say that the mild winter so far experienced throughout the Eastern States is expected to continue, with possible brief lapses, and that it is likely to be followed by an early and warm spring. Washington certainly is favored. Last summer the Capital enjoyed many cool days imported from the mountains. This winter we are being served with temperature of which California boasts and this year has not had.

NO POLITICS—PASS THE BILL!

The possibility of serious delay in the enactment of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation bill has arisen because of the unusual action of the House in passing its own bill, instead of taking up the Senate bill which had already passed. As matters stand, two distinct bills have been passed, and it may be difficult to get the legislation into conference unless one house or the other recedes and accepts the other's bill.

Naturally, it is charged that an attempt has been made to gain political credit in the passage of these bills. The Senate bill was introduced by a Republican, and Democrats are sponsors of the House bill. If the Senate should accept the House bill, a claim could be made that the Democratic House is entitled to credit for the legislation.

The country would be disgusted if delay in the enactment of this legislation should result from a squabble over politics. Millions of citizens await the passage of this bill as an assurance that the strong arm of the Government will be extended to aid industry, finance and agriculture. These citizens do not care how the bill comes into being. There is credit enough for all, if the legislation is pushed through promptly; but there will be discredit to all concerned if politics is permitted to delay this great relief measure.

The Senate could well afford to accept the House bill, thereby giving Democrats of the House a technical claim to credit for originating the legislation. After all, the program is that of President Hoover, who proposed it to Congress in the national interest, and both Republicans and Democrats must cooperate if it is to become law. No campaign propaganda hereafter can take from President Hoover the credit for proposing this legislation. But the credit in his case would not be because of politics, and if Republicans are fair they will accord to Democrats full credit for their cooperation.

What the country wants now is immediate passage of this legislation. The two houses can easily reach an agreement in conference on either the Senate or House bill. They will deserve the resentment of the country if they now fall to quarreling over the imaginary partisan advantage of credit for originating the measure.

A realization of the national urgency of this legislation, a willingness to sink partisanship for the country's sake, and a desire to help their fellow citizens who are suffering under this terrible depression ought to induce senators and members of the House of both parties to forget politics and pass the bill.

THE HAWAIIAN INQUIRY.

Assurance of a thorough investigation into lawlessness in Hawaii is given by the appointment of Seth W. Richardson, Assistant Attorney General, to do that job. Mr. Richardson will take with him a competent staff and will stay in the islands as long as is necessary to expose the roots of this appalling situation.

The need for drastic action is no longer questioned. Recent sensational crimes have revealed that Honolulu is a hotbed of vice, and that administrative officials have done virtually nothing about it. The assailants of Mrs. Massie were not convicted because the law requires that the testimony of the complaining witness be supported by corroborative evidence. It is virtually impossible to convict fiends of criminal assault under such a statute. When they are convicted, they face only light prison sentences, with the hope of receiving executive clemency as soon as the minimum term has expired. Gov. Judd admits that he pardoned one young native, a prize-fighter who had pleaded guilty to criminal assault, after he had served four months. The same youth was implicated in the attack upon Mrs. Massie.

The islands need a stern dose of law enforcement. Apparently actual conditions have not been revealed before, because officials feared that they would damage Hawaii's reputation as a tourist resort. Now that Uncle Sam has taken a hand in the matter the governor is bestirring himself. Doubtless fearing for his official position, he has called a special session of the legislature to deal with lawlessness. Yet the Hawaiian press and business interests continue to protest that conditions have been exaggerated, and that law enforcement has not broken down. Mr. Richardson will furnish the Senate with an accurate report of conditions in the islands, and if the legislature shall not have corrected the situation, Congress may be expected to act.

The Senate showed good judgment in asking the Department of Justice to make this study. No other agency is so well qualified to look into questions of law enforcement and to recommend improvements. Having made certain that it will be apprised of all data connected with the Hawaiian mess, the Senate has no occasion to adopt the McKellar resolution, calling for a Senate investigation. In the circumstances a senatorial investigation would be nothing more than a junket.

FOR NAVAL AVIATION.

At his appearance yesterday before the naval affairs committee of the House Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett gave well-reasoned support to the Navy bill, which provides for a continuous building program over a period of years. The admiral's reasons for championing this measure may be briefly summarized as follows: This bill provides an adequate Navy necessary for the security of the country; an authorized program will strengthen the position of the United States in future disarmament conferences; it will relieve unemployment; it will be a great help to the aircraft and shipbuilding industries; it will effect economy to build now when costs are low; since other nations have built and the United States has not, the program will maintain the honor and self-respect of the United States.

As chief of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics Admiral Moffett has a keen interest in that branch of the national defense, and is fully alive to the vital part which aircraft will hereafter play in both defensive and offensive warfare. He stressed the importance of the provisions in the bill providing for aircraft carriers and flying-deck cruisers to give the air force the maximum number of landing decks as the only means by which the defensive and offensive power of the fleet can be increased.

The United States is not only behind its treaty quota of aircraft carrer tonnage, but behind other countries possessing superior numbers of merchant ships which can be converted into efficient carriers. Aviation has made merchant ships potential offensive weapons. The present ratios of aircraft carriers, instead of being 5-5-3, as allowed by treaty, are: England, 5; United States, 3.9; Japan, 3. Admiral Moffett contends that the Navy should have at least the full fourteen vessels that can be fitted with landing decks, including flying-deck cruisers, whereas now there are only three, or 21 per cent of the allowance.

Admiral Moffett supported the reasons advanced by Admiral Pratt for not building up to treaty limits in destroyers and submarines, but spoke strongly for the completion, or at least laying down, of all available carrier tonnage (87,100 tons) before the end of 1936.

"Aviation has revolutionized warfare," says Admiral Moffett, "especially naval warfare. If the submarine, with a subsurface speed of only 12 knots, and carrying only a few hundred pounds of explosives, with a range of only a few hundred yards, nearly won the war, what will a vehicle having a speed of 200 knots and carrying torpedoes and bombs having 2,000 to 4,000 pounds of explosives do?"

Admiral Moffett urged that this country take full advantage of its opportunities by building before it is too late the vessels that will make possible the full use of aviation, not only because of its future importance in all naval warfare, but because it is necessary to the fleet for its protection and at the same time enormously adds to its offensive power.

OUR CHANGING DIET

From the Providence Journal.

Erudite philosophers assure us that there has been no change in human nature in 2,000 years, and official weather observers solemnly declare that the general average of the weather, season after season and year after year has remained virtually unchanged for a matter of a century or so. There is still a popular impression that in general the dietary habits of the American people have steadily manifested as much stability, as the weather and human nature.

Personally we have never believed either the philosophers or the weather observers, and it is not difficult to perceive that the popular notion regarding the diet rests on a pretty weak basis. Now there is abundant contradictory evidence of a statistical character, and a few of the outstanding facts have been compiled by Dr. Lloyd Arnold, of the Illinois Department of Health, indicating the extent of the change in the diet of the American people.

The figures are based on a recent survey of 614 hotels and 790 restaurants in the United States. The results of this inquiry showed that the sandwich trade has increased 215 per cent during the last twelve years, the salad trade 110 per cent, the consumption of fresh vegetables 35 per cent and of fresh fruits 39 per cent. In the dozen years there has been a decrease of 45 per cent in meat orders. As far as the hotels and restaurants are concerned the figures show a huge increase in the use of dairy products, fruits and vegetables and a corresponding decrease in starches and meats.

All this, it is admitted, comes from special sources of information and may not be an accurate reflection of conditions in general. But corroborative evidence is furnished by the record of freight car loadings. It is shown that in the number of car loads of food moved by railroads there has been an increase of 60 per cent in fifteen crops, aside from wheat, since 1920. Last year 56,000 car loads of lettuce were shipped to American consumers, as compared with 12,000 car loads in 1920. These figures of shipment show that the consumption of carrots had quadrupled in this twelve-year period.

Even Dr. Arnold is moved to observe that while potatoes, tomatoes, lettuce, celery, strawberries and even carrots are welcomed and enjoyed by most of us, "nothing but high-pressure salesmanship and extensive advertising" could induce the American to increase his consumption of spinach fourfold within a decade. But supersalesmanship has been a big factor in all the changes in dietary routine. Without extensive advertising the public in general could hardly have been so thoroughly impressed with the year-round availability of many of the fresh fruits and vegetables, nor would it have been possible to stir so deep a consciousness of the importance of calories and vitamins.

POST HASTE.

Al Smith still declines to sing his solo. Tenors have been known to hold out until they had to join the chorus.

Maybe it was a delicate feeling that the President and his erstwhile opponent should make the first formal announcement that made Al so reticent. If so, he can now toss in the brown derby.

Gov. Roosevelt's protest against attacks upon the President as a campaign issue was his back-handed slap at the ruling wet triumvirate.

Democratic victory dinners throughout the country inaugurated the campaign to raise the campaign fund. The ghost at every banquet was the dead-horse half, the Raskob mortgage.

No wonder Babe Ruth is peeved. Think of the King of Swat being offered less salary than the President gets!

Dr. Mary Woolley, American disarmament delegate, urges patience and perseverance in the cause, warning that "the mills of the gods grind slowly" and that "Rome was not built in a day." She must not startle Geneva with such original epigrams.

We still remain a bit suspicious of the Columbia University student movement to have Prexy Butler removed to a presidential job in Washington.

Calamity howlers feed on a diet of unsupported generalities. They get another bump in the showing of a billion dollars more money in circulation than there was a year ago.

The only objection we have to this moratorium business is that it is so contagious for everything except individuals.

When Laval asked assurance from Briand of his "private collaboration," the venerable retiring foreign minister replied that he would have his "juridical diplomatic collaborators" advise him as to the form his help might eventually take. That's the way Al Smith supports Gov. Roosevelt.

China will probably have to pay dearly for the useless little victories her soldiers are having over scattered Japanese garrisons in Manchuria.

The poets write of winter's habit of being a lingering laplander, but this time autumn is making a fall guy of him. PAUL HUDSON.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

EXERCISE.

The king fell ill. Unto the royal bed
They summoned doctors very grave and wise,
And after much conferring this they said:
"Master, your greatest need is exercise."

"How shall I get it?" asked the pale-faced king.
"There is but one way only," they replied.
"Go to the woods and learn an axe to swing,
Get down and walk and let your groomsman ride.

"Behold your servants all with health aglow,
Building strong bodies by the tasks they do,
If laughter such as theirs you wish to know,
Then you must know the pain they suffer, too.

"If you would own, in spite of pomp and wealth,
The strength of arm that woodsmen all possess,
If you would share the poor man's stock of health,
Then you must share the poor man's weariness."

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY dear Louise: So you have been holding out on your dad!

And if the sun hadn't been shining through the window and you hadn't been smiling your broadest, I wouldn't have noticed it this afternoon and you would be holding out still.

You discovered that black spot on your tooth months ago, when the smallest of fillings would have ended your troubles, and you kept still about it and let the decay continue and spread because you knew I would send you hot-foot to a dentist.

Now there will be ten times as much grinding to do and ten times more pain to endure, and your only reward for waiting was three months of dreading the inevitable.

I don't blame you for dreading the dentist. I've had teeth pulled five at a clip and I've had my appendix out, and I give you my word that any kind of session with a dentist requires twice the courage needed to lie down on an operating table.

But that's enough about teeth. I am not writing to remind you that a stitch in time saves nine, nor to repeat the ancient truth that a bitter dose grows more bitter with each postponement.

There's a more important truth you need to learn, and the sooner you learn it the better you can discount such hard knocks as life may have in store for you.

You must learn that suffering, whether the result of your folly or another's, is a form of punishment that can't be avoided. If you evade it today, it comes back tomorrow. If you escape it in one form, it reappears in a new guise. It is a bill to be paid, and some time, some how, it is collected in full.

If you avoid the pain of having a tooth filled, you merely invite the pain of having it pulled. If you refuse to endure the pain of having it pulled, you must suffer the greater pains of neuralgia and such things.

All of life is like that. Dodge the disagreeable duty of saying no, and you suffer the penalty of saying yes. Evade the agony of punishing your child, and you endure the greater agony of hearing the jury declare it guilty.

Always a pain avoided is another invited. And since there is no escape in any case, the sensible thing is to take your punishment when the switch is ready and be done with it. Love, DAD.

PRO AND CON

The Demon Spenders.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

About every other day some congressman shudders at the fearful extravagance of the administration and points out with exaggerated pride that the House and the Senate have cut deeply into the appropriations suggested in the submitted budget. They do not go on to say, however, what has been their attitude toward public funds outside the budget. And it is here that the spending propensity of a drunken sailor is mild in comparison to that of the Congress.

A thorough total made up by The Washington Post shows that before Congress recessed for the holidays its members had introduced bills and resolutions calling for the expenditure in the next five years, outside budget requirements, of $29,028,000,000. And it is characteristic of the spenders of public money that not one of the hundreds of bills proposed to spend vast sums carried a suggestion as to how the money should be raised.

Unfairness Reacts.

Redfield (S. Dak.) Journal-Observer.

You can kick a fellow about so long and then his friends came to his rescue and the worm turns. President Hoover has been blamed and criticized for so many things for which he is not to blame that the public has become disgusted with the whole thing, and all over the Nation people are coming forward to answer these unfair critics. Meantime the President himself is sawing wood and doing the job for which he is responsible.

Not the Way Out.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

While agreeing with John J. Raskob that the prohibition issue should be taken out of politics, and that it ought not obscure economic issues in the forthcoming presidential election, we are far from believing that he has a solution of this great problem.

Mr. Raskob proposes leaving the eighteenth amendment in the Constitution and adopting another amendment which would give the states the right to control or engage in the liquor business if they care to do so. This would be to nullify the eighteenth amendment with a deliberate and premeditated contradiction. The late Senator Morrow proposed that the eighteenth amendment be repealed and the states left to deal with the liquor question as they will. That is the only solid ground upon which the opponents of prohibition can possibly stand. It is an outright proposal, and it may at this time seem hopeless; but it has the merit of being honest. Mr. Raskob merely proposes getting around the eighteenth amendment, whereas the honorable thing to do is forever to purify the Constitution of that abominable instrument.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Julius Rosenwald, a True Philosopher. One Who Loved His Fellow Man.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: We are in the habit of calling anyone a philanthropist who contributes a large sum of money to an altruistic cause. The meaning of the term philanthropy is the love of man. Benevolence is perhaps the better term. It is a state of mind rather than an outward act. These great benefactions merely translate into action the state of mind which prompts them. Though one may give his goods to the poor and his body to be burned, and has not the motivating benevolence, he can not be called a true philanthropist. Charles Chapman Armstrong will perhaps go down to history as America's classic philanthropist, and yet he had not a dollar to contribute.

Mr. Rosenwald deserves to rank as a true philanthropist, because he had a consuming desire to help his needy fellow men, and the ability to fulfill that desire. By dint of his own endeavor he acquired abundant means and liberally applied assistance where he felt the need was greatest. He belonged to a racial group that suffers many hardships in various parts of the world. His charity never failed toward those who were of his own household of faith. But his philanthropy was by no means limited to narrow racial or religious restrictions.

Mr. Rosenwald was not less munificent in his assistance of the Negro race, which he found to be the most needy element of American citizens. His benefaction always followed a careful analysis of the field to be served and the adequacy of means to serve that field efficiently. He founded over five thousand Negro schools scattered throughout the rural South, so related to local and public support that they will endure as a perpetual aid to the cause of Negro education.

I dare say that no other like sum of money ($5,000,000) was ever calculated to serve humanity more effectively than this. The $500,000 in aid of Negro Young Men's and Women's Christian Associations in our large cities is uniquely remarkable in that it was devoted to a race and a religion both of which were alien to his own. But his philanthropy leaped swiftly beyond the Jewish and Negro groups and extended to the social, civic and public needs of all the people. In the Rosenwald Foundation of $40,000,000, while the Jewish and Negro interests were major aims, yet its basic principles were as broad as human need.

Julius Rosenwald was not merely a munificent money giver. He was a true philanthropist in that he loved his fellow man. KELLY MILLER.

Democrat Does Not See Why Radical Should Be Appointed to Supreme Court.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Already the so-called Progressive politicians, in and out of Congress, are clamoring for the appointment of a man of their type to fill the vacancy on the Supreme Court caused by the resignation of Justice Holmes. These demands are made in the face of the fact that the President has met consistent opposition to every constructive effort and policy advanced by him from this so-called Progressive element in Congress. Certainly no man in the past century has had a better opportunity to judge the fickleness and unsound views of "Progressives" than has our present President. To even surmise that he might be so lacking in judgment as to appoint a Progressive to the high office of justice of the Supreme Court is equivalent to assuming that he cannot remember today what happened yesterday.

No one but a strong conservative should ever be considered for appointment to this high and important office, and certainly a man of that type is needed now as never before. The country can rest assured that such a man will be selected by the President, irrespective of the whims of the Progressives, who always subordinate ability to peculiarities of their own communistic way of thinking.

VIRGINIA DEMOCRAT.

Let's Hear From Present-Day Democrats, Not "Also Rans," Says Party Man.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A little power, like a little learning, is "a dangerous thing." The thought came to me while glancing over the account of the Jackson Day dinner.

Surely their aflght advantage in the present Congress has gone to the heads of members of the Democratic party! And why should they put up as speakers the three "also rans," with the same old line of talk used in their respective campaigns, and which led them no where but to ignominious defeat?

The public is bored with all that. They would like to hear something new; so if the party hopes to get any farther it would be well to let the people hear from some of the outstanding present-day figures instead of the "has-beens" of four, eight and twelve years back.

A. DEMOCRAT.

Too Much Toothpaste in Sunday Radio Programs.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Are not the advertisers who use the radio unfair to the public? We believe the people who enjoy the programs would appreciate having Sunday programs omit asking the buying of tooth pastes, shoes, coffee or anything else. Why not send out their fine music and entertainment on Sunday with only the name of the sender? We believe those who listen would appreciate the courtesy and that it would prove good advertising business. No law is needed to accomplish this. Public opinion can secure it by requesting it.

SOCIETY

Ambassador Dawes Is White House Visitor; Mrs. Hoover Entertained at Luncheon by Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes.

PRESIDENT AND MRS. HOOVER are having a short visit from the American Ambassador to Great Britain, Mr. Charles G. Dawes, previous to his sailing for Geneva for the disarmament conference.

Mrs. Hoover was entertained at luncheon yesterday by Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes, wife of the Chief Justice. The others of the company were Mrs. Brandeis, Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Stone and Mrs. Roberts, wives of associate justices; Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss, wife of the American Ambassador to Argentina; Mrs. David A. Reed, wife of the senator from Pennsylvania; Mrs. Robert Lansing, widow of the former Secretary of State; Mrs. Frederick H. Gillett, wife of the former senator from Massachusetts; Mrs. U. S. Grant 3d, Mrs. Frederic A. Delano, Mrs. Adolph C. Miller, Mrs. Vernon Kellogg, Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, Mrs. Cass Gilbert, Miss Mabel Boardman and Miss M. B. Pond.

The Italian Ambassador and Donna Antonietta de Martino will entertain a distinguished company at dinner this evening.

The Japanese Ambassador and Mme. Debuchi were the guests in whose honor Representative James M. Beck and Mrs. Beck entertained at dinner last evening in their home on Twenty-first street.

The Belgian Ambassador and Mme. May will entertain at dinner this evening in the embassy.

The American Ambassador to Argentina and Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss have opened their Georgetown home, the Oaks, for thte wedding of Miss Victoria Tytus and Mr. Lawrence Coolidge, which will take place this afternoon in Bethlehem Chapel. They were hosts last night at dinner for the bride and bridegroom-elect and the members of their wedding party, except for Miss Mildred Tytus, sister of the bride-elect, who will be maid of honor at the wedding, and who entertained the out-of-town guests and relatives at dinner in the Tytus home. The guests of Miss Tytus afterward joined the wedding party at the Oaks for dancing. The dinner was served in the music room of the Oaks, where the wedding decorations were already in place. They are of calla lillies, narcissus, pink azaleas, pink begonias and dainty bamboo, which was most effective in the tapestry-hung apartment, where the hangings at the windows are of deep rose silk. The bride and bridegroom of this afternoon will stand in this music room to receive the guests at the reception this afternoon which will follow immediately after the ceremony in the chapel of the cathedral.

Mr. Coolidge and his bride will sail for England next week to visit the latter's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Edward Tytus, on their wedding trip.

The Chinese Minister, Mr. W. W. Yen, sailed yesterday on the Bremen for Europe, where he will represent his country at the League of Nations in Geneva.

The recently appointed Second Secretary of the Spanish Embassy, Senor Don Alfonso Merry del Val, and Senora de Merry del Val have sailed from Spain for a trip around the world, through the Orient and across the continent to Washington, where the former will assume his duties in the spring.

Will Marry in Fairfield, Conn.

MRS. THORNTON WYNN BARRETT, formerly Miss Katherine Bullard, daughter of Mrs. Stanley Bullard, of this city, who will be married today in Fairfield, Conn.

Philippine Mission To Honor New Governor.

The new Governor of the Philippines and Mrs. Roosevelt will be honor guests at a luncheon to be given by the Philippine Mission at the Willard Hotel Tuesday.

The former Governor General of the Philippines, Mr. Dwight F. Davis, and his daughter, Miss Cynthia Davis, sailed yesterday for Paris to join Mrs. Davis and Miss Alice Davis, who have been in Europe for several months.

Mrs. Maurice Thatcher, wife of Representative Thatcher, will entertain at luncheon on Monday at the Willard in honor of Mrs. Harry Burgess, wife of the Governor of the Canal Zone. Representative and Mrs. Thatcher have lived in Panama and frequently visited there in the past few years, and in 1910-13 he was head of the department of civil administration of the Canal Zone.

Mrs. Frank Crowther, wife of Representative Crowther, will be at home on Monday afternoon from 4 until 6 o'clock in her apartment at 110 Maryland avenue northeast, and again on January 25.

Mrs. Allard A. Gasque, wife of Representative Gasque, has as her guest, Mrs. Edward Duncan Sallenger, of Florence, S. C., president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs.

Representative and Mrs. Gasque have with them for the winter, their daughter, Miss Doris Gasque.

Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman left yesterday for Philadelphia to be the guest of Mrs. James F. Sullivan at her home, the Woods, in Radnor, Pa. They will attend the wedding this afternoon of Miss Elizabeth Donner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Donner, of Villanova, Pa., to Mr. Elliott Roosevelt, son of Gov. and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Miss Elsie Tuckerman, whose engagement to Mr. Benjamin Blays, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. C. Blays, was recently announced, will be married next month, though no definite date has been set.

Mr. and Mrs. Beale R. Howard have as their guests in their home on Woodland drive, their daughter, Mrs. John Terry Remey, who has been in Miami, Fla., attending the air meet.

Mrs. Remey, who is a well-known flier, was a member of the Amateur Air Pilots Association group which passed through Washington on its way to Miami to take part in the races.

Mr. and Mrs. George Grant Mason, jr., of Havana, Cuba, are visiting in New York, with the former's parents. They flew to New York from Cuba, and are dividing their time between New York and the Mason home in Tuxedo Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Lambert To Entertain for Visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilton J. Lambert will entertain at dinner this evening at the Chevy Chase Club for their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lambert, and the latter's sisters, the Misses Sipple, who are visiting here from their home in St. Louis.

Mrs. Joseph Leiter, who had intended to come to Washington this week to visit her mother, Mrs. John R. Williams, will be detained in Chicago where she is passing the winter, by the illness of her nephew, Mr. Colin Campbell.

Mr. and Mrs. Leiter recently returned to Chicago from New Orleans, where they have been for the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic D. McKenney entertained at dinner last evening in their apartment at Wardman Park Hotel preceding the Friday Evening Dancing Class. The guests were Mr. Joseph T. Mackay, and his son, Mr. Arthur Mackay, of New York; the Bolivian Minister and Senora de Abelli, Representative and Mrs. Fred Purnell, Judge and Mrs. Adolph A. Hoehling, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wallace Dunn.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan E. Gray entertained at the dinner dance at the Shoreham last night their guests numbering thirty.

Mr. Rufus H. Lane, jr., son of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Rufus H. Lane, of Green Hill, Falls Church, Va., left the Capital last evening for New York from where he will sail on January 20 aboard the President Harding for Europe. Mr. Lane will go directly to Patras, Greece, where he will serve as American consul. Since July, 1930, Mr. Lane has been American consul at Progreso, Mexico.

Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, of New York, is at the Carlton.

The students of the Army Dental School at the Army Medical Center entertained at the dinner dance at the Shoreham last night in honor of members of the faculty. Col. and Mrs. J. Rex Bernheim, chief of the Dental Corps, and Col. and Mrs. Frank L. LaFlamme were the ranking guests.

Prince and Princess Vladimir Erissavi and Mrs. George Rockwood, the mother of the princess, are at the Willard. They are en route to Florida, and plan to spend considerable time at the various cities en route. They will spend the winter at Cocoanut Grove, Fla.

Maj. and Mrs. W. J. Calvert will have as their guest the latter's father, Col. John Henry Parker, U. S. A., who will arrive today from Santa Barbara, Calif., to spend some time at their home, 1921 S street.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Pavenstedt, who have been spending some time at Southern Pines, N. C., are at the Carlton.

Mrs. Edwards Arrives For Democratic Meeting.

Mrs. Elizabeth Smith Edwards, of New York, national chairman of the Committee of 1,000 Democratic and Progressive Women, has joined Mrs. Helen R. Knighton, of Pennsylvania, at the Willard and has charge of the meeting of this organization which is to be held at the Willard today. Among the many prominent women who are members of this organization and who expect to attend are Mrs. James W. Gerard, Mrs. Edward M. House, Mrs. Peter A. Drury, Miss Patricia V. Dorn and Mrs. A. L. Chapin.

Mrs. James W. Walker will entertain at luncheon and bridge at the Shoreham today in honor of the birthday of Mrs. James W. Walker, sr. Her guests will be Mrs. Mary A. Riley, Miss Mary E. Riley, Mrs. A. J. Gallant, Mrs. William Collins, Mrs. Roy Stutzman, Mrs. A. H. Busching.

Mrs. Catt Entertains Conference Chairmen.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, who is in Washington for the conference on the cause and cure of war, opening Monday at the Hotel Washington, entertained the chairman and vice chairmen of local committees on conference arrangements at luncheon yesterday at the Hotel Washington.

Her guests included Mrs. William L. Darby, local general chairman; Mrs. T. J. Howerton, Mrs. T. E. Brown, Mrs. Clara Wright Smith, Mrs. A. J. McKelway, Mrs. H. S. Irwin, Mrs. J. Claude Keiper, Mrs. W. E. Boulter, Mrs. Frank E. Edington, Mrs. E. C. Dinwiddie, Mrs. T. E. Brown, Mrs. Hugh Smith, Mrs. Leonard B. Schloss, Mrs. A. W. Garrison, Mrs. Karl Fenning, Mrs. W. Spencer Armstrong, Mrs. J. R. Hardesty, Mrs. Benjamin W. Meeks, Mrs. A. Stabler, Mrs. A. M. Ferry, Mrs. Oren Atwood, Mrs. William B. Wolf, Mrs. Basil Manly, Mrs. John W. Reynolds, Mrs. H. C. Briscoe and Mrs. Kirkpatrick Noble.

An informal reception for the delegates to the Cause and Cure of War Conference, opening tomorrow, will take place tonight in the rose room of the Hotel Washington.

The guests will be received by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, chairman, and Miss Ruth Morgan, Miss Henrietta Roelofs, Miss Josephine Schain, Miss Helen Livingstone, Mrs. Edgerton Parsons, New York City; Mrs. J. # POST ESSAY CONTEST CALLED AID TO BETTER CITIZENSHIP and parochial schools in the District of Columbia and nearby Maryland and Virginia are entering their students practically en masse into the contest.

The specimen essay chosen at random from those entered by contestants yesterday is printed below with the understanding that its publication at this time has no bearing upon the relationship of this particular essay in the contest.

WASHINGTON AT ALEXANDRIA.

"At Alexandria, if the dust of a century be blown away, are footprints of the Father of Our Country, telling of his ways as he roamed about home.

"The town and Washington came together into active life, and just as he grew from childhood into youth the neighboring hamlet grew into the town of Alexandria.

"Washington became a surveyor at an early age and used his knowledge in helping to lay off the streets of Alexandria, where he was a very active citizen in the courts, heading the militia, &c.

"He held no town office until 1776, but subscribed to the cost and supervised the putting down of the first public pump, suggested improvements in the market arrangements and insisted upon the modern method of selling grain by weight.

"On the 16th of December, 1776, Col. Washington became a member of the town council. However, he busied himself more with operations outside the council rather than by legislative measures within it.

"Washington was a vestryman of the parish, including Alexandria, and saw Christ Church built in 1767-73 and worshipped there. He also contributed to other new churches constructed at this time.

"He saw and encouraged the building of the first public school in Alexandria and gave in trust $4,000 toward the support of a free school.

"In 1774 the Friendship Fire Company, which still exists was organized. It at first consisted of citizens who, out of 'mutual friendship,' agreed to carry it on. Washington was made an honorary member, and while attending Congress of 1774 at Philadelphia, he examined the fire engine in use there. On his return to the Congress in 1775 he bought a small fourth-class engine for 80 pounds and 10 shillings, and just before leaving for Boston Heights to become commander in chief he dispatched this little engine to the Friendship Company. It was a common sight to see Washington followed by his servants helping to extinguish a fire in Alexandria.

"When he returned from his work in the Army he did not like the turn of affairs in Alexandria and undertook to change them. He secured the organization of the Potomac Company, which built locks around the Potomac Falls and is now merged in the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal Co. To avoid the discrimination which the lower duties at Georgetown made against Alexandria, he led the way to the appointment of commissioners from the two States to settle interstate troubles.

"Washington voted at all the Fairfax elections until the close of his life. Although living quite a distance from the courthouse he managed to vote early, something not easily accomplished.

In 1789 Alexandria lost a noble citizen and the United States Government gained one. However, when he returned after eight years, he mingled with the town people the same as before.

"The eighteenth century was drawing to a close and not a man once dreamed that Washington would not see the dawn of the nineteenth. But one Sunday morning in December, 1799 news came that Alexandria's and the United States' most distinguished citizen was dead."

Essays were received from the following contestants yesterday: Verona P. Via, age 8, 235 West Howelle avenue, Alexandria, Va.; Alton S. Johnson, age 12, 2076 Marshall street, Richmond, Va.; Margaret Mills, 14 years old, 612 Twenty-third street northwest, and Anna Kelly, age 15, 121 Lloyd avenue, Rosecrest, Alexandria, Va.

Among those who applied for the George Washington booklet yesterday, furnished through the courtesy of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, were:

By ROBERT D. HEINL

MUSIC lovers should make arrangements to stay in the vicinity of a radio receiver this afternoon and evening, because there will be several fine programs on the air.

Leopold Stokowski will conduct the Philadelphia Orchestra and a group of soloists in an all-Wagner program during the Philco program (WMAL, 8:15 to 10 o'clock tonight). Owing to the dramatic nature of the program this broadcast will originate in the Metropolitan Opera House, Philadelphia, instead of the Academy of Music. As well as the entire Philadelphia Orchestra, Stokowski will have under his baton Elsa Alsen, soprano, and Paul Althouse, tenor, and vocalists from the Curtis Institute of Music, chosen from among the students who are completing their preparation for operatic careers, and from the Philadelphia Grand Opera Company.

"Die Walkure," Song of the Valkyries.

"Siegfried," "Siegfried Mounting the Rock to Brunnhilde."

"Gotterdammerung," "The Rhine Maidens and Siegfried and Brunnhilde's Immolation."

---

Giuseppe Verdi's "Il Trovatore," with Rosa Ponselle in the leading role, will be broadcast in part from the Metropolitan Opera House in New York City this afternoon. The last scene in the second act and the entire third act, including the "Soldiers' Chorus," will be heard (WRC, 3 p. m.).

---

GENE BUCK, president of the American Society of Composers, is enthusiastic about the Metropolitan broadcasts.

"They seem to have caught the spirit of the opera as well as the actual performance," Mr. Buck, who is in Washington for the Alfalfa dinner tonight, said. "It is an extraordinary job of 'microphone capturing.'

"Furthermore, I think the NBC is very wise in broadcasting the operas as a sustaining rather than a commercial feature."

A second operatic offering today will be the first act of Rossini's "The Barber of Seville," which will be broadcast by WJZ and WBAL at 9 o'clock from the stage of the Chicago Civic Opera House. The cast will include Tito Schipa, tenor; Margherita Salvi, soprano; Salvatore Baccaloni, barytone, and Vittorio Damalani, bass.

---

UNDER the title of the Public Affairs Institute, Columbia will inaugurate a regular weekly series of half-hour addresses, debates and interviews by outstanding men and women tonight (WMAL, 10 p. m.). The first program will present Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, in a discussion of "The Emergency $2,000,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation."

The proposal, the first item in the administration relief program, already has passed the Senate and holds priority in the House.

An hour of music by more than 200 students of the Conservatory of Music at Oberlin College, near Cleveland, Ohio, will be broadcast over WMAL at midnight. This will be the escond annual broadcast by the combined musical clubs of Oberlin.

The Men's Glee Club, the Women's Glee Club, the Marching Band, the Concert Band and the Oberlin-Lakeside Orchestra, all under the direction of Don Morrison, will participate in the concert.

William O. Tufts, jr., 1635 Madison street northwest, will take part in the hour. A third-year student, Tufts is a member both of the Marching Band and the Concert Band.

THE new announcer at Station WJSV is Ward Adams, of Lynchburg, Va. Mr. Adams is the former program director of Station WLVA, Lynchburg, with which he was associated for two years. He is a pianist and organist, having studied for thirteen years with Emil Berger, of Lynchburg. Adams is 24 years old, married, and lives in Del Ray, Va.

---

The reopening of station KUKU, recently announced for WRC at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon, has been postponed until January 30. Raymond Knight has arranged several innovations appealing to the young mind and therefore sought an earlier period.

---

THE only member of Congress who broadcasts regularly for the benefit of Washington listeners is Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas. He is on WMAL every Saturday at 6 p. m. * * * Erno Rapee, musical director, is an habitual bridge player * * * The Radio Plays Arts Guild is the name finally decided upon by the WJSV dramatic group, tonight, 8:30 p. m. * * * Announcer Leonard Davis, who made his debut as the Navy Band soloist recently, will sing again with the full band on January 27 * * * George Frame Brown, author and leading character of "Real Folks" gathered the material for his rural dramas from actual experience. His father was a grocery proprietor in a small town in Washington. Years later he was in a stock company on Cape Cod * * * Radio Joe has signed a contract for another year at WMAL * * * Tito Coral, South American songbird, heard regularly at midnight over the WJZ network, was born in Caracas 24 years ago. He was educated in Spain. For nearly two years Coral sang in Mexico City theaters and night clubs, before joining the Follies and NBC.

Dare Interprets the MODE

New York, January 15.

HONESTLY, hard times are more fun! They make one stop, look and listen—and they make one develop good taste and wise purchasing and even unexpectedly, to show talent.

Take that careless and extravagant way you used to send everything out to be pressed and cleaned when just a couple of wrinkles or a little spot appeared. Now, don't you find yourself looking at it twice before sending it—and pressing it yourself more often than not?

Not that we must ever, ever wear anything that is not impeccably neat—nary a wrinkle nor a spot nor even a shabby edge, Miladi, just to be economical! As a matter of fact, neatness is economy, because it prolongs the life of your clothes, honestly.

So-o-o-o, Saturday is just simply a fine day to set aside for neatness and economy. Have a little card thumbtacked onto your closet door, with a pencil attached. And each time that you take off something that needs a little this or that done to it, before you put it away, mark on the pad just what has to be done * * * like this: "Black georgette dress—change white collar and cuffs." That is your Saturday list—then on Saturday, after all the housework is done and plans made for dinner, arm yourself with cotton "dabs" that you can buy nowadays in the "few cent stores" all cut and packed in a box for a few cents, needle and thread, a piece of clean, unbleached muslin, &c. And looking at your list, get everything together that needs attention and give it the attention!

Sounds like a lot of work on paper, but, my deah, really it isn't. Only a couple of things will have to be pressed, a couple of hooks sewn on and a couple of lingerie touches changed, that is all. And several dollars saved in actual cash, as well as the effect on yourself of knowing that you are always soignee. It can be done—because I do it! Yeah—and the French-maid-who-is-Spanish has gone back home, too—and I haven't any "poisonal" maid now—so there! That's how I know that any woman, no matter how busy she may be or how many children she has or how big a house she has to look after, can be neat and elegant as the lovely lady with her personal maid. It's just a difference in effort, that's all.

* * * *

And, while on the subject of saving pennies but staying chic, how about Sister Dionne's 3-year-old seven-fifty felt that I caught her throwing away? Why, I made it completely over, that's what, and now it's a brand-new hat, altogether as smart and a wee bit smarter than any of my 1,000-franc Parisian bonnets!

No, I'm not a milliner. Yes, it was easy to do. Yes, you can do the same. How? By sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells you how to go about it—with the old hat sketched and the new version of it, too! And, believe me, that before I started with it it was well worn out in a couple of spots, and quite grayish looking, when it should have been black—but when I finished with it, well, you'll see!

* * * *

Yes, there it exactly is, sketched today "before and after Dah-ray." Send for the leaflet and you'll see just how I made it over from what it was to what you can see it became!

Au Revoir!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

TREATING SPORTS INJURIES.

DR. C. B. HEALD, one of the British authorities, gives football trainers and coaches a lot of advice as to how to care for their sprains, bruises, charley horses and similar unpleasant and inconvenient injuries.

When a man is injured in the course of a violent game he should first make certain that he has not broken a bone or torn a tendon or ligament. Assurance of this having been had, the next point is to reduce the swelling and pain as rapidly as possible. For this purpose Dr. Heald uses a sedative massage called Menuel's Glucokinesis, and small doses of direct current electricity.

If these measures can not be made use of he advocates mild light massage and glycerin and belladonna liniment, applied on lint, for 24 to 48 hours. If the pain is great enough aspirin can be taken internally. It is better to suck an aspirin tablet or to chew an aspirin gum than to swallow quickly a tablet or capsule. Just why Dr. Heald makes this recommendation I have no idea.

If there is much effusion into the tissues causing swelling, he advocates an elastic bandage with some adhesive qualities. If the swelling is in a joint, or if there is water in the joint, he advocates an elastic bandage, called an "elastoplast," on which Unna's paste has been applied. For inflammed bursa—and many sports injuries involve the bursae—he uses treatments with a Kromayer electric lamp.

Each treatment is continued until the skin over the bursa is reddened. This treatment is given to small areas of skin over the bursa rather than to wide stretches. The lamp light treatment is especially valuable when the injured part is a bursa around the shoulder joint. The application of heat and cold—one at certain stages and the other at other stages—is of very great service. Gentle massage helps to keep the lymph and blood moving in the injured areas and thus promotes the absorption of fluid that has oozed into the tissues, promotes the carry-off of waste, and assists in the nourishment of injured cells. Deeper massage and electricity from a Bristow coil are of help in restoring tone in the injured tissues. Their field is in the follow-up treatment of injuries.

Most people have had experience with sports injuries or bruises of like character due to other causes. They have learned that such injuries are spontaneously repaired and no treatment is required. However, experience has taught some people that swelling and pain can be partially controlled. Nearly every one has learned from experience that after a severe injury the part tends to be lame, sore, and somewhat crippled for a long time. That prolonged after-crippling could have been prevented in most cases.

INGROWING NAILS.

J. H. writes: You generally give wearing narrow shoes as the cause of ingrowing toenails. You are wrong. My wife wears very narrow shoes and she does not have ingrowing toenails. Her toes are bent until they lie at an angle of 45 degrees with her foot. I wear broad-toed shoes and I have had ingrowing toenails for 50 years. I let the corners of the nail grow until they pass the flesh. Sometimes I lift the corners with a little cotton.

REPLY.

Your wife's narrow shoes have pushed the entire front part of her toes over, up and down. The toes now lie akimbo. Under these conditions the nail may lie straight. There is a good chance that your wife now has or will have bunions. You have never been so foolish—only about 50 per cent so. At some time in your life you wore shoes that pinched the front end of your toes but not the entire number. In consequence, now at your old age, you have ingrown nails and you brag about wearing broad shoes. You should escape bunions as your wife should have bunions and escape ingrowing nails.

When it comes to the treatment peace is declared. The treatment you advocate I first used 48 years ago. It has been given in this column from time to time for 20 years.

SHAKING UP THE LIVER.

E. M. writes:

1. Is there any means of stimulating action of the liver in a semi-tropical climate, without resorting to laxatives, medicines, &c.?

2. Are there fruits or vegetables which, if taken in their natural state, raw, or cooked, would have the mentioned effect? Please name them.

3. Could an impingement of a nerve at the vertebrae cause a poor liver?

REPLY.

1. Have you tried horseback riding? Or rowing? Bending exercises are valuable. About two-thirds of our opinions about torpid liver are incorrect. Nine-tenths of the so-called liver medicine have no effect on the liver except as every purge acts indirectly.

2. No, except as they would give the liver something of a rest. Eggs, meat, fats, sauces and condiments make the liver work overtime. Ordinary nonsweetened fruits and vegetables throw less work on that organ.

3. No.

NAUSEA ONLY SYMPTOM.

E. H. C. writes: What is the cause and remedy for continued nausea? My heart, lungs and kidneys all seem to be in normal condition. I haven't any appetite, and all food is repulsive.

REPLY.

Nausea is merely a symptom. It may mean cancer, ulcer, or something else serious. First find what it means in your case. What to do will follow that.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

INACCURATE POST-MORTEMS

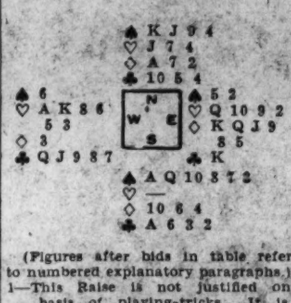
POST-MORTEMS at the Bridge table are usually inaccurate because they fail to take into account anything but the most obvious play. Most players in their post hand analysis concede tricks to Aces and Kings, failing to remember that accurate play and accurate counting of the distribution of suits may nullify the value of otherwise taking honors.

The hand below, in which the South cards were held by Mr. Walter Malowan, shows how an accurate count of the cards held by his opponents enabled him to make what appeared to be an impossible contract.

North and South not vulnerable. East and West vulnerable.



(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

1—This Raise is not justified on basis of playing-tricks. It is, however, sound from the defensive standpoint.

2—A sound Raise based both on honor holdings and playing tricks.

3—South's four spade bid is optimistic in view of his partner's single Raise which may be the showing of only slight support for the bid in view of the scoring situation.

4—West, vulnerable, declines to risk a bid of five hearts. Actually this contract would have been penalized only 1 trick.

West elected to open his singleton diamond. This lead was not a particularly desirable one, but was based on the hope that his partner might hold the Ace of diamonds and permit him to utilize his lone trump in ruffing. South correctly read the lead for a singleton and thus had the first bit of information as to suit distribution. Apparently, the combined hands contained 4 losing tricks—2 in diamonds and 2 in clubs. In order, if possible, to reduce the losers to 3 and thus make his contract, South won the diamond trick with the Ace and led a heart from Dummy and trumped.

Elimination of the hearts from the Dummy Hand was an essential part of his campaign. A spade was led, taken in the Dummy and another heart ruffed in the closed hand. Dummy's last heart was led and through this process of suit elimination, Mr. Malowan had quite accurate information as to the distribution of the hands.

West had held originally one spade and one diamond. Apparently, his remaining cards had been six hearts and five clubs. East's Raise of West's heart bid and West's failure to bid five hearts seemed to make it more probable that he held six rather than seven hearts. East, therefore, held originally two spades, four hearts, six diamonds and one club. East's Singleton club must be an honor as otherwise West, with K Q J of clubs in addition to his heart holding, would have continued the bidding. Mr. Malowan, therefore, led the duce of clubs from his own hand and East won with his singleton King. He now cashed two diamond tricks, but having done this, was through, as his next lead permitted South to discard a losing club in the Dummy which he trumped in the closed hand, thus making his contract.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question—What is a deep finesse?

Answer—A deep finesse is a finesse against three or more outstanding higher cards. (Example: A K 9 x.)

"CAPRICORN."

IF January 16 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., from 2:30 p. m. to 3:50 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:20 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:45 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m.

The wheel of fortune will spin blindly, but with beneficial results, on January 16. Material gains will be made through luck and not good management. Leave betting entirely alone, and do not speculate on the markets! Attend to fire risks, and see that they are covered!

The child born on this January 16, will have a high regard for itself and its own judgment. It will have a versatile nature, and be capable of doing several things well. It will be a great reader, but will have a poor memory.

Born January 16, you are impulsive, quick to feel for others, fiery in your anger, and hasty in your judgment. You are inclined to dramatize and so magnify the importance of commonplace happenings, events and people, that they appear interesting and colorful. You drive home all your remarks, regardless of their importance, with an exaggerated use of superlatives. People have to learn not to take you too literally or too seriously. Your heart is always in the right place, and your motives are kindly. You say things in haste, which are followed by quick repentance. Your friends find you a quick sympathizer, who is always ready to take up arms in their defense.

You are one of those who wait and do not seek opportunities. You are not, however, slow of wit, dull of eye, or lacking in courage when chances for self-betterment come your way. In a business way you are capable of making clever moves, and you are too ambitious not to make them when the cards lie in your favor. Externally superficial and light hearted, you are capable of serious thought and deep study. Your faults as well as your virtues are glaring, and those who do not know you well misjudge the depth of your character. Women born January 16 are not overly domesticated.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me when to transplant a palm. Mine is three inches above the surface of the soil. It looks as if on stilts. It is ten years old and has never been transplanted. I live in an apartment and have been usually lucky with this plant, which has always been lovely.

MRS. CARL R. L.

It is most unusual to have a plant do well for so long in one pot, for the roots must be crowded. You should transplant it at once. If you live in an apartment it may be best to have a florist do this for you. The cost of transplanting will be very little.

---

Please tell me how often to water a geranium in a sunny room where the temperature keeps about 68 degrees.

MISS GERTRUDE W.

Water a geranium in such a location only once every other day. A geranium does better when kept a trifle potbound, a bit starved (meaning no fertilizer) and on the dry side.

---

My heretofore beautiful rubber plant has decided to drop all its lower leaves while it is making a tremendous top growth. If this continues the beauty of the plant will be gone. What can I do to counteract this condition?

NANCY T.

Unfortunately, a rubber plant drops a few lower leaves wherever it starts into growth. The new leaves always appear on the ends of the shoots which are near the top of the plant. For this reason a rubber plant which has attained an age of more than five years has lost its charm or at least ceases to be a decorative asset. Sometimes a large plant will lend depth of foliage to a conservatory or an institution, but in the confines of a small room it detracts rather than adds to beauty. There is no way to overcome this tendency, so for this reason it is best to grow only young plants.

---

My heliotrope is doing unusually well this winter. For the first time I pruned it before bringing it indoors. Could this be the reason for the flowers I am now enjoying? I feel that if it is, other readers should be given this information.

MRS. HARRY S.

Yes, I am sure pruning the plant is responsible for its growth and flowers.

---

MADGE F. J.

Some of the small-leaved varieties do very well in the house, though all coleus are subject to attacks from the mealy bug. Therefore, you must constantly spray the foliage to prevent these insects from injuring the plant.

---

I have an oleander in my cellar. It is my first experience with this plant. My cellar is warm and light, but not sunny. Must I water the plant while indoors or will it live in a dormant state without moisture?

MRS. CHARLES H.

While an oleander does rest in winter, it is never exactly dormant. Water it about once a week, but give it enough at each application to moisten all the soil in the pot.

---

I have some freezias which have now set two buds. May I bring them to a warm sunny window?

MARY T.

Yes. In fact, they should never have been anywhere else. Freezias are cape bulbs and do not have to be started in the dark.

CHARTER AMENDING BILL STIRS BATTLE

Alexandrians Will Oppose Attempt to Alter Set-Up of City Council.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The bill just introduced in the Virginia Legislature by Delegate J. Fred Birrell, of Alexandria, proposing to amend the charter of the City of Alexandria to change the present set-up of the city council, and to provide for nine members instead of the present five, six of these members to be elected from the six wards and three to be elected at large, has caused a great deal of discussion. The bill, when it reaches the committee of the House of Delegates, will be opposed, it is understood, by members of the city council, representatives of the chamber of commerce, and probably a number of private citizens and representatives of civic organizations.

The number of councilmen and the manner of their election—that is, at large rather than from wards—was prescribed in a petition to the court to call an election to decide whether the form of government should be changed from the mayor and council to the city manager form. The result of this election, according to city authorities, abandoned the sections of the city charter which are sought to be amended by the bill introduced by Mr. Birrell, and doubt has been expressed as to whether, in event of the passage of the bill, the change sought would be upheld by the courts.

It has been pointed out that the passage of this bill, or rather, the change contemplated by the bill, would result in the injection of politics into the form of government, which is now free from such taint. The object of the change to the present form, according to members of the council, was to eliminate politics and place the administration of city affairs upon a purely business basis. The proposed new change, the councilmen say, would be a compromise between the old and new forms of government, with most of the disadvantages of the old, and few of the advantages of the present form.

The general law on the subject of the city manager form of government provides that the council should be composed of three, five, seven, nine or eleven members, according to population. Mayor Edmund F. Ticer, after the annexation of additional territory and consequent increase in population, addressed a communication to the city council advocating an increase in the membership of the council from five to seven or nine members. While he made no reference to the manner of their election, he states it was his idea that all members should be elected at large, as at present. Delegate Birrell, however, despite the recommendations of members of the present council and of the Chamber of Commerce, prescribed in his bill that the councilmen should be elected both by wards and at large.

The bill as introduced is classed as an emergency measure, and calls for an election of all nine members to be held on the fourth Thursday of June, 1932, and the members to assume their duties on July 1, 1932, or as soon thereafter as practicable.

Maryland Pastor Answers Trustees

Denies There Was Money in Church Treasury to Cause Dispute.

Denying that there was any controversy over money in the First Baptist Church of Highland Park, Md., on the ground that the church never had any money, the Rev. Hezekiah H. Thompson yesterday filed his answer to a suit instituted against him by trustees of the church.

The original complaint against the minister recited that members of the church tried to lock him out, but that he put his own lock on the church. Church members put another padlock on the door and the minister followed suit. In his answer, filed yesterday in Marlboro, Md., the clergyman said that the original lock was not put on the church by a member, but by a man from another congregation.

Anna Plater, named as one of the trustees, has never been elected or appointed, the answer says, stating that she has served without warrant since the death of her husband, who was a trustee. Another of the trustees was only induced to sign the complaint against the minister by "trickery," the answer avers. It was filed by Attorney John S. White for the minister.

Fairfax Business Men Will Talk Legislation

John W. Brookfield, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Fairfax County, has called a special meeting of the directors for this evening in the chamber's offices at Fairfax, Va.

The directors will confer with State Senator John W. Rust and Delegate Edmund H. Allen, a former president of the county chamber on questions of interest to the county now pending before the Legislature.

Fairfax Red Cross Gets Drive Report

$1,495 Received by County Chapter, With More to Be Added.

Fairfax County Chapter, American Red Cross, meeting yesterday at the courthouse in Fairfax, Va., reelected Mrs. Russell A. Lynn, of Herndon, as president. Other officers selected were Mrs. U. S. Walters, of McLean, vice president; Mrs. William Cleveland, of Seminary, secretary, and Mrs. E. D. Vosbury, of Merrifield, treasurer.

The report of the annual roll call showed 1,326 members had contributed $1,495.62 with some communities still to be reported. These figures are exclusive of the memberships taken in Washington by Fairfax County residents, which will later be returned to the county chapter. The executive committee gave a rising vote of thanks to Mrs. John Warnock Echols, of Vienna, for her services as roll call director.

Mrs. John W. Brookfield, of Springfield, county chairman of the Junior Red Cross, reported that during February a drive will be made among the elementary schools to have every pupil enrolled in the Junior Red Cross.

Chamber Opposes Redistricting Plan

Directors of Alexandria Group Will Protest at Richmond.

The board of directors of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce has gone on record as opposing the proposed redistricting of Virginia, which would eliminate the Eighth Congressional District, adding the counties which now form that district to the First and Seventh districts.

A delegation representing the chamber of commerce will visit Richmond Monday to protest against the proposed action, this committee being composed of Gardner L. Boothe, chairman; C. C. Carlin, George F. Downham, Harry Hammond, Flyod W. King, John Barton Phillips, C. Page Waller, Irvin Diener, L. H. Dudley, Charles W. King, F. Clinton Knight, William Albert Smoot and Benedict Weil.

An effort will be made to coordinate the activities of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce with those of business and civic organizations in the various counties of the Eighth District, several of which have already taken action similar to that of the Alexandria organization. It is expected the Alexandria Kiwanis Club will add its efforts to those of the trade body.

BOND ISSUE ASKED BY SANITARY BOARD

Hearing on Application Is to Be Held in Baltimore Next Month.

A hearing will be held on February 16 before the Public Service Commission of Maryland on an application by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission for permission to issue $150,000 worth of bonds for water and sewer mains in nearby Maryland during 1923.

Of the proceeds of this sale, $25,000 will be used for eight projects in Montgomery County which have already been announced. The remainder will be divided between Montgomery and Prince Georges County.

If the Public Service Commission approves the issue after the hearing in Baltimore, the bonds will go on sale at once. While admitting the present unsatisfactroy state of the bond market, members of the Sanitary Commission hope that it will improve before the bonds are ready for the market. They will not be sold unless the market improves, it was said.

The tentative projects listed in the application to the Public Service Commission are: Sewer extension, Holly and Dogwood avenues, Takoma Park; water extension, Namakadan and Iroquois avenues, Glen Echo Heights; water extension, Ken-Gar subdivision.

Water extension, Summit avenue, Chevy Chase View; water extension Biltmore drive and Central parkway, Indian Springs Park; sewer extension, Highland drive, Woodside Park; water extension, Cedar street, Silver Spring, and sewer extension Biltmore road, Silver Spring.

The issue will be dated February 1, with 4½ per cent and will consist of 30 to 50-year sinking fund securities. After approval by the Public Service Commission, the bonds must be signed by the presidents of the boards of commissioners of Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties.

J.B.Diamond,Jr.,Named Loan Association Head

John B. Diamond, jr., of Gaithersburg, Md., was elected president at the annual meeting of the directors of the Citizens Building & Loan Association of Montgomery County, held Thursday night at Rockville. Other officers elected were Frank L. Hewitt, first vice president; Lewis Keiser, second vice president; Clifford H. Robertson, secretary; George Wolfe, treasurer, and Miss Ann Yearley, assistant secretary.

The directors were elected at an earlier meeting of the stockholders as follows: S. Walter Bogley, Harold E. Doyle, John B. Diamond, jr., Roy M. Heizer, Frank L. Hewitt, Dr. Howard H. Howlett, George M. Hunter, John H. Hunter, Lewis Keiser, Howard M. Marlow, Dr. Claude W. Mitchell, William F. Prettyman, William R. Pumphrey, jr., Clifford H. Robertson, Augustus R. Selby, Frank B. # Arlington Drivers Buy 1,000 Car Tags in Day

An eleventh-hour rush for automobile tags in Arlington County yesterday resulted in the sale of approximately 1,000 tags at the office of Sheriff Howard B. Fields and at the office of J. V. Turner in East Falls Church. The total amount of money taken in according to a report from Mr. Turner will be in excess of $17,000.

With midnight last night as the deadline for Virginia tags Sheriff Howard B. Fields will have his officers with State police today checking up on all residents of the county operating cars with last year's tags.

Insurance Firm Sued In Farm Machine Loss

Suit to compel the Mutual Fire Insurance Co. in Harford County, a Maryland corporation, to pay damages resulting from the loss of a thrashing machine by fire, was filed yesterday in Montgomery County Circuit Court, at Rockville, Md., by Algie P. Gregg, of Barnesville district, through Attorney John Oxley.

The plaintiff alleges that although he had complied with all of the requirements of the company and was not in default in his premium, the company has refused to pay a claim of $1,200 for a thrashing machine damaged by fire.

Mrs. Dashiell Reelected.

Recent elections in the Hyattsville Council of Federated Churchwomen resulted in the reelection of Mrs. Louis Dashiell, of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, as president. # DRY MEN ARE SUED FOR ENTERING HOME

$5,000 Asked for Injury to Reputation by Man in Montgomery.

Suit for damages of $5,000, alleging injury to his reputation through a search warrant sworn out by Sergt. Guy L. Jones and a search of his premises was filed in Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville, Md., yesterday by George E. Nicholson, of near Olney. Chief of Police Alvie A. Moxley and Sergt. Jones, commanding the Silver Spring substation of Montgomery County police, are named as defendants.

Through Attorney P. Barnard Welsh, of Rockville, Mr. Nicholson alleged that although the defendants knew his good reputation, Sergt. Jones, on September 29, 1931, obtained a search warrant by swearing before Frank I. Davis, clerk of the County Police Court, that intoxicating drinks were kept on his premises. He further alleges that Sergt. Jones, accompanied by two aids, made a search of his premises in his absence without finding any intoxicating liquor, and that Sergt. Jones, in obtaining the warrant, and Chief Moxley, in causing such an affidavit to be made, committed a subterfuge and a fraud for the purpose of entering the premises of the plaintiff.

Mr. Nicholson claims that news of the accusations contained in the affidavit spread throughout the neighborhood and injured his reputation.

Sergt. Jones last night explained that the warrant was intended for a married son of Mr. Nicholson, whose house is on the same farm. He said that as soon as the police found that the son did not live at the main house they returned to Rockville and obtained another warrant for the son, which was served.

At the home of the son the police found a still and a partly filled keg of alleged liquor in a meat house. The son told Sergt. Jones that everything in the meat house belonged to his father, the policeman said. The son later was acquitted of charges of possession with intent to sell when he told Judge Charles W. Woodward that he kept the still to make a "little applejack" for his own use.

Branchville-Glenndale Road Body Is Organized

An association to back the building of a highway from Branchville, on the Baltimore boulevard, to Glenn Dale, near the Defense highway, has been formed in Prince Georges County, with W. F. Mulligan as president.

Other officers are D. N. Hoover, vice president; A. J. Thomas, treasurer, and R. S. Washburn, secretary. The official name of the group will be "The Branchville-Glenn Dale-Defense Highway Road Association." Representatives of six communities are said to be included in the organization, which is pledged to promote construction of the road "in every possible manner."

18 Months Is Sentence Of Taxi Liquor Runner

Sentences totaling eighteen months in jail and fines amounting to $75 were assessed against a taxi driver arrested for transportation of liquor when he was convicted in Prince Georges County Police Court in Marlboro, Md., yesterday.

The man is Jerome Morris, colored, of Washington, driver of the taxi which was pursued from the intersection of the Defense and Crain highways to Capitol Heights, where it was wrecked. He was given twelve months for exceeding 60 miles per hour, six months for transportation, $50 fine for using a smoke screen and $25 fine for reckless driving.

Woman's 19-Story Fall Is Adjudged Accidental

Philadelphia, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—A coroner's jury today returned a verdict of accidental death in the case of Miss Frieda M. Burkle, formerly of Waterbury, Conn., who fell from a window on the nineteenth floor of a central-city building where she had an office.

Miss Burkle, an art expert and a lecturer for the Schurz Memorial Foundation, was killed on January 4. Milton Smith, a detective, testified he had learned Miss Burkle had spoken of self-destruction because of worry over the death of a relative.

PLANNING IS URGED IN NEARBY VIRGINIA

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Speaking at the monthly dinner meeting of the Alexandria, Arlington and Fairfax Real Estate Board, held at the Washington Golf and Country Club last night, Charles W. Eliot 2d, of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, declared that there should be provided a single agency that can speak for this section of northern Virginia, concerning problems looking to its present and future development.

Pointing out some of the problems which now face this section, Mr. Eliot declared the development of the highway system for this entire section, covering an area of 20 miles, is a most serious one, especially regarding widths of highways. Arlington County is confronted with a most serious condition, especially at its outlets into the National Capital.

Another matter that he said should be given serious consideration is the matter of providing park areas. The commission does not wish to see this section bond itself heavily for such areas, but plans for acquiring suitable sites, should be under way now before values increase as they are bound to in the near future.

He stated that plans for carrying on the George Washington Memorial Parkway project are going forward. He urged the people of this section to get behind the movement and encourage the passage of a bill which he understands will be introduced at this session of the Virginia Assembly to aid the project.

Declaring that Arlington County and this section of the State has no complaint from the depression, Frank Lyon gave out the following figures to bear out his statement:

In Lyon Village section alone, twelve homes were built that sold during the year for a total of $120,000. In Lyon Park section there were 19 homes erected which sold for a total of $150,000.

This year in Lyon Village there will be, some of which are now in course of construction, ten homes which will sell for $110,000 and in Lyon Park there are under way thirteen homes which will sell for $100,000.

During 1930 there were 54 miles of roadway improvements in the county. In Lyon Village and Lyon Park alone, eight miles were improved at a cost of $50,000.

In addition to the above many thousands of dollars were spent in the development of the county's water system, improvements in the telephone company and other utilities.

"This does not," said Mr. Lyon, "indicate there is any depression in this section."

Among the guests were County Manager Roy S. Braden, Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas and Mrs. Elizabeth Magruder, Harry A. Fellows, Fred A. Gosnell, John C. Gall and Lyman M. Kelley, members of the county board, W. Sheldon Washington, president, presided.

SATURDAY RECIPES PRAISED BY WOMEN

New and Attractive Concoctions Are Found Welcomed in Households.

Favorable comments on the Saturday Food Page of The Washington Post come into the hands of the Food Editor constantly showing the women readers of The Post appreciate this chance to obtain new and more attractive recipes for the use of their households.

Two letters of this type were entered recently in the contest on the subject, "Why I Like to Read the Saturday Food Page of The Washington Post.

From Mrs. Warren Fisher, East Falls Church, Va., came:

"I love to read this page as I can learn how other women make good dishes for their table, also good puddings, pies, cakes and different ways in preparing meats, vegetables and so many other good recipes. I am always glad to get new recipes at any time and I know I have enjoyed these I get out of your paper."

From Mrs. Hattie P. Tolson, 3646 Park place northwest:

"There are really so many reasons why I read the Saturday Food Page that I hardly know which reason to give first—though the main reason is that I love to cook and am therefore vastly interested in anything pertaining to food and its preparation. Therefore, cooking being my chief hobby, I find myself looking forward all the week to The Post's Saturday Food Page to give me new inspirations for the following week. Sometimes the recipes are most unusual. They interest me and I try them. Then, again, some are so fine that I take a genuine pleasure in not only trying them once but often repeating my trials, each time endeavoring to improve on the time before.

"Again, I, being a woman, have a great curiosity with a lot of interest combined in reading the names of the winners of the money, books, and honorable mention for their efforts; and, last, but by no means least, by reading the Saturday Food Page I can keep up to the minute on market prices by the prices listed each Saturday on this particular page; and I find also that the articles written by Mildred Reed Bundy under "Market Meanderings" gives even my mind food for the week."

(Awarded Book Prize.)
Cake Part.

½ cup butter
¾ cup sugar
4 egg yolks
3 tablespoons milk
1 cup Washington Self Rising Flour
1 teaspoon vanilla

Meringue Part.

4 egg whites
⅛ teaspoon cream of tartar
¾ cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
¼ cup pecans (chopped fine).

Cake part—Cream butter and sugar, add egg yolks, and beat thin; add milk; mix in sifted flour last.

Pour cake part into well-greased cake pan, spread with meringue and chopped nuts. Bake 40 minutes at 350 degrees.

(Mrs.) LENA POWERS,
3002 Rodman street northwest.

BUTTERSCOTCH COOKIES.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

2 cups brown sugar
1 cup butter
1 cup nut meats (M. B. Frazier)
4 cups flour
2 eggs
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon boiling water

Cream butter, add sugar, cream well together; chop in eggs, beat thoroughly, add vanilla and soda dissolved in hot water, mix with sifter, tartar, salt and flour together and mix all together with hands; slice nut meats and mix with a little of the flour added. Make in rolls, wrap in wax paper and let stand in the refrigerator five or six hours (or until firm). Slice ¼ inch thick and bake in hot oven, 425 to 450 degrees, 12 to 15 minutes. MRS. W. G. ATKINS.
4134 New Hampshire avenue northwest.

CINNAMON APPLES.
(Honorable Mention.)

The following is a recipe which is both a time saver and is quite delicious used either as a salad or as a dessert—for the apples can be cooked and kept in an ice-box, almost indefinitely, for any emergency.

Ready for Use Apples.

2 cups of sugar (Sanitary)
1½ cups of water
2 teaspoons cinnamon extract
1 teaspoon vegetable coloring (red)
About 6 or 7 solid apples (Sanitary)

Bring sugar, water, flavoring and coloring to a boil, pare and core the apples, then drop into the boiling sirup. Cook very slowly, turning the apples occasionally, until they are quite red and done, but be sure to take them up while they are still holding their shape. After removing apples, boil the sirup to a jelly consistency, then pour this thickened sirup over the apples and set away to use as needed. This jelly can be used over and over again for boiling more apples.

(As a Salad).

Stuff the hollow of the red apple with Philadelphia cream cheese, and put each apple on a green leaf of lettuce, placing a sponful of mayonnaise by the side of apple.

(As a Dessert).

Put each red apple on a green glass dish, fill center of apple and pile high with sweetened whipped cream—then lay a couple of nabisco wafers on the side of each dish.

MRS. HATTIE P. TOLSON,
3646 Park Place northwest.

FAIRY LEMON PIE.
(Honorable mention.)

3 eggs (Rockingham fresh eggs—Sanitary)
1 cup sugar
1 lemon
3 tablespoons boiling water

Into a double boiler put the yolks of eggs and ½ of the sugar, together with the juice and grated rind of the lemon; add the water and cook into a custard. When thick, fold in the egg whites (very stiffly beaten), with the rest of the sugar. Fill crust and brown in oven. As there is no cornstarch or flour in this filling the whites of the eggs must be very firm.

MRS. ORMOND COX.
107 Grafton street, Chevy Chase, Md.

SALMON WITH PEAS.
(Honorable mention.)

1 can Chum salmon
1 cup canned green peas
1 1-3 cups milk
¼ cup Washington self-rising flour
3 teaspoons Land o' Lakes butter
3 tablespoons oil
3 teaspoons lemon juice
2 teaspoons minced parsley
Paprika to taste.

Take salmon from can without breaking it, heat through. Heat the oil in a pan, sift in the flour and cook smooth, stirring; add the milk scalded slowly. Stir until smooth. Add the seasonings, peas and butter and blend. Put the salmon on a hot dish. Bring the sauce to a boil and pour over the salmon. Serve with hot boiled rice.

MARIE EULALIE MORAN.
2416 Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

BAKED CHEESE AND MACARONI.
(Honorable Mention.)

½ pound Old English cheese
¾ package Mueller's macaroni
1 egg.
1 pint milk
Salt.

Boil macaroni in rapidly boiling water, well salted, till very tender, put half of this in baking dish. Cover with half the cheese, broken into bits. Add remainder of macaroni and cover with remaining cheese. Beat one egg and add to pint of milk. Season this with salt and pour over cheese and macaroni.

Bake in oven till firm as custard and brown on top.

Yield—sufficient for six or eight persons. Can be made early in day and remain palatable till evening. For success of this dish, it is important that Old English cheese—bought by pound—be used.

Recipe for Peanut Butter Muffins Wins Prize of $5

Mrs. W. N. Crawford Gets Post's Award With Breakfast Dish.

The Post recipe judges went to the oven this week when they awarded the $5 prize for a breakfast bread specialty, "peanut butter muffins."

Of course, muffins are not necessarily a breakfast dish, but this oven product, entered in the contest by Mrs. W. N. Crawford, 4117 Thirty-seventh street northwest, should be most delicious as a supplement to the crisp bacon of the breakfast table.

The recipe follows:

Peanut Butter Muffins.
(Awarded $5 Prize.)

4 tablespoons lard (Sanitary grocery)
5 tablespoons peanut butter (Schlindler's)
1 cup corn meal
1 cup sour milk
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon soda
¾ teaspoon salt
1 egg (Rockingham, Sanitary)

Melt the fat and peanut butter together and mix well. Add the milk, then the dry ingredients, mixed and sifted together. Add the beaten egg and bake in greased muffin tins.

Prices of Eggs At Record Low

30 Cents a Dozen Is Asked at Retail; 40 Cents a Year Ago.

The price of eggs, this week as low as 30 cents a dozen, retail, in certain markets, is one of the lowest egg price records for January. The 1931 January egg price was about 40 cents per dozen.

Phenomenally warm weather and generous production are responsible for the drop in the egg market, a dealer in eggs in a large Washington market stated. He said that a sudden winter temperature might make sharp upward changes in the egg market, but that the trend in the next several weeks would probably be downward, rather than upward as spring comes on.

Butter has accompanied eggs in the drop in price, the retail price this week being from 33 to 40 cents a pound, depending on the quality.

Chili Con Carne.

2 chili peppers
2 pounds beef flank
1 clove garlic, chopped
2 tablespoons fat
1 can frijole (Mexican) or kidney beans
Flour

Remove seeds from peppers and soak pods in pint of warm water, until soft. Scrape pulp from skins and add to water. Heat the fat, add meat, cut in cubes, and fry until browned. Add garlic and chili water and cook until meat is tender, adding more water, if necessary. Thicken with a little flour mixed to a smooth paste with cold water. Add the beans and cook 5 minutes longer. (Chili powder—½ to 1 tablespoon—may be used instead of the chili peppers.)

East Indian Curry.

2 tablespoons fat
1 onion, sliced
1 tablespoon curry powder
1½ pounds beef
¼ teaspoon salt
Juice ½ lemon
Rice

Heat fat, add onion and cook until slightly browned. Add curry, mix well, and cook a few minutes. If too dry, add a little hot water. Add the meat, cut in cubes, and saute until brown. Add water, salt, and lemon juice, cover and cook until meat is tender. Always serve curry with rice. Chutney, shredded coconut, chopped peanuts, and small pickled onions may be served as relishes. Curried mutton is also delicious.

Pineapple BananaFritter

Beat one egg well, and add one-fourth cup milk, one cup flour, and one and one half teaspoons baking powder, one tablespoon confectioner's sugar, one-fourth teaspon salt and one mashed banana. Drain the contents of one 8-ounce can of crushed Hawaiian pineapple, and add. Drop by spoonfuls into deep hot fat, 370 degrees, and fry until brown Serve, sprinkled with powdered sugar. This makes from twelve to fourteen fritters.

Market Meanderings

By MILDRED REED BUNDY.

White lilacs, daffodils and pussy willows in the market this week nearly made the meanderer forget that her mission is among the potatoes and the parsnips. No matter. There was never a potato or a parsnip that couldn't be glorified by occupying the same table with flowers. And the heady fragrance of the lilacs and the ineffable charm of the daffodils held transfixed other ladies, much more important ladies than the meanderer. One such was the wife of a late President, one who delights in choosing and carrying home her flowers, rather than depending on her chauffeur or her florist for their delivery. Another who spent some time in the market flower shops is a President's daughter, whose recent sorrow Washington shared deeply.

Roses needn't be red or big or expensive to have great appeal. Diminutive Talisman roses, deep yellow with inner petal linings of bright rose color, are irresistible at $2.00 a dozen.

In the category of things irresistible the meanderer found this week should go the cream pies incomparable at a G street pastry shop Into a tender pastry shell goes pure whipped cream, of lemon, orange, or strawberry flavored, or finely chopped burnt almonds to make a pie that is notably good and different. Such a pie sells for 60 cents. At this pastry shop there is a special cake, often made for children's delight, known as a Noah's Ark cake. The artist icing chef molds chocolate animals about the big two-layer cake with butter cream filling. Bridge party hostesses like the individual mysterious cakes flavored with rum from this shop. And the list of bon voyage cakes, engagement or shower cakes, birthday, anniversary, and wedding cakes from this shop is endless.

Humble herrings for a low price aren't the only herrings on the market. There is the nice grade of Bismarck herring in cans, tagged Bismarck herring ever since the time when the great German by that name lost his temper because the herring served him was too full of bones. He threw the bones impatiently from his plate, and through the last half century certain boneless herrings are labeled Bismarck herrings. This legend is vouched for by a fancy goods dealer in one corner of a big downtown market.

Rhubarb, hothouse variety of a handsome rose color, is now offered at fruit and vegetable stands. It is tempting even at 30 cents a pound.

Honey melons from Chile are among the more interesting offerings in one high-class food stand in a local market. They are priced at from 75 cents to $1.25.

Sweet potato boats sound like the title of a company dish from a cook book, but sweet potato boats are real boats highly important in the Potomac River region. They are now anchored at the wharves in Southwest Washington, as they have anchored for years and years, perhaps for nearly a century. The eastern shores of Maryland and Virginia produce seven-eighths of the swee' potatoes of the world, according to the statement of the captain of the Gladys, a certain sweet potato boat, who has brought his cargo to Washington for the last ten years. His is no mean cargo, for it includes from 1,000 to 2,000 bushels of sweet potatoes. And they retail at 50 cents a bushel!

Strawberries, now at 40 cents a quart in nearly all markets, are not much more than half the price asked in January last year.

The cooks who prefer chives for seasoning instead of the usual onion will want the little chives plants just received at one market in downtown Washington. The chives, grown in New York State, retail in the local shops for 35 cents for a sizeable plant. If kept moist in a little pot, the chives plant will thrive indefinitely. It makes a delightful little kitchen decoration.

A long-stalked, spicily fragrant flower with white blossoms, suggestive of mignonette in its odor, is buddleia, one of the new arrivals in a certain florist shop. It is used gracefully in combination with other flowers. At the same shop the sprays of small flame-colored flowers known as euphorbia, are attracting much attention.

The best of globe artichokes must be plump, tight and green. Such high-grade artichokes are on sale in one well-known food shop in a centrally located market. They are a bit high, at 25 cents each, but extraordinary in their quality.

Gjetost—no it's not misspelled—it's the name of a rare Norwegian cheese found in the corner of a big downtown market for 70 cents a pound. Gjetost is made from goat milk.

WINDOW SILL COOKING

Cooking with the sunshine on the window sill—did you ever hear of anything so silly in all your life?

It's just as silly to expect efficient refrigeration from a box suspended outside a window in the winter time . . . with foods exposed to the elements, temperatures rising and falling with the weather . . . inconvenience, frozen foods . . .

After all, Electric Refrigeration is the best refrigeration. And why should you put up with inconveniences and makeshifts, with possible danger to health, when Electric Refrigerators are within the reach of everyone?

Your neighborhood electrical shop will gladly tell you about the convenient terms of purchase that make it so easy for you to own an Electric Refrigerator.

CHURCH PLANNING FOR CENTENNIAL

Concordia Will Begin With Observing Ninty-ninth Year of Foundation.

Concordia Church is making preparations for celebrating its centennial. The church was organized on January 7, 1833, and so tomorrow it will be 99 years of age.

Andrew Jackson was President when a little group of 68 men and women met and formed the German United Protestant Evangelical Church. This name was changed when a new charter was obtained in 1885 to Concordia Lutheran Evangelical Church.

In a meeting held on last Wednesday the congregation made plans for the celebration of the hundredth anniversary. These plans include the raising of funds for the remodeling of the basement and the chapel of the church to provide the church with a modern educational plant and with adequate recreational facilities.

The plans for the remodeling were prepared by Dr. Henry E. Tralle, church building consultant, and John Thomson, architect, working together with the following committee: Dr. William P. Herbst, chairman; the Rev. Charles Enders, H. F. Dunkhorst, C. N. Schroeder, August Becker, jr., and R. W. Santelmann.

The hundredth year of the congregation's existence will be inaugurated by the celebration of the ninety-ninth anniversary tomorrow. In both the German service at 10 a. m. and the English service at 11:15 a. m., the pastor, the Rev. Charles Enders, will preach on "Opportunities of the Hundredth Year."

First Congregational Will Honor Masons

There will be a special Masonic service at First Congregational Church tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Carl Claudy, worshipful master of Harmony Lodge, will speak on "The Relationship of Freemasonry to Religion." This service is under the auspices of the Senior Society of Christian Endeavor. The purpose of this particular service is to pay tribute to those earnest workers of First Church who are members of the Masonic Fraternity.

The following members will participate in the program: The Rev. Harvey C. Goddard, Dr. Charles E. Hewitt, Paul W. Holmes, Dr. Allen A. Stockdale and Miss Edith Williams, who has just been installed as worthy matron of the Eastern Star.

St. Paul's Congregation To Meet on Thursday

On Thursday night the annual congregational meeting of St. Paul's Lutheran Church will take place for elections, reports and other business. The past year has been an outstanding one in the history of St. Paul's, witnessing as it did the abandoning of the old church, where it worshiped for nearly a century, and the completion and dedication of the first unit of the beautiful new church at Connecticut avenue and Jocelyn street.

Great strides along many lines have been taken in the past twelve months, and this meeting should prove of unusual interest, as reports of the work done are submitted by the officers of the church and the various organizations.

Unique Dinner Planned By Grace Episcopal

The vestrymen of Grace Episcopal Church are to donate, prepare and serve a turkey dinner in the parish hall, Ninth and D streets southwest, Tuesday from 4:30 to 7 o'clock. There will be several unique features in this affair, advance notice of which will be broadcast over the radio.

Dr. Yerkes Will Preach at St. John's Tomorrow

The preacher, tomorrow morning, at St. John's, will be the Rev. Royden Keith Yerkes. Dr. Yerkes is professor of the history of religions in the Philadelphia Divinity School and instructor in the University of Pennsylvania and is one of the foremost American students in his subject.

He will preach in the morning at 11 and in the evening will deliver a lecture on "Isaiah the Courtier and Reformer."

Communion Planned With Healing Service

Holy communion will be celebrated by Dr. George F. Dudley at the service of Christian healing Tuesday morning at 10:30 at the Church of St. Stephen and the Incarnation, Fifteenth and Newton streets northwest.

The St. Stephen's Prayer Circle will meet Monday evening in the chapel of the Incarnation to study "The Galilean Accent," by Gossip, and to pray for the sick.

Old-Fashioned Hymns To Be Sung at Service

A popular evangelistic service will be held at the Full Gospel Tabernacle at North Capitol and K streets, at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night. Old-fashioned revival hymns will be sung by the congregation and the choir and orchestra will render special musical numbers.

Christian Science Churches

"Life" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The Golden Text is from I John 5:11: "This is the record, that God hath given us eternal life, and this life is in his Son." Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms" (Deuteronomy 33:27).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Text Book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. "When being is understood, Life will be recognized as neither material nor finite, but as infinite—as God, universal good, and the belief that life, or mind, was ever in a finite form, or good in evil will be destroyed." (Page 76.)

PLANS FOR FETE

Bishop of Alaska All Souls' Preacher

Dr. Rowe Travels by Sled and Airplane, Covering Vast Territory.

The Right Rev. Peter Trimble Rowe, Bishop of Alaska since 1895, who travels by sled, and now frequently by airplane, over the vast stretches of his diocese in that northern territory, will preach at the 11 o'clock service tomorrow morning at All Souls Memorial Episcopal Church, Cathedral avenue and Woodley place.

The first bishop of the missionary diocese of Alaska, Bishop Rowe has had an adventurous and notable career while visiting the various parishes of his diocese, many of which lie in the Arctic Circle. He has been probably the most notable leader in the civilization and social development of Alaska, having established many schools and hospitals in all sections of that northern territory, particularly for the aid of the Eskimos and Indians.

While in Washington, Bishop Rowe is the guest of friends of long standing, Allen and Miss Constantia Abert, 1914 Sunderland place northwest. He is in the East for a brief respite from his duties in his Alaskan diocese.

Foreign Work Is Topic Of School of Missions

The School of Missions at Central Presbyterian Church will be held on Thursday night at 6:15 p. m., in the Sunday School building. The general theme is "The Church Faces Foreign Missions." There will be group studies for men, women, young people and intermediate grades.

In view of the serious problem in the Orient, these studies are of great importance and value. Recently one of the missionaries of the Southern Presbyterian Church, Dr. Vinson, was murdered by the bandits in China. There has been much persecution of Missionaries in some of the foreign fields.

Missionary Will Tell Thrilling Indian Story

At the Church of the Epiphany tomorrow the sermon will be preached by the Rev. A. Abbott Hastings, of Ethete, Wyo., at 11 o'clock. Mr. Hastings has been most successful in his work among the Arapahoe Indians and an account of his work will be a thrilling story of adventure among the Indians.

The special preacher at the evening service at 8 o'clock will be the Right Rev. Peter Trimble Rowe, Bishop of Alaska, who is one of the greatest heroes of missionary endeavor on the frontier of our American continent in Alaska.

College Park Group Hits Mapes Bill and Crooners

Disapproval of the income tax feature of the Mapes bill and of radio "crooners" was expressed by the Progress Club of College Park, Md., at a recent meeting there. Copies of the resolution against "crooning" were ordered to be sent to all radio stations in the vicinity.

The action of the club on the Mapes bill preserves the unanimity of disapproval with which it is regarded in Prince Georges County. Every organization which has officially passed on the legislation has opposed it. The stroke at radio songsters also was called to the attention of the County Federation of Women's Clubs, with a suggestion that the county group also go on record against this form of entertainment.

HOLY NAME RETREAT TO CONTINUE 4 DAYS

Rev. T. F. Conlon to Officiate for Men at St. Dominic's Beginning Tomorrow.

Tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock the Rev. Thomas F. Conlon, national director of the Holy Name Society, will open a retreat for Holy Name men in St. Dominic's Church. This retreat will continue for four days, closing on Wednesday evening. Father Conlon is the editor of the Holy Name Journal and is known throughout the East as one of the able orators of the Dominican Order.

The Holy Name Society of St. Dominic's Church invites the Holy Name men of all other parishes in the city to unite in making the retreat during the coming week. They also extend an invitation to all the good women of the city who may care to hear this gifted orator to assist at these exercises.

For Catholic University.

The first reports from 28 of the 104 dioceses of the Roman Catholic Church in the United States indicate that the first step in the expansion program recently adopted by the bishops of the country for the Catholic University of America may be achieved.

All dioceses which made returns to date have reported a great increase in the annual collection taken up in all the churches on "Catholic University Day," the first Sunday of Advent, November 29, over the collection of the previous year. Practically all the dioceses that have reported have reached the diocesan "targets" established by the survey council of the university.

One million dollars is the goal set for the campaign.

Father's Smith's Sermon.

The Very Rev. Ignatius Smith, noted Dominican preacher, who has been filling the Church of the Immaculate Conception at its 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon broadcast service of the past two Sundays, will deliver his third sermon on this January series tomorrow. His subject is "Christ the Workman."

Father Francis J. Hurney, director of the Washington Catholic Radio Hour which broadcasts weekly over Station WOL, will preside at the service.

The blessing of the sick and other special Lourdes devotions will take place at the Grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes in the church.

Miss Florence Yocum and Miss Ann Arlen will be guest artists. The Boys Sanctuary Choir will sing under the direction of Prof. Harry Wheaton Howard.

Faher Nevils on the Air.

The Rev. W. Coleman Nevils, president of Georgetown University, will speak on "The Essentials of Jesuit Education" in the Catholic period of the "Church of the Air" to be broadcast over a Nation-wide network of the Columbia Broadcasting System at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow.

The music of the Catholic period will be furnished by Georgetown University singers, under the direction of Prof. Edward Donovan.

Lenten Adult School Plans Under Way

Preliminary plans have been made for the second year's session of the Lenten adult school of religion, to be conducted at the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church.

The school will be conducted on the six Thursday evenings during Lent. There will be four elective courses from 7 to 7:50 o'clock dealing with various phases of modern religious thought and life, and from 8 to 9 o'clock the members of the four classes will meet in a general assembly to hear a prominent speaker on a phase of religion in its relation to modern life.

Concert and Reception To Honor Dr. McCartney

The Men's Society of the Covenant-First Church will give a concert by the Covenant Quartet to the membership of the church January 25 at 8:30 o'clock in the chapel of the church, and a reception will follow in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Albert Joseph McCartney in commemoration of the second anniversary of their ministry at the church.

Rector's Aid Society To Have Social Hour

1,000 MEN AND BOYS TO TAKE COMMUNION

Corporate Rite at Epiphany Church Is Planned on February 22.

More than 1,000 men and boys, including many "fathers and sons," are expected to attend the fourth annual corporate Communion of the Diocese of Washington at the Church of the Epiphany on Washington's Birthday, February 22, to be followed by a fellowship breakfast, at which former Senator George Wharton Pepper, of Pennsylvania; the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, and probably another distinguished speaker will deliver addresses on the theme of "Washington, the Patriot and Churchman."

With the corporate communion and fellowship breakfast, marking the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington, Bishop Freeman feels that the attendance by the men and boys of Washington and by visitors from other cities will constitute "a rededication of themselves to the teachings of Christ and to devotion to the United States and its ideals and the memory of Washington." He is issuing invitations to the men and boys of all the parishes of the diocese to participate, and visitors in Washington attending the opening exercises of the bicentennial celebration will be cordially welcomed at both the service and the breakfast.

The communion service, which will be celebrated by Bishop Freeman, assisted by the Rev. ZeBarney Phillips, rector of the Church of the Epiphany and chaplain of the Senate, and other prominent clergymen, will be held at 8 a. m. The service will be followed immediately by the fellowship breakfast at a place to be announced later.

Concert Announced By Missions Society

On Tuesday evening the Woman's Society for Missions of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church is sponsoring a concert to be held in the lecture room of the church. The society has been fortunate in securing the Glee Club of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. under the leadership of Robert Davidson, to take part in this program. Miss Margaret Morgan Harry will be the accompanist.

Others prominent in Washington musical circles who will take part in this program are Mrs. Helen Turley, contralto, accompanied by Mrs. Chester Adair and Mrs. Arthur Fast, soprano, who will be accompanied by Mrs. Frank P. Litschert. Another feature of the program will be a reading by Miss Elizabeth R. Seidenspinner.

St. Mary's Organizes St. Andrew Chapter

A chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew was organized last Saturday night at a banquet given at St. Mary's Parish Hall, Aspen, Md.

H. Lawrence Choate, past national president; Maj. F. Granville Munson, member of the national council, and W. R. Moody, rector of St. Mary's Chapel and secretary of the Northern convocation, spoke, presenting the purposes and ideals of the brotherhood. The secretary of the Potomac Assembly, Mr. Davidson, was present, representing the diocesan organization. At the election of officers Donald Bowie, jr., was chosen director; Charles R. Smith, vice director, and Donald P. Rabbitt, secretary-treasurer.

Box Class to Conduct Service at Y. M. C. A.

The Box Class of Emory M. E. Church South will have charge of the Sunday afternoon meeting at the Central Y. M. C. A. at 4 o'clock tomorrow. The president of the class, P. G. Cronan, will preside, and the teacher, R. E. Pogue, will deliver an address on the subject, "Decisions."

The two motion pictures which will be shown in connection with the address will be "The Day of Decisions" and "Jesus Chooses His Friends." Both pictures will be taken from episodes in the life of Christ.

Dr. Niles Will Conduct Round Table Discussion

The Rev. Frank S. Niles, minister of Georgetown Presbyterian Church, will conduct a round table discussion at the church tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock on the topic, "My Share in My Home."

On Thursday evening he will give the third of a series of talks on the Presbyterian Church, discussing the topic, "The Session as Leaders in the Program of the Church."

Senator King to Speak To Women's Alliance

Senator William H. King, of Utah, will address the annual meeting of the Women's Alliance of All Souls' Unitarian Church next Friday evening on the subject "Our International Relations." The meeting will be preceded by a dinner.

Roger Williams Topic Tomorrow of Dr. Sizoo

At the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening, Dr. Sizoo, the minister, will continue his series of discussions of religious leaders of the colonial period, when he will speak on "The Religious Leadership of Roger Williams."

Rebirth Topic of Sermon.

"How Can a Man Be Born Again" is the subject of an address at the Men's Bible Class of Francis Asbury M. E. C. S., Sixteenth street near Lamont street, tomorrow morning at 9:45 o'clock. The speaker will be Tracy L. Jeffords.

CHURCHES TO HEAR ANTISALOON MEN

Delegates to Conference to Speak on Prohibition Tomorrow.

Washington is filling up with representatives of the Antisaloon League of America, who are coming here to attend the national conference which will be held next week. Every State in the Federal Union is represented, and among the delegates are the State directors of this organization, many of whom are ministers of the gospel.

At one of the services, and in some churches at both of the services, tomorrow the pulpits will be filled with these leaders of the antisaloon movement, who will talk on the theme: "Perils of Prohibition." In a number of the churches the pastors will also take this theme for their sermon topic.

A full list of these appointments has not been furnished The Post, but from those that have been sent to the paper the following are the appointments:

Mount Vernon Place Methodist South—The Rev. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Antisaloon League, 11 a. m.

Zoning at St. Columba's Is Proving Successful

The rector of St. Columba's Church, Forty-second and Albermarle streets northwest, has planned a series of morning sermons, each of which will contain general information of interest to churchgoers. Tomorrow morning will deal with the "Holy Communion."

The idea of zoning the parish with the purpose of increasing the attendance at the evening services is proving very successful. The zone captain and his committee call on the church members in his zone and invite them to come to the evening service. Tomorrow night the zoning is in charge of George Belt, captain of the northeast zone.

Anti-Christ Today Dr. Wilkinson's Topic

Illustrations from the history of the nations will be used by Dr. B. G. Wilkinson, dean of theology of Washington Missionary College, Takoma Park, in his lecture, "Three Great Words Which the Little Horn Spoke: or Present Day Anti-Christ," which will be presented tomorrow at 8 o'clock in Mount Pleasant Hall.

Preceding the lecture there will be a musical program conducted by Prof. H. A. Miller, from the college, and also a health demonstration "Water Treatments for Chest, Abdomen and Extremities," by a Washington Sanitarium representative.

Dr. McCartney to Preach To Lake Placid Club

Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney, minister of the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church, is acting chaplain of the Lake Placid Club for a few days and will preach there tomorrow.

In his absence the assistant minister, the Rev. J. Woodman Babbitt, will preach the sermonette to the children and the sermon at the morning hour. The subject of the children's sermonette is "The House With the Golden Shutters."

Guild to Observe Anniversary.

Pastor to Observe First Anniversary

Rev. R. J. Clinchy Completes Year at Mt. Pleasant Congregational.

Mount Pleasant Congregational Church will observe the first anniversary of the ministry of the Rev. Russell J. Clinchy, at the morning service tomorrow.

Mr. Clinchy was called as minister of Mount Pleasant Church in November, 1930, and formally took charge of the work of the church on the third Sunday in January last year. He came to Washington from the associate pastorate of the Broadway Tabernacle in New York City, where he had worked with Dr. Charles E. Jefferson, one of the leading Congregational ministers in the country, and had previously served churches in Detroit and Connecticut.

Since he has been at Mount Pleasant Church there have been fifty members added to the roll, a Lenten Adult School of Religion has been established, the Life Adjustment Center has been put on a permanent, all-year basis, a relief commission has been organized to operate during the period of depression and unemployment, Fishburn Hall, a new recreation center has been opened, all the other activities of the church have been expanded, and there will be no curtailment of the work during 1932.

Cathedral Plans Lenten Conference

Laymen Will Be Guests of College of Preachers at Six Week-Ends.

A series of six week-end conferences during the coming Lenten season for Episcopal laymen will be held in February and March at Washington Cathedral, marking the fourth consecutive year of these devotional sessions.

Announcement of the Lenten conferences which will be held on the week-ends of February 12-14, February 19-21, February 26-28, March 4-6, March 11-13 and March 18-20 was made yesterday by the Right Rev. P. M. Rhinelander, warden of the College of Preachers of Washington Cathedral. Accommodations are available for a maximum of 20 men to attend each conference.

The laymen at the conferences live as guests of Washington Cathedral at the College of Preachers, having their meals in the refectory, holding their sessions in the common room and worshiping in the chapel. The building was presented and endowed by the late Alexander Smith Cochran, a friend of Bishop Freeman. The previous conferences have been attended by men from many different sections of the country.

Minister From Detroit At National Christian

During the absence of Dr. H. H. Harman, minister of the National City Christian Church, the pulpit will be occupied tomorrow at the 11 o'clock morning service by Dr. George W. Morrow, of Detroit, and at the 8 o'clock evening service by Dr. W. H. Pinkerton, of this city, and formerly of St. Louis.

LA ARGENTINA WINS OVATIONS IN DANCES

Latin Artist's Program at National Theater Is Marked Hit.

La Argentina danced her way into the hearts of a capacity audience at the National Theater yesterday afternoon in a program of Spanish dances La Argentina was assisted by Luis Galve, pianist, and she appeared under the management of Mrs. Wilson Greene.

Every secret of choreographic art seemingly is possessed by the dancer and her picturesque costumes added to the series of stage pictures she presented in her program. Native grace, an unfailing sense of rhythm and a charming personality won her audience from the start and her presentations were followed by spontaneous ovation after ovation.

Senor Galve is a pianist of technical skill and interpretative ability. He opened the program with "Evocation" from Albeniz's "Iberia."

A Turina dance, "Andalouse Sentimentale," was the first appearance of La Argentina. By the time she had finished her first group the audience was hers.

One of the most applauded of the numbers was the classic bolero by I. Albeniz.

An outstanding presentation was an Iberian dance, by Joaquin Nin, a choreographic drama in three parts, danced without pause. This composition had been dedicated by La Argentina. She adorned the dedication with an exquisitely beautiful protrayal of its measures which was followed by a storm of applause.

The final number included a lovely "Seguidillas,' danced without music and to the sound of castanets played with a master hand by the dancer herself, and "La Corrida," which she was obliged to repeat due to the persistent encores.

"TONIGHT OR NEVER." Samuel Goldwyn's picturization for United Artists of the play by Lili Hatvany, adapted to the screen by Frederic and Fanny Hatton, starring Gloria Swanson, supported by Melvyn Douglas, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Warburton Gamble, Robert Gregg, Greta Mayer and Boris Karloff. Directed by Mervyn LeRoy. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

A sumptuously mounted film romance, this, which will do much to rehabilitate Gloria Swanson in the eyes of those who have not been vastly intrigued by the farcical nature of her recent vehicles.

In molding this springhtly comedy-drama to the requirements and capabilities of one of the cinema's most gifted stars, Samuel Goldwyn has proved himself a discerning showman by availing himself of the contributory services of a distinguished group of experts in their respective fields. The Lili Hatvany play, originally presented on the stage by the late David Belasco, was adapted to the cameras by Frederic and Fanny Hatton, accomplished playwrights on their own account, and the screen play written by Ernest Vajda. A series of gorgeous settings were created by Willy Pogany and a cast of remarkable balance engaged to support Miss Swanson. The result, necessarily, is a picture that reflects the artistry and the care that entered into its making.

The story, of course, is known. It is another exposition of the theory—which may or may not be a tenable one—that no woman can become a great operatic artiste until she has loved and become the submissive victim of the grand passion. Nella Vago is a prima donna whom we encounter first in Venice. She has a magnificent vocal organ, but no heart—petulant, capricious, vacillating, always in quest of she knows not quite what. Nella determines, finally, to supply the deficiency in her life by daring and extrordinary means. These means, incidentally, are wholly justified by the end they serve.

Miss Swanson, as Nella, is again the seductive beauty of the old De Mille days, magnificently gowned, heavily bejeweled and altogether fascinating. Perhaps it is a habit acquired during the temporary recession of her plays from their formerly higher standard of excellence that causes her to suggest farce in one or two of the comedy scenes, and it may be the same unfortunate influence that robs one or two of the more serious moments of the finesse that marks most of them, but in the large view this is the most engaging thing the Swanson has done in many many months.

In the opposite role of the young American impresario, traveling incognito in search of voices for the Metropolitan Opera, Melvyn Douglas assumes the same role he created in the original stage production in support of his wife, Miss Helen Gahagan. His performance is flawless and his acquisition to the ranks of leading men endowed with every essential attribute of immediate screen success is ample excuse for community singing and dancing in the streets!

Among the others in the cast, Alison Skipworth, most reliable of the character women, offers a perfectly wrought characterization as a retired diva and Ferdinand Gottschalk transfers to celluloid, although not with such complete success, the facile talents that have long made him an important figure on the stage. His Rudig, Nella's teacher and coach, is a vital character in the play and one which Mr. Gottschalk makes least effective in his lighter efforts. Robert Gregg causes a butler to become noteworthy and Warburton Gamble portrays an explosive and perfidious lover with amusingly exaggerated pomposity. Boris Karloff appears momentarily in one scene as a waiter.

"Lights and Shadows," the stage portion of the entertainment, introduces a marvelously clever juggler in Josef Blank: Fred Lightner and Rosella and Gordon, Reed and King, supported by a group of agile Chester Hale Girls, in one of the less pretentious of the Loew revues.

Harry Borjes conducts the orchestra in a "Gershwiniana" overture that is well worth attention. The bill is completed by a new issue of the Hearst Metrotone News, a Scrappy cartoon comedy, "The Chinatown Mystery," which isn't so much a mystery as why it was ever filmed, and Charles Gaige's pipe organ interludes.

"PRIVATE LIVES." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's picturization of Noel Coward's play, starring Norma Shearer and Robert Montgomery, supported by Una Merkel and Reginald Denny. Directed by Sidney Franklin. Reviewed (second week) by Dorothea Lewis.

Bitter, better, brittle, brilliant bickering is to be found here in the very best Noel Coward manner. It's all vastly amusing. And with Norma Shearer, Robert Montgomery, Una Merkel and Reginald Denny as the famous, much-married quartet there is little necessity for saying anything further about this second week business, save, "of course" and "naturally" and mayhap a murmured "well deserved."

But for those who somehow have thus far sadly shunned this merry marital marathon, here's the thread of the story upon which Coward hangs his shimmering witticisms and shin-digs.

"Mandy" and Elyot, who spent their first honeymoon togther at St. Moritz, meet on their second with two quite different mates, only to hip off together, leaving the second-stringers to console each other. Together in Switzerland, all the old bickering, snarling, fighting starts again, but somehow Mandy and Elyot, with their catch-world Sollacks and a frantic love, stave off actual battling until just before the second-stringers arrive to join in the festivities.

As can be gathered, it's not what they do, but how they do it plus what Coward wrote for them to say and how they say it.

It's a mustn't-be-missed show.

FOX

"DANCE TEAM." Fox's picturization of Sarah Addington's novel, adapted to the screen by Edwin Burke, starring James Dunn and Sally Eilers, supported by Harry Beresford, Ralph Morgan, Nora Lane and Minna Gombell. Directed by Sidney Lanfield. Reviewed Friday night by Dorothea Lewis.

You'll get a tremendous kick out of "Dance Team"—or should. And you owe yourself this one! Progressively, you'll chuckle, you'll laugh, and you'll blink a little, briskly. In fact, you'll like the picture, we'll guarantee; and, if you're still with us, you'll end by loving it.

There are three good reasons—Jimmy Dunn, Sally Eilers and Edwin Burke's dialogue. The direction, on the other hand, is not so good if it is to blame for several faulty transitions of time. A year or so a second is somewhat startling.

Jimmy and Sally are naturals as Jimmy Mulligan and Poppy Kirk, who meet because they can't keep their dancing feet still even on the street in front of a radio store. They form a dance team, Mulligan and Kirk (Jimmy sees that Mulligan's first); a team of "two fellows working together." Yet while they are telling each other that they'll never let sentiment "bust up their business arrangement," they are loving each other as only kids can.

Somehow, after plans and stunts and breaks have failed, Mulligan and Kirk skyrocket suddenly from 5-cent dance halls to success and, never having been that high before, find themselves pulled apart by a distance failure could never have taken them.

We are so deadly tired and icy cold from sophistication, so bored with boredom. Aren't you? And then here come Sally and Jimmy, who can't pretend to a thimbleful of sophistication between them, to refresh us and—if you're wise—you. They are human and sincere and pretty grand. When they're happy they smile and when they're sad they cry. They seem never to have heard that even the word emotion is taboo in smart society these days.

Mulligan is a delightful, wise-cracking, soft-hearted, lovable youngster and Jimmy plays him perfectly. The boy's as good as we thought him. Little Ellers, with her fragility and sweetness, does beautifully as Kirk. As a team, they have great appeal, and as for team opportunities, "Dance Team" is not an unworthy successor to "Bad Girl."

Harry Beresford stands out from the generally good supporting cast in an excellent portrayal of Herbert, the old trouper.

The stage show, except for Four Flushers, who make us wish the Three Sailors had never been born to people the earth with imitators, is not far behind the screen in entertainment value. It boasts of three unusually effective ballet numbers, beautifully costumed and staged, featuring Joe Rose, a good dancer in one number, and Natacha Nattova, unusual and graceful in two.

"THE SECRET WITNESS." Columbia presentation of a screen story by Samuel Spewack, adapted from "Murder in the Gilded Cage," featuring Una Merkel, William Collier, jr., and ZaSu Pitts, supported by Ralf Harolde, Purnell Pratt, Clyde Cook and Paul Hurst. Directed by Thornton Freeland. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

While it does not make any claims to greatness, "The Secret Witness" presents an engaging murder-mystery story, devoid of the eerie and other impedimenta designed to make more difficult the solution of the problem at hand.

A straight-forward murder, a suicide and a second violent demise (yes, it follows the style book), are followed with the customary allegations that point accusing fingers at all but the proper person. It's like this: A philandering business man refuses to marry his girl friend, at the same time being quite adamant against his wife's proposal for a divorce. Being rebuffed, the girl takes the shortest way between the penthouse and the ground and the wife makes ominous remarks and departs Enter death. Likewise enter Arthur Jones, the girl's brother, into the apartment of one Lois Martin, daughter of the police commissioner, where he had fled to escape the police.

Every one gets together in the penthouse and the investigation progresses. The engineer is called in to fix a blown-out fuse, and when about to reveal the secret is shot in the semidarkness. Lois, recalling the engineer's statement just preceding the fatal shot, hits upon a bright idea and—well, that's the point.

In the principal roles, Una Merkel and William Collier, jr., as the unraveler of the mystery and the unjustly harassed brother, contribute well-drawn delineations. Especially commendable is the excellent way Miss Merkel has sopped up the excess sirup from her Southern drawl and developed an accent that is really delightful. Not in the least extraordinary, yet entirely praiseworthy, is Mr. Collier.

ZaSu Pitts, in her characteristic manner, is the telephone girl furnishing a major portion of the comedy relief, addressing it over the wire to a nonappearing Elmer. Purnell Pratt, as the police captain; Paul Hurst, as a minion of the law; Ralf Harolde, as the third corner of a domestic triangle, and Clyde Cook as the engineer, offer valuable assistance in finally running down the criminal.

The sports world is well represented in the supporting program, with "Hollywood Halfbacks," a travesty on football made by The Thalians, depicting a "croocial" game between the Actors' and the Firemen's elevens, and a Christy Walsh sports-reel on basket ball, prefaced by shots of practically all major sports.

Briand May Begin Rest Tour Today

Expected to Motor to His Farm on Orders of Physician.

Paris, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Aristide Briand probably will take to the road early tomorrow morning to begin the rest insisted upon by his physician, Dr. H. Vaquez, a heart specialist.

Piloted by his faithful chauffeur, Julien, the former foreign minister will motor to his Normandy farm at Cocherel for a few days' repose in tranquil surroundings. His doctors will decide whether it will be wise for him to attend Tuesday's session of the Chamber of Deputies or whether he ought to go to the south of France for a period of convalescence.

On the eve of relinquishing his seven-year tenancy of the foreign office, M. Briand received a telegram of regret from Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, of Germany.

SIX-DAY DRUG CURE FOUND AT CORNELL

Patient Reported to Lose Craving by Treatment New to Medicine.

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Complete breaking of a morphine drug habit in six days by a treatment new to medicine was reported today at Cornell University.

The treatment is administration of a compound designed to wash the brain and nervous system clean of the "habit." This habit, under the Cornell interpretation, is a thickening of proteins in brain cells, a condition which persists after the narcotic is stopped and which accounts for the continuance of the craving. The new antidote, sodium rhodanate, is a peptizer, or thinner, of the thickened proteins.

First Trial Upon Human.

The hospital story of this case is to appear in the January number of the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences. It is told by Wilder D. Bancroft, Ph.D.; Robert S. Gutsell, M. D., and John E. Rutzler, jr.

It records the first application to a human being suffering from narcotic habit of discoveries at Cornell about a year ago that anesthesia, unconsciousness from a blow on the head, insanity, alcoholic intoxication and narcotic habits all have a similar physical basis, a change in the brain proteins. This research was done with the aid of the Heckscher Foundation for the advancement of science.

The morphine patient was a male nurse, an addict for sixteen years. Cures had been attempted six times previously, and he had been recorded as a "mean case." The treatment consisted in reducing him in six days from 12 grains of morphine daily to none; and substituting sodium rhodanate for the morphine cuts.

Craving for Drug Vanishes.

Narcotic reduction began his third day in Ithaca Memorial Hospital. On the ninth day, the report says, the patient was "depressed for the last time." He was incredulous to know he received no morphine that day. Tenth day, "completely relaxed and comfortable."

Sodium rhodanate was given for two more days and then reduced slowly. December 9 last all morphine stopped and the report says the patient has had no desire and felt no need for the narcotic since.

The report also says this first human case substantiates similar results in previously treating narcotic habits in dogs.

Harlan Official Warns Women and Children Not to Attend.

Harlan, Ky., Jan. 16 (A.P.).—Warning to all persons, especially women and children, not to attend the mass meeting called by the National Miners Union here Sunday was issued today by Sheriff John H. Blair, of Harlan County.

The sheriff added his statement to that yesterday by Mayor L. O. Smith, who announced he would not permit the meeting and that "the red flag will not wave nor parade in Harlan." Today Sheriff Blair said:

"Any attempt by the National Miners Union to force this meeting will force us to combat with it in a way that posibly would not be safe for your wives and children. Any such meeting being held in Harlan County will be broken up and not allowed. Leaders of the meeting will be arrested. This is a communistic organization, not recognized by the Federation of Labor or other constituted authorities in the United States."

Pittsburgh, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—A plan for union of the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Protestant Church has the approval of commissions representing the churches. The groups will meet in Washington, D. C., probably in the first week of March, to take up again the merger proposal.

The commissions agreed on a basic plan for the union at a meeting last night. The details were not disclosed. The report will be submitted to the general conferences of the churches.

Meanwhile another Methodist Episcopal commission discussed a proposal to merge with the Presbyterian Church of America and the Protstant Episcopal Church. Final action will await a decision on the Methodist union.

Idle Throng Battles Police in New York

New York, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—A small size riot developed near City Hall Park this afternoon, when a dozen mounted policemen and scores of patrolmen charged a crowd of unemployment demonstrators who jammed Broadway and Chambers street to such an extent that traffic was almost at a standstill.

The crowd, which grew rapidly to unwieldly proportions, had gathered around a news stand near the park railing, on which was standing a blond-haired youth, who was addressing the gathering. In rushing the crowd, the police drove the men and women sympathizes along Broadway to the north and south of the park and along Warren and Chambers streets.

Percy W. Rice, 52; his wife, aged 38; six of their children and two grandchildren were killed when the twisting funnel of the black cloud dipped into the farming communities of Eaton and Lex before disappearing toward the northeast, its furry apparently spent.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THOSE who have felt that the Code of Ethics, purportedly governing the production of motion picture entertainment as a promulgation of the Will H. Hays office, represented nothing more than a reassuring gesture and was impossible of practical and effective application to the actual business of picture making may learn the error of their view from a recent experience of Howard Hughes, the youthful multimillionaire producer whose major claim to fame rests upon his having made "Hell's Angels" twice in rapid succession—once silent and once as a sound picture—at a total cost of approximately $4,000,000.

Mr. Hughes' production of "Cock o' the Air," costarring Billie Dove and Chester Morris, was condemned by Col. Jason Joy, West Coast representative of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, the Hays organization, for failure to adhere to the terms of the Code. Mr. Hughes, much incensed by the Joy decision, screened the picture for a group of Hollywood producers who upheld the ban and declared the rejection of the film to be well founded.

Arriving in New York, Mr. Hughes was about to lay the matter finally before Mr. Hays and a screen committee composed of R. H. Cochrane, of Universal; Jesse L. Lasky, of Paramount, and Earl W. Hammons, of Educational, when word was received that a print re-edited by Lewis Milestone—who had not directed the picture—at the behest of Joseph M. Schenck, of United Artists, had been deemed satisfactory and passed by Col. Joy and his advisers.

A half-hundred prints of the original version, already at film exchanges throughout the country, were called in to be recut according to the approved pattern. These changes were made in time to prevent the cancelation of any playing date already booked.

However, the entire procedure is said to have cost Howard Hughes in the neighborhood of $100,000. In making the film acceptable to the Hays organization under the terms of its Code, Mr. Milestone deleted two reels of footage—2,000 feet in round numbers.

Now who says the Code has no teeth in it?

Business in the theater, it seems, is constantly improving. When Leslie Howard opened recently in New York in "The Animal Kingdom" seats were almost impossible to secure.

Mrs. Joseph Leblang, who controls most of the ticket agencies—bequeathed to her by her late husband—called a friend who is a dramatic critic asking him to use his influence to buy a good seat for the opening performance as she was anxious to see the play herself!

In all her numerous agencies there was not a seat to be had.

Speaking of the New York theater, Broadway's extensive list of husband-wife teams—you know, Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, Basil Sydney and Mary Ellis, Lenore Ulric and Sidney Blackmer, and all the rest—will soon be augmented by another when Geoffrey Kerr and June Walker begin rehearsing opposite each other in "Collision." This is a German play being adapted to the American stage by John Anderson, the dramatic critic.

The last time Mr. and Mrs. Kerr played together was in the late David Belasco's production of "The Bachelor Father."

Wonder if Clyde Cooke, who closed a week's engagement at RKO-Keith's last night, had time yesterday to drop in at the Rialto and see himself on the screen in support of Una Merkel and William Collier, jr., in "The Secret Witness?"

The last picture he made before beginning his present vaudeville tour, now going into its seventeenth week, was Peter B. Kyne's "Never the Twain Shall Meet," in which he appeared as the beach comber in support of Leslie Howard and Conchita Montenegro—or have I remarked that here before?

When Katherine Cornell announced that she would appear in Sidney Howard's latest play, "Alien Corn," when she finishes her New York season and tour in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," there were, it seems, arguments in some homes as to where Howard found the name for this drama.

The Bible generally was credited, but, though the reference is to the story of Ruth and Naomi, Howard took his title from Keats' "Ode to a Nightingale."

The lines are these:

"Perhaps the self-same song that found a path
Through the sad heart of Ruth, when, sick for home,
She stood in tears amid the alien corn."

And that reminds me, ardent young horticulturist that I am, that there are blossoms on the plum tree out in the garden—back yard to you—discovered yesterday by a neighbor and since verified by numerous observers who at first were as skeptical as I was.

Safety-First Play Given by Children

Weightman School Pupils Entertain Association; Hill Is Speaker.

Children of the Weightman School for Crippled Children entertained the Parent-Teacher Association of the school Thursday night with a safety-first play, presented under the direction of Mrs. Beulah Drake, principal. The play portrayed an automobile accident in which a small boy was knocked down on his way to school.

The characters were Gertrude Kern, reader; Jerry Collins, little boy; Leo Swann, traffic policeman; Joseph Whittington, driver; Julia Phillips, nurse; Milton Kirke, doctor, and Burnette Harting, attendant. After the play June Davis, Hazen Hussong, Elizabeth Bell and Jerry Collins sang several selections. The invocation was said by James Anderson, one of the pupils.

The part the Kiwanis Club has played in the work for crippled children was described by Edwin F. Hill, first vice president of the club. Mrs. Joseph Saunders, State president of the District of Columbia Congress of Parents and Teachers, complimented the association on its activities.

$10,000,000 Libel Suit Follows Closing of Bank

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—The Chemical Bank and Trust Co. of New York, and Jerre L. Dowling, of New York, are accused of causing the closing of the Peoples State Bank of South Carolina, by "libelous and slanderous statements" in a suit for $10,000,000 filed at Charleston.

The Peoples State Bank, with approximately $24,000,000 on deposit, closed its 44 branches throughout South Carolina, January 2.

The suit, filed by S. W. Parham, of Columbia, and the Bluebird Tax Corporation, invites any other stockholders, depositors or creditors of the [illegible] Bank to join in it.

Stories Assailing Ohio Banks Stir U. S. Drive

Cleveland, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Federal operatives have been sent here from Washington to round up persons spreading false stories about national banks of Cleveland and northern Ohio, United States District Attorney Wilfred J. Mahon revealed late today. The Federal men are working in this district under direction of William G. Harper, chief of the Government secret service in Cleveland, Mahon said.

Mahon said that in a day or two the agents would extend their drive to Youngstown, Akron, Toledo and other northern Ohio cities. Headquarters for the round-up will be in Cleveland.

Citizens of York, Pa., Protest Tax Increase

York, Pa., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—More than 4,000 persons marched to City Hall today to protest against the recent increase of the city tax rate from 8½ to 9½ mills. The leaders included former Representative E. S. Brooks.

Mayor Harry B. Anstine and the councilmen received the leaders and listened to their pleas for lower taxes. They then proceeded to regular business. For hours the crowd remained around City Hall and listened to speakers who denounced politicians who "fail to realize that the time has come to reduce governmental expenses."

Haugen Will Run Again For Seat in Congress

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

"THANK GOODNESS" IS RIGHT.

("Thank goodness, there's one question that's easy to settle. Lots of family budget problems there are at the beginning of the new year. But one problem requires no debate. You don't have to ask 'What gasoline shall we buy?'"—From a nationally circulated advertisement, carrying a picture of a man and wife making out the home budget).

* * * *

"NOW we come to one question we can settle," said Elmer Twitchell, with an air of relief.

"What's that?" asked Mrs. Twitchell, a little wearily.

"Gas," said Elmer. "I know we're not going to have any argument there."

"I'm not so sure," sighed Mrs. Twitchell. "What's the proposition?"

"We've just got to work out our gas problem together," explained Elmer.

"Have we a gas problem?" asked Mrs. Twitchell, a little vaguely.

"Of course. And it's quite important. You have no idea how many homes come to grief through the failure to give adequate thought and adult consideration to the gas problem. Look at the Jones!"

"What about them?"

"You know the shape they're in. You know how badly off the whole family is. Well, it's all due to the fact Mr. and Mrs. Jones had no gas policy," said Elmer.

"I don't quite get you," said the wife.

"It's like this. At the start of the new year it behooves every couple to sit down together and talk over the gas question plainly and frankly."

"Gas question?" repeated Mrs. Twitchell.

"Now don't tell me you are the type of woman who goes through the year with no gas policy," exclaimed Elmer. "Surely you wouldn't have me think you have no set gas program."

"I'm afraid so," said Mrs. Twitchell, a little ashamed.

"Tsk! Tsk! It seems incredible," said Elmer. "Let me explain it. You've noticed, of course, the vast number and the great variety of gasoline pumps on the road whenever we go motoring, have you not?"

"Oh yes," agreed Mrs. Twitchell.

"Well, it's all very baffling," continued Elmer. "It's the bane of touring. There must be at least 100 kinds of gas sold through 100 different colored and types of gas pumps."

"Gas is gas," murmured Mrs. Twitchell.

"Not at all!" insisted Elmer.

"There are not only different names, but different prices. We have got to have a gas policy. It is impossible to have a family budget if we pay 10 cents a gallon at one pumping station, 15 at another, 18 at a third."

"That's right," agreed Mrs. Twitchell.

"So we must decide now on what gas we shall buy. What color do you like?"

"What colors have you?" asked Mrs. Twitchell.

"All the colors of the rainbow. Blue pumps, red pumps, yellow, green, orange, white, purple, russet, black, white chrome. . . . ."

"I like yellow," said Mrs. Twitchell. "Is that expensive?"

"Yellow is about sixteen cents a gallon, I believe," said Elmer.

"Personally I lean to green. Red, however, very reasonable and good."

"Red's all right with me," said Mrs. Twitchell, "as long as you like it. We want no debate over it."

"Suppose we say red then for 1932?"

HAMAS KNOCKS OUT LOUGHRAN IN SECOND ROUND

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE very estimable gentlemen who are charged with the success of the bicentennial celebration of George Washington's birth which is calculated to attract from 6,000,000 to 8,000,000 visitors to the Capital this year, have outlined an elaborate program of fetes ranging from cherry blossom pageants to Welsh singing festivals.

But with the new year already turned 16 days and the start of the festivities only five weeks distant, Dr. Havenner, the executive vice chairman of the District of Columbia Bicentennial Commission, and his colleagues, have made nary a move to schedule a single event to catch the sports consciousness of the visiting hosts.

To phrase the situation bluntly, the commission has apparently given the go-by to a phase of the bicentennial that for publicity purposes and fan interest doubtless would be more effective than 90 per cent of the pretentious list of fetes that have been mapped out with great care and expenditure of effort.

Among the mass of information disseminated by the commission, there has as yet been no mention of any program of sports, and in this lack the gentlemen in charge appear to be sadly remiss in the demands of the situation. Much has been done toward bringing before the visiting millions the esteem of the father of the country, but not a single attempt has been made to provide for the entertainment of the sportingly inclined.

The District of Columbia commission must act quickly if any sports program that is contemplated is to be staged with any degree of success in keeping with that of the remainder of the fetes already arranged. Two distinct tasks face the commission. Firstly is the matter of bringing to Washington the events and performers commensurate with the occasion, and secondly is the business of obtaining or building a stadium where these events may be staged.

Further delay would be fatal. The commission may encounter no competition in its efforts to stage a Welsh singing festival, but in the matter of bringing to the Capital outstanding sports stars in an Olympic year it may be forced to bid against attractive offers from other cities.

It may not be necessary to remind the District of Columbia committee that Washington is in an attractive position to bring to the Capital the best sporting attractions obtainable. But the fact remains that the outstanding performers in track, swimming, tennis, golf and virtually every other sport have rarely had the opportunity to perform here in a setting dignified by the social, legislative and diplomatic life that only Washington can offer.

The visiting millions will be seeking diversion and entertainment besides the classical programs that have been arranged. By this time there should have been some definite sports program calculated to be a distinctive feature of the bicentennial. It is not too late yet, but immediate action is imperative.

The matter of arranging for outstanding sports events is not a simple one. Each important event must carry the sanction of various official organizations, such as the National Collegiate Athletic Association, the Amateur Athletic Union, the Olympic committee and various other bodies maintaining jurisdiction over certain sports.

Other cities will be equally eager to corral the stars of the twenty-odd nations who will be in this country for the Olympic games at Los Angeles. Washington must post its bid early or remain out in the cold. The proper authorities must be communicated with and the events of national interest be the goal. There is much to be done. Once upon a time several months ago, this department did hear a report that the sports program would be a notable feature of the bicentennial celebration, but thus far no steps in that direction have been announced. Not even a committee on sports or a sports director is known to exist.

A stadium, of course, is the first need. But stadiums these days present no great problem if the ground is designated and the order given to proceed is obtained. An arena of 30,000 capacity could be constructed in three months by modern engineering. But, first, the commission must awaken.

ONE-SIDED SERIES GAMES TO EASTERN AND CENTRAL FIVES

2,000 Watch Central Rout Stenog Five by 38-18 Score.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

WITH about 2,000 young fans in Tech Gymnasium, Eastern materially strengthened its hold on first place in the high school basket ball series yesterday by swamping Western, 47-22, and Central reached a high level of efficiency in drubbing the people's choices, Business, 38 to 18, to take second place.

Neither game touched the competitive level of the preceding frays in the scholastic basket brawl. Both winners led from the very opening shot, amassing prohibitive leads in short order, and reducing the interest of a large order of fans to hazardous speculation upon the margins by which they would be won.

Eastern and Central did not appear manned by the same players as earlier in the week, when Central showed its weakest form in a decade in losing to Tech; and Eastern, for all its man power, just was able to beat a Business team half as large. Yesterday things were different from the warm-up practice to the terrific detonation of the finishing gun.

Western Factor in First Quarter.

Western, with its badly mismatched squad of players, offered stout resistance to Eastern only in the first quarter. Lieb opened the scoring 4 minutes after the start of the game with a pot shot from the side, and Eastern was out in front, 6-3, at the quarter. Latona's foul shot, at the start of the second quarter was the only point Western could score until Eastern had gone to 18-4 on a general team-wide scoring spree which took full advantage of Western's puerile guarding. At the half, Western had gotten 4 more points, on long shots by Latona and Swanson. Barney Kane had begun to bloom for Eastern, and the count stood 23-8.

Kane, working on the dynamite end of the smooth Eastern passing game, scored four times in the third quarter, taking fire-ball passes from Lieb and Zola and streaking the ball through from every possible angle. He was ejected from the game at the start of the last quarter, with the score 37-15 in his team's favor, for roughing Latona. The latter, in whom Western must place its entire shooting hope, was splendidly guarded by Bayliss and Waters. Eastern's loose-knit zone defense, which allows its lanky players to ambulate more than is customary, stamped out virtually every Western offensive. The Georgetowners showed some very bad passing and an infallible knack of permitting Lieb and Zola to take the ball off the backboard nearly every time.

Central Shows Improvement.

Central's sterling play, in an all-round sense, swept Business underneath from the start. Not since the salad days of Moser and Macdonald and Burgess has a Central team shown such able passing and reckless shooting as was displyaed by the team in general, and the persons of Bill Burke and Buddy Nau in particular. Nau's passing was a revelation—hard and true and craftily concealed—while Burke waded through the tangle of arms and legs to score five times from the floor.

The Central No. 1 combination of Burke, Smith, Keyser, Swift and Nau presented an impregnable front for the greater part of the first half. Business, a team noted for its ability to score against any type of play, was held basketless until midway in the second quarter, when Carroll Shore popped in a two-pointer off a misaimed foul toss. It gave Business a new lease on life. Tipton scored on

St. Joseph's Routed by Colonials in Last Five Minutes.

UNLEASHING the greatest show of basket ball manpower a District collegiate court has seen in the last two years, George Washington's University's monumentally-inclined outfit outdistanced St. Joseph's College, of Philadelphia, last night at the Colonial Gym, 43-25.

It was the second consecutive night the Philadelphians had been beaten by a District combination, Catholic University having accomplished the act the night before.

With five minutes to play, George Washington had its head clear in the heated play by the margin of only 26-21, after St. Joseph's, hitting a sensational stride revamped a half-time score of 21-9 against them by dint of suddenly cohesive and accurate passing and the electrifying dribbling and shooting of Phil Zuber, half-pint forward.

Tech High sent the Colonial Freshmen down to their second straight defeat in the preliminary, 37-34, in a game marked by high scoring on the part of Reichardt and Russell, of the winners, and Gleason, of the conquered.

Hampton Five Bows To Howard U., 27-16

The Bison quint of Howard University won handily over a fast five from Hampton Institute last night on the university court, 27-16. While Hampton was the first to score, Howard led most of the way, with Syphax and Hall as individual stars, and three freshmen, Bayton, Penn and Reid, playing a nifty game.

Long Banned For Coup by Own Track

Admits Betting Coup But Says Ruling Is Unjust.

By WILLIAM WARNE.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Baron Long's little joke on the bookmakers backfired today, and he was placed in the unique position of having been ruled off his own track by the stewards whom he pays.

The ruling was handed down by Senior Steward Francis Nelson and stated simply that for "acts prejudicial to the best interests of racing in general and racing at the Agua Caliente Jockey Club in particular, Owner Baron Long would be excluded from further participation in racing here."

Cost Bookies Thousands, They Claim.

The Linden Tree betting coup January 7, which the baron admitted perpetrating a few days later and described as "too good a joke to keep from the public," was at the bottom of it all. Long said it netted him $6,200, and bookmakers in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, and other cities said it cost them thousands and thousands.

In explaining his coup Long said he plugged the mutuels in the running of a 2-furlong race. Linden Tree, a speedy 2-year-old colt belonging to George Drumheller and a 3-to-5 bet to win, won by five lengths.

Long said he sent $1,000 to an Eastern commissioner to bet on Linden Tree. Then, just as the mutuels were closing, he placed $3,500 in bets on all the other horses in the race in the machines. A $500 bet on his own entry was included. Such betting worked wonders with the Linden Tree odds.

When the mutuel odds were posted they quoted for $2 tickets on Linden Tree $21.40 to win, $2.60 to place and $2.20 to show. Bookies immdiately set up a howl, charging manipulation. They said they lost heavily.

"Most Unjust Ruling in Racing," Says Long.

Nelson, who is presiding steward of the Canadian Racing Association and representative of the New York Jockey Club, announced the ruling barring Long shortly before the first race was called this afternoon.

As soon as Long was informed that he was barred from the $2,000,000 track which his money, with that of J. N. Crofton and Wirt G. Bowman built, he went into conference with the stewards.

Half an hour later Long, who is vice president of the Agua Caliente Jockey Club, emerged from the stewards' quarters. He said with some heat, "I think this is the most unjust ruling in the history of racing." He did not say what he would do with the 33 thoroughbreds which he has in training at the track, but did say they would remain here temporarily.

It is generally understood that the ruling automatically will bar Long's stable, one of the largest in the West, from competition at all tracks in the United States and Canada. His entries in stakes already closed will be allowed to run.

Training School Plays Tech Eleven in Fall

Tech High added the National Training School to its football schedule yesterday. The two strong teams will come together September 29, at Tech, six days after Tech opens its season against Baltimore City College, in Baltimore.

Nats Sign Sam Rice For Sixteenth Season

Sam Rice, veteran Washington outfielder, yesterday signed a contract for the coming season, his sixteenth in Nat livery. The old-timer did not prove a stubborn customer, according to President Clark Griffith, who declares that his players to date have been most reasonable in meeting him halfway in connection with the magnate's recent decision to cut down overhead expense by pruning the salary figures of the higher paid employes.

SAKS VS. D. & H. FIVE.

Saks Clothiers and Delaware & Hudson will clash in the feature District Amateur League game tomorrow at the Boys' Club gym. The game is carded for 3 o'clock. In the preliminary the Boys' Club Big Five and the Naval Reserves will play.

3,302-to-1 Shot Runs Even Race at Hialeah, Last From the Start

Special to The Washington Post.

HIALEAH PARK, Miami, Fla., Jan. 15.—Holders of $2 mutuel tickets on Celsus, in the sixth race today would have collected $6,606.30 if the horse had won. At odds of 3,302 to 1, Celsus would have set a new record for mutuel odds had he won the race, the highest mutuel ever paid being a price of $1,856 by Wishing Ring at Latonia in 1912.

Celsus, a 3-year-old colt, owned by Mrs. J. H. Nicholson, has now run three races. On November 11 at Pimlico he finished twelfth in a field of twelve, beaten 23 lengths. On October 29 at Laurel he finished twelfth in a field of twelve, beaten 35 lengths. He maintained finishing ninth in a field of nine, beaten sixteen lengths. He ran an even race today, being ninth at the start, ninth at the quarter, ninth at the half, ninth in the stretch, and ninth and last at the finish.

RAIN DELAYS $15,000 GOLF TOURNEY

Diegel, Leading, One of Officials Ruling Against Play.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Torrential rains swept down Tia Juana Valley today, forcing a complete and disorderly rout of golf's conquistadors as they plotted a third round campaign in Agua Caliente's $15,000 open championship.

Although the necessary delay was scheduled only for the day, weather reports pointed to further rain tonight and again on the morrow, which boded ill for the already saturated course. It was planned to play the final round of the 72-hole tournament Sunday.

Leo Diegel, whose par-plundering total of 138 strokes put him into a 2-stroke lead yesterday, was a member of the committee of officials, as home professional, to rule that it was inadvisable to go ahead with the play.

Charles Guest, Deal, N. J., pro, who stands in second place with a total of 140, four strokes to the good over par and two behind Larrupin' Leo, said he would have been willing to go ahead even to the point of chipping the ball into the cup, if the greens were that wet, and many were.

3 D. C. School Fives Out of Town Today

Eastern, Central and Western High School Basket Ball Teams have games today with out-of-town aggregations. Eastern takes the most impressive trip, going to Bethlehem, Pa., for a crack at that city's high school team. Central drops down to Swavely, and Western goes over to Annapolis for a tilt with St. John's College freshmen.

Takoma-Silver Spring Five Wins Another, 40-6

The Takoma-Silver Spring High School quintet removed another obstacle from its path in the race for the Montgomery County championship when it defeated the Gaithersburg High School tossers by a score of 40-to-6 in a one-sided game played at Takoma Park yesterday. It was the victors' seventh win in eight games.

G. W. Meets Villanova In Lone Game Here

George Washington University alone holds the local college basket ball stage tonight when its rangy quintet plays host to the strong five from Villanova Collage in the Colonial Gymnasium, 2010 H street northwest, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Three other Capital quintets will perform tonight, but all are slated for engagements out of town. Maryland goes up against V. M. I. at Lexington, Gallaudet engages St. John's at Annapolis, and Bliss invades Quantico to play the Marines.

TRAINING SCHOOL VS. A.Z.A.

The A. Z. A. Fraternity Basket Ball Team, champions of the Jewish Community Center League, will meet the National Training School quintet Tuesday at 7 p. m. in the Training School Gym.

Final-Minute Goal Beats G. U. Five

Slott, of St. John's, Wins Game, 27-26, as End Nears.

500 See Quintets in Thriller; Teams in 11-11 Tie at Half.

By JACK ESPEY.

AS 500 hearts raced and skipped to the tune of hoarse shouting that would have drowned the roar of artillery, a cool, deft-handed young man by the name of George Slott twisted himself underneath the basket in the tense atmosphere of Tech gymnasium last night, with but 3 seconds of the game remaining, and dropped in the field goal that enabled the crack St. John's of Brooklyn basketers to nose out a fighting Georgetown University five, 27 to 26.

It was the seventh and most vital of Slott's scrimmage two-pointers that earned for this whirlwind on legs the outstanding honors in one of the best basket ball thrillers ever witnessed in the spacious house of athletics at Second and T streets northeast.

Throughout the game, while his mates were playing below their usual high standard, Slott counteracted he excellent team work of the Georgetown boys who, facing the strongest collegiate team of the East, put forth by far the most impressive brand of passing and shooting produced by a Hilltop quintet since 1929.

Slott Ties Game, 11-11, at Half.

Slott it was who caged a set shot to tie the score at 11-11 just before the half-time whistle, and when the Indians jumped into a five-point lead early in the second half, again Mr. Slott was showing the way. Georgetown then overhauled the foe, but once more Slott came through with one of his fancy pivots beneath the cords to place St. John's ahead b 21-20 midway of the period.

Encouraged by some inspired rooting from the sidelines, the Hilltoppers, from Capt. King right on down through the line-up, unleashed a devastating attack that swept the famed Brooklynites before them and with three and one-half minutes left were leading by 25 to 21.

Nat Lazar, diminutive guard, and John McGuiness, substitute forward, caked a pair of long shots to deadlock matters at 25-25. This set the stage for heroic work on anybody's part, a situation that found Jim Murphy, elongated Georgetown center, and Slott, ready and capable.

Slott's Basket at End Decides Game.

As the timekeepers noted that but 25 seconds remained, Murphy got his chance on a free throw when fouled by Lazar. He stepped up to the line as steady as the gymnasium walls and sank the shot without further ado. Then a frenzied St. John's player fired the ball to Slott, who was waiting at the basket, and in the slot it went.

REFEREE ENDS BOUT AS VETERAN, TWICE FLOORED, STAGGERS

STEVE HAMAS.

Former Penn State Star Batters Down Tommy's Defense.

Loughran, Shadow of Former Self, Chased About Ring.

By ALAN GOULD,
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Tommy Loughran, a pale shadow of the one-time "old master" of the light heavyweights, reached the end of the fistic trail tonight, a knockout victim of the slugging, sensational young Steve Hamas, a 23-year-old fighter not long out of Penn State College.

With a swift, furious charge that broke through Loughran's defense, as if it was papier-mache, the youthful Hamas battered the veteran twice to the floor and won on a technical knockout in the second round of what was to have been a ten-round final bout at Madison Square Garden.

A crowd of 9,000 roaring fans saw Loughran meet his finish at the hands of a boy to whom he would have given a boxing lesson in his prime. The Philadelphian didn't have a thing except courage in his attempt to repel the onslaught of the lad who made a name for himself as an all-around athletic star in college ranks.

Back-Pedals Desperately In Opening Round.

After back-pedalling desperately throughout the first round in his attempt to escape the rush of Hamas, Loughran ran into a volley of heavy blows to the head early in the second round. He plunged into the ropes, half draped over the lower strand for a count of eight from the first barrage. Coming up groggy, he was met by a fierce fusillade and again hit the canvas for a nine count.

This time Loughran got back to his feet only by instinct. His eyes were glazed and he could not raise his hands in more than a gesture of self-defense. Hamas leaped on the veteran with all the tigerish fury of youth, with his greatest victory in sight. As Loughran reeled back into the ropes, about to go down again, Referee Gunboat Smith, a battle-scarred veteran himself, interfered and stopped the fight.

Perhaps Gunboat felt a twinge himself, as did most of those on their feet yelling at the ringside. At any rate he saved Loughran at least the ignominy of hearing the count of "ten." Loughran was "out" on his feet and feebly acknowledged the extended glove of Hamas.

Hamas Has Had Short Career.

The end came after 1 minute 48 seconds of the second round—less than five minutes of fighting, all told.

Hamas has had barely two dozen fights as a professional. He was a champion as a college boxer, besides engaging in football, track and lacrosse. In his last bout in the Garden, he was on the verge of being kayoed himself by a little known opponent, Hans Birkie, of Germany, but won the decision.

Loughran weighed 185¾; Hamas 186½.

Stanley Poreda, of Jersey City, a year ago considered one of the best prospects among the younger heavyweights, was knocked out in the fifth round of the 10-round semifinal match by Salvatore Ruggiriello, of Italy. Poreda was counted out after being floored for the fifth time by the Italian's heavy right-hand shots to the jaw. The Italian slugger knocked Poreda down in each of the last four rounds.

Ruggiriello weighed 201½, and Poreda, 200½.

BOUT IS WON BY LEVINSKY ON POINTS

Furious Finish Beats Paulino at Chicago; No Knockdowns.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—King Levinsky, Chicago's heavyweight threat, continued his victorious march tonight by scoring a surprising ten-round victory over the rugged basque woodchopper, Paulino Uzcudun, in the Chicago Stadium.

Levinsky was awarded the verdict on a 2-to-1 basis, because he outfinished the Spaniard. Referee "Little Phil" Collins voted in favor of Levinsky, while one of the judges did likewise. The other judge, however, voted in favor of a draw.

There were no knockdowns, but that wasn't Levinsky's fault. He tried for 30 exciting minutes to find Uzcudun's chin for a finishing blast, but Uzcudun, smart in the ways of the ring, carried his chin tucked in snugly on his chest, away from harm.

It was Levinsky's attack in the ninth and tenth rounds that swung the tide of battle in his favor. In the ninth Levinsky cracked Paulino with left hooks that resounded throughout the building and for a second Paulino turned on his heels and ran away with Levinsky in hot pursuit. They finally came together on the ropes with Kingdah raining blows on Uzcudun's head and body.

Levinsky started like a whirlwind in the tenth to carry the fight to Paulino, forcing him to hold on, and bob and weave to escape.

Robert Stead Elected Maryland Golf Official

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 15.—Robert Stead, jr., of the Chevy Chase Club, was elected vice president in charge of tournaments and Washington district, at the annual meeting tonight of the Maryland State Golf Association at the Rolling Road Golf Club.

Edgar A. Peppler, of the host club, was chosen president without opposition.

Others elected were: First vice president, William P. Hall; vice president in charge of handicaps and Baltimore district, Fred J. Green; vice president and treasurer, Nathan Kaufman; vice president in charge of western Maryland, J. W. Byron, and secretary, William D. Warter, jr.

Talbott T. Speer discussed the national amateur tournament scheduled for the Five Farms Course here in September. It is not yet finally settled that the qualifying round will be played over the Chevy Chase Course, but the official stamp is all that is needed, he said.

Strike of Grooms Delays Miami Race

Miami, Fla., Jan. 1 (A.P.).—Refusal of officials of the Miami Jockey Club to permit grooms of racing horses to sit in the grand stand at Hialeah Park today resulted in a strike and emergency calls to police and the sheriff's office before the affair was reported settled by track authorities. The grooms returned to work without being accorded the privilege, James H. Bright, club secretary, said.

Emergency calls for police and to the sheriff's office brought Sheriff M. P. Lehman and seven deputies, who armed themselves with tear gas bombs, and a carload of Hialeah police.

ST. JOHN'S PLAYS TONIGHT.

The St. John's-Leonard Hall game, originally scheduled for last night, will be played tonight at 8 o'clock at St John's.

Baseball Ticket Prices Will Not Be Reduced

Chicago, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Depression or no depression, your ticket to American League baseball games will cost just as much next season as last.

William Harridge, president of the American League, today said there would be no cut in prices for at least two reasons.

One is that the owners do not feel called upon to lower the admission price, since they didn't raise it during boom times.

"Any suggestion that admission prices be lowered because of prevailing conditions overlooks the fact that in the boom period baseball made no attempt to take advantage of easy money," Harridge said.

Bacciocco Continues Winning Streak in Second Race.

Mills Also Scores by Neck With Gay Bird in Seventh.

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., Jan. 15 (A. P.).—Rudolph Spreckels' crack sprinter, Judge Schilling, which was withdrawn yesterday from the Inaugural Handicap, merely toyed with a smart field in the Homestead Purse, the 6-furlong feature of the program here this afternoon.

With Willie Kelsay looking back, the 7-year-old gelding passed the pagoda pole a length and a half in advance of J. L. Johnston's Chatford Street Singer was beaten by the same margin for second position. A fair-sized crowd viewed the sport and enjoyed a good day with the form horses winning four of the first five events, and also the last.

Judge Schilling paid $2.50 for a $2 ticket.

Kelsay sent the Judge to the front shortly after the small field got off to a good start, and the old fellow opened up daylight with the veteran jockey trying to keep him under stout restraint. Peto, another scratched from yesterday's feature event, tried to keep up with the pace, but stopped early and it was Chatford that took up the running through the last 3 furlongs. Thais was in close quarters to the bend, but could not make up ground when clear.

Bacciocco, H. Roseacher's consistant gelding which won his last three races at Tropical Park, continued his winning ways here in the second contest. The son of High Time won by five lengths, running the 6 furlongs in the very fast time of 1:10 3-5.

Fredrick, a colt which showed a liking for Hialeah a year ago as a juvenile, made every pole a winning one in the sixth event at six furlongs.

Hank Mills won the last race astride Gay Bird, $3.30 for $2 choice, but appeared careless in the closing stages and was almost beaten by the long shot Garlic, a neck separating the pair. Montanaro was a well-beaten third.

$300,000 Electrical Robot Gives Miami Odds Instantly

Betters Buy Mutuel Tickets From Giant Australian Totalisator and Odds Are Posted Immediately; First in U. S.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 15(A.P.).—From far away Australia came the Julius totalisator introduced to the American race wagering public as Hialeah Park held its 39-day inaugural yesterday. For brevity, the huge machine, with its electrical arms, is called the "Australian tote."

Invented by Sir George Julius, the machine cost Joseph E. Widener and the Miami Jockey Club, operators of Hialeah Park, approximately $300,000. It takes almost entirely from human hands the calculation of pari mutuel wagering odds of horse racing.

A better goes to a mutuel ticket window, names his horse choice, hands over the amount of his wager. The ticket agent punches a lever signifying the amount of the wager and a ticket slides down a little chute.

Instantly, there is posted by means of electric lights about the track the notice that another wager is made, and the odds of that particular horse are changed accordingly by the machine without further human aid. The indicator boards show in electric lights every fluctuation in the dividends a horse will pay to win, place or show.

The machine will accommodate customers until the horses break from the barrier, when the totalisator is closed by the push of a button in the judges' stand.

As the horses thunder down the track the totalisator finishes its work, and by the time the thoroughbreds reach the finish line the dividends are posted on the indicator boards.

Approximately 90 miles of electric wiring are used to operate the "tote" and its boards within a quarter-mile radius at Hialeah Park.

First of Machines In America.

Hialeah is the first race track in America to use the totalisator. The machines have been used on tracks at Bombay, Calcutta, in England, France, Australia and New Zealand.

L. L. Raymond and R. H. Julius, the latter a son of the totalisator inventor, came here from Sydney to supervise installation and operation of the machine.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DOUBLE HEART, $4.90, $2.30, $2.30; JACK CAMPBELL, $2.50, $2.50; WAR SAINT, $3.00.

DOUBLE HEART, under restraint first half mile, responded full of courage when called on, but had to be shaken up to stall off JACK CAMPBELL after disposing of WAR SAINT. JACK CAMPBELL, a forward contender all the way, outgamed WAR SAINT when it came to a drive. Latter broke rapidly and set a fast early pace. He may have been a bit short.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:58. Off at 3:02½. Winner, H. Roseacher's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BACCIOCCO, $3.90, $3.10, $2.60; TOMBEREAU, $6.10, $3.80; KNOWLTON, $2.90.

BACCIOCCO, breaking from the extreme outside, drew away in run down the back stretch. Mills, cautious in final stages, accidentally struck him with his whip and he straightened at finish. TOMBEREAU moved up with a bold effort entering home stretch, but hung when put to pressure. KNOWLTON gained steadily after a slow beginning. PARNELL BOUND quit in final furlong.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; allowances. Summer Skies Purse. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:26. Off at 3:27. Winner, H. C. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FRENCH LASS, $3.30, $3.00, $2.20; ROYAL RUFFIN, $10.60, $3.20; LULLABY II, $2.10.

FRENCH LASS, in hand and in close pursuit of pace until straightened out in home stretch, where she charged on LULLABY II, easily disposed of latter and drew away. ROYAL RUFFIN finished with good courage on outside of winner. LULLABY II set a rapid pace, but quit when challenged. RACCOON ran well under the weight, was closing at the end and would have beaten LULLABY II in a few more strides.

FOURTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,000. Special weights. Daytona Beach Purse. For maiden 3-year-olds, colts and geldings. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:52½. Off at 3:54. Winner, George D. Widener's blk. g. (3), by Toney—Bal Masque. Trained by W. F. Mulholland. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $100. Time, 1:39 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BLACKMOCK, $14.80, $9.20, $2.70; BROADWAY LIGHTS, $3.90, $2.80.

LAST ATTEMPT, BLACKMOCK, quick to find his stride, drew away when settled on his stride. Leischman rated him in front under slight restraint and he always had a bit in reserve to stand off challenge from BROADWAY LIGHTS. Latter hung after making his bid at stretch turn. He was driving to the limit to outlast LAST ATTEMPT. Latter hung after setting a fast pace with BLACKMOCK and BROADWAY LIGHTS at furlong pole. GHOST DANCER showed a flash of early speed.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; allowances. Homestead Purse. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:21. Off at 4:26. Two-dollar mutuels paid—JUDGE SCHILLING, $2.50, $2.50, $2.30; CHATFORD, $8.80, $3.00; STREET SINGER, $4.30.

JUDGE SCHILLING moved into an easy lead first sixteenth and raced in hand all the way. Kelsay was easing him up at end. CHATFORD closed strong out in the middle of the track. STREET SINGER made a wide turn into the home stretch while THAIS saved ground. PETO hung when put to a drive and may have been a little short.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; allowances. Fort Lauderdale Purse. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:55. Off at 4:58½. Winner, J. T. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FREDERICK, $8.10, $4.60, $2.80; BAY ANGON, $5.70, $3.30; REGULA BADDUN, $3.20.

FREDERICK outran his opposition from the break and cut across to inside before they had gone a furlong, hugged the rail the remainder of the journey. BAY ANGON, off slowly, worked his way up on outside rounding the far turn, but saved ground entering home stretch. He came again under punishment last sixteenth. REGULA BADDUN tired after making a determined challenge at stretch turn. He was probably short.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place easily. Went to post at 5:23½. Off at 5:24. Winner, A. W. Abbott's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GAY BIRD, $3.30, $2.70, $2.20; GARLIC, $25.10, $3.80; MONTANARO, $2.40.

GAY BIRD dashed into good early lead, shook off SCARLET BRIGADE around far turn, moved away from MONTANARO in stretch, but boy appeared not to notice GARLIC in closing strides. GARLIC, badly outrun for six furlongs, closed big gap under weak handling and was wearing winner down with every stride. MONTANARO made menacing bid around bend, but flattened out in stretch drive. SKRIP reached contending position approaching far turn, but tired final furlong. SCARLET BRIGADE stopped after seven furlongs.

WORTHY FOE PICKED FOR SCHWARTZ

Lawson, Who Defeated Barry, Faces Alexandria Boxer.

THE promoters of next Tuesday's Day Nursery benefit bouts at Alexandria certainly did no favors for the home town son, Billy Schwartz, in matching the baker boy with Eric Lawson, Newport News, Va., light heavyweight, in the eight-round semifinal. The bout is to be the first for Schwartz since his lacing at the hands of Bob Godwin two months ago, and in Lawson the promoters have lined up an opponent almost as capable as the hard-hitting Godwin.

Despite the precarious position in which Schwartz has been placed, Alexandria fans are voicing considerable interest in the bout toned with a decided note of optimism concerning Schwartz's ability to come back successfully. In fact, there is more talk in the nearby Virginia town relative to the Schwartz-Lawson fracas than to the main event of ten rounds scheduled between Herman Weiner and Marty Gallagher, who are to renew an old feud fraught with the bitterest of feeling.

Godwin stopped Schwartz in seven rounds in the inaugural Day Nursery show on November 16, but Billy left the ring to the tune of deafening applause as a token of the fans' appreciation of his courageous efforts.

Since that gory evening Schwartz has been training faithfully, seeking to sharpen his own attack. He has been working with Reds Barry and Marty Gallagher, helping the latter to prepare for Weiner.

Lawson comes highly recommended by virtue of a decision victory over Joe Knight, considered the uncrowned Southern light heavyweight champion. Knight will battle Godwin shortly in Miami in a bout expected to settle the title dispute. Others who have bowed to Lawson are Reds Barry, K. O. Riley, Joe Smallwood and Billy Strickler, all of Washington, and by Cy Chindell, Lew aCrpentier, Roy Bailey, Jack Webb, Walter Kirkwood, Rattle Kitchline and Jack Denning, all-Navy champion.

A four-round preliminary was added to the card yesterday with the matching of Roddy Davis, promising local welterweight, and Babe Truehart, a native of Massachusetts, who seeks a start in the game hereabouts after a two-year campaign in New England.

STOCK PRICES' GAINS OFFSET EARLY DROP

Dealers See Firmer Market Tone Maintained; Steel Finishes Higher.

New York, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Undismayed by early declines of 1 to 3 points, the stock market drew fresh buying support during the later dealings today.

Although there was some irregularity at the close, final prices on the average showed an even balance between small gains and losses and bullish converts felt that the stronger tone of the current week had been maintained.

Markets seemed to be discouraged by the delays at starting the railroad wage and employment conference. Both, however, picked up when Chicago dispatches said negotiations were actually to get under way.

Rails Lose Some Gains.

New York Central led the upturn in carrier shares, although top prices in the group failed to carry through to the close. Farm implement stocks were strong, featured by Case and Harvester. Utilities firmed once the recovery started; nevertheless, American Telephone wobbled in the last few minutes and lost 1½ on the day. U. S. Steel, which had sold off a point, finished ¾ higher. Tobaccos quieted down.

Credit conditions were distinctly easy. Dealers cut rates—equivalent to raising prices—on 60 to 90 day bills by one-eighth of one per cent, bringing the asking rate ⅜ of a cent under the rediscount figure, a spread which is usually corrected through a cut by the Federal. An active demand for acceptances finds holders disinlined to offer, presumably because they expect larger profits.

Sterling exchange continued its rise reaching the best levels since last November. It is possible that some of the French balances here are being moved to London, where money rates are much higher; also, there may be some uneasiness abroad concerning proposed credit expansion here.

Mercantile Reviews Disagree.

Two leading mercantile reviews expressed rather divergent opinions of current trade trends. Dun's said buying in some primary markets had "developed quite definitely," and anticipated further activity in coming weeks because of depleted inventories. Bradstreet's, on the other hand, said its reports indicated the new year so far had brought "but little life into business."

Most of the reports, it added, mentioned that although retailers had been able to move goods through clearance sales "response for the most part has been moderate and not up to last year." There has been little improvement in the heavy industries.

Commodities firm.ed slightly. Bullish Canadian weather and a strong cash position brought net gains of ¼ to ⅝ in wheat. Favorable Argentine estimates and the weather news gave corn slight encouragement. Cotton closed unchanged to 3 points higher.

INVESTORS INCREASE NEW 1931 BUSINESS

Syndicate Reports Gain of 68 Per Cent; Assets Are $46,000,000.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

James Milton Sherrill, local State manager, Investors Syndicate, announces that the Washington office of this syndicate, which issues installment investment certificates, showed 68 per cent increase in new business in 1931 over the year 1930, and that 1930 was the best year up to that time since the office opened here, about seven years ago.

Total production figures for the company for the United States and Canada for 1931 have not been announced, but last report indicated production about the same as the year before.

The total resources of the company now exceed $46,000,000 and its capital, surplus and reserve account shows over $6,000,000. The year 1931 showed the largest increase in resources, and capital, surplus and reserve than was shown in any previous year since the company was organized in 1894.

November 1931, was one of the best months for Investors Syndicate. Total production for that month in new business amounted to more than $11,000,000. The company matured approximately $6,500,000 of its contracts in 1930 and 1931 did more advertising in 1931 than ever before.

The Washington office in the Barr Building is managed by James Milton Sherrill. He left for New York Thursday to attend a meeting of all managers of the Eastern Division of the United States and Canada. The president, J. R. Ridgway, of Minneapolis, was expected to attend this meeting.

Fidelity Loan Reelects.

At the annual meeting of the Fidelity Building & Loan Association held yesterday the following officers and trustees were reelected; Rufus E. Miller, president; Harry J. Miller, vice president, Marcus Borchardt, secretary; John L. Fletcher, treasurer; George D. Sullivan, Leo E. George, G. P. Bickford and Capt. Charles O. Shaw were elected to the board of trustees, to serve with the foregoing six. Fred B. Rhodes was renamed general counsel.

Announcement was made of a 3½ per cent semiannual, or 7 per cent annual dividend on the participating stock and a 2½ per cent semiannual, or 5 per cent annual on the nonparticipating.

The annual meeting of stockholders of the Chevy Chase Building & Loan Association was held this week at the office of the association at 6718 Wisconsin avenue.

A large and representative body of stockholders was present and elected the following to serve as the board of directors for the ensuing year: Arthur C. Chriaule, Sidney C. Cousins, Clyde E. Culp, Roger W. Elsinger, B. E. Erikson, George B. Fraser, Diller B. Groff, Edward H. Jones, William L. Orem, jr., John F. Preston, Fred A. Schmidt, Ralph S. Scott, M. Rea Shafer, Fred E. Shoemaker and J. Horace Smithey. Two directors elected are new to the board—George B. Fraser, vice president of Washington Gas Light and Georgetown Gas Light Cos., and Dr. B. E. Erikson, of Chevy Chase, Md.

Report Is Submitted.

The annual report of the board to the stockholders was presented by Edward H. Jones, president of the association. This report, in which Mr. Jones called attention to the steady growth and progress of the association, was most optimistically received. Mr. Jones stated: "The year just ended has been one of the most trying, ones through which the country has ever passed. Commercial failures, bank failures, cutting or passing of dividends on both stocks and bonds have beset us on every side, yet the growth of your association has been steady, constant and most gratifying."

During 1931 the association's assets were increased more than 80 per cent, the membership nearly doubled, the number of loans was correspondingly increased, while the average amount of these loans was decreased. The report of the auditor, C. Vaughan Darby, C. P. A., verified these facts and showed the association's affairs to be in excellent condition.

Immediately following the meeting of stockholders the new board of directors convened and unanimously reelected the officers who served during the past year. They are Edward H. Jones, president; Fred A. Schmidt, vice president; Sidney C. Cousins, vice president; J. Horace Smithey, secretary-treasurer; Roger W. Elsinger, assistant secretary.

Potomac Joint Stock Land Bank.

The following have been reelected officers of the Potomac Joint Stock Land Bank: George A. Harris, president; John J. Cassady, vice president; Vernor Gowin, vice president and secretary-treasurer.

B. M. Morris, C. A. Ammann and E. C. Killinger, of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., accompanied by Ross S. Wilkes, manager of the Mid-Washington Tire Co., have left Washington to attend what is said to be the largest tire conference ever held in the East.

President P. W. Litchfield, of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., who is to preside at the meetings to be held Monday and Tuesday, will outline sales and distribution plans for the present year. Instead of normally waiting for the tire selling season to arrive in the spring, it is understood that their plans will call for an immediate drive for business.

DAILY GOLD MOVEMENT.

New York, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Withdrawals of gold for export today amounted to $16,678,000, the largest for any day since the end of the year. They were, however, largely offset by decrease of $15,523,000 in gold earmarked for foreign account. The New York Federal Reserve Bank's statement showed shipments to France of $12,288,000; Belgium, $4,061,000; Holland, $210,000, and Switzerland, $1,000. Imports amounted to $111,400 from Mexico in the net result of the day's movements by a monetary stock.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 165

Built of bricks which were imported from England in 1719, it was rebuilt in 1775 and remodeled in 1864.

The fire of 1921 nearly destroyed the structure, but it was restored to be as nearly possible like the old structure.

The Rock Creek Parish is the oldest within the District of Columbia. Available records go back to 1709 and it may have been in existence earlier.

At first Rock Creek Church was a mission of St. John's, generally known as Broad Creek Church, but there is a record of a marriage ceremony in St. Paul's in 1709, the record reading: "Martha, daughter of Thomas Greenfield, married Capt. Beall Waring in St. Paul's, Prince Georges County, July 11, 1709, by Rev. Mr. Owen."

The land, a hundred acres, was donated for the parish in 1719 by Col. John Bradford. At the same time members of the community gave 4,350 pounds of tobacco for building of a chapel and a glebe for the use of the present and future minister.

In those days ministers depended on tobacco for their living, and the problem of building a church was not very hard to solve, if logs and labor were available.

BALLOU ASKS HIGHER RATING FOR SCHOOLS IN LATEST PROGRAM

WOULD RAISE STATUS AND ERECT BUILDINGS

Junior High Classification Is Sought for Vocationals; Would Fill Places.

Vocational schools and students would be given a junior high school status under a fourfold legislative program laid before Congress yesterday by Superintendent of Schools Frank W. Ballou. He urged erection of new vocational school buildings.

The local school head asked appropriation of funds to bring the District's teachers' colleges up to the "uniformly accepted standards for accredited teachers' colleges." He pointed a need for additions to the teaching staff and new library and laboratory equipment.

His vocational school recommendations are in line with a broad program of improvement for these institutions, he told Mrs. Mary T. Norton (Democrat), New Jersey, chairman of the House District committee.

Status Should Be Raised.

"It is the consensus of opinion that the vocational schools should be raised from their present status on the elementary school level to a more desirable junior high school level," he said in his statement.

"This will involve changing the teachers' salary act as to the salaries of principals and teachers, and will require authorization for the erection of new buildings to accommodate some of the vocational schools now established in old elementary school buildings.

"An unsuccessful attempt was made by the Board of Education to take the initial step in this reorganization of the vocational schools in the 1933 budget. This attempt was unsuccessful, because it was held that the present legislation prevented such changes."

Would Fill Vacancies.

Dr. Ballou asked that a bill be drafted to provide for appointment of "officers, teachers, clerks and custodians" when vacancies occur in intervals between meetings of the Board of Education. Under the present system vacancies sometimes remain unfilled more than two weeks, pending a meeting of the board.

He requested enactment of a fourth bill authorizing employes of the school system to go on leaves of absence with part pay, under certain conditions. Hearings were held on this measure last year. It was favorably reported by the House District committee, but did not come up on the House floor.

U. S. Seeks Right To Pitts Records

Supreme Court Asked to Allow Scanning of Tax Case Papers.

Books, papers and other materials seized by Internal Revenue agents in Florida when they were searching for assets of G. Bryan Pitts in order to enforce a payment of back income taxes will be made available to the bureau for study, if a motion of the Government presented to the District Supreme Court, is favorably acted upon next Thursday.

A motion to make the papers available to the Government was filed yesterday because the "evidence" was impounded several months ago by Justice Jennings Bailey.

Through a study of the contents of the papers the Government agents hope to learn where some of Pitts' alleged hidden money is. The motion will be argued before Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue. Justice Peyton Gordon issued a rule for Pitts to show cause why the search of his papers should not be permitted.

Directory Under Way For Business Women

A business women's directory, being prepared by Alice Jefferis, of 507 E street northwest, shows that occupations of Washington women are very diversified and range from physician to detective.

The directory will contain the names, telephone numbers, addresses and occupations of more than 3,000 women. It will be distributed in office buildings, hotels and homes. A new issue is planned each six months.

Wimbley's Counsel Win First Skirmish

Obtain Order Suppressing Seized Papers of Man Held in 2 Deaths.

Harry C. Wimbley, indicted as the murderer of his wife, Elizabeth, and a small stepdaughter, Wilma, yesterday won his first step in his fight to escape conviction when his attorneys, Cedric Johnson and Louis Whitestone obtained from Justice F. D. Letts in District Supreme Court, an order suppressing papers and other things seized in a serach of Wimbley's rooms.

Wimbley and John M. Crowder are alleged to have planned to do away with Mrs. Wimbley and her daughter in order to collect insurance. While the mother and daughter were in a canoe in the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, the craft capsized and both were drowned.

William H. Collins, assistant United States Attorney, told Justice Letts the Government was willing to suppress the seized papers. Wimbley is awaiting trial in the District Jail.

Bal Boheme Committee to Meet.

The standing committee for the Bal Boheme of the Washington Arts Club will meet tonight at the club. Reports will be received from various committees on the progress of work on the "Ball of the Seven Seas," 1932 edition of the fete.

ROSES BLOOMING, BABY BUGGIES NUMEROUS, BOYS WADE IN JANUARY

Post Staff Photos.

Joint Ceremony Draws 22 District Groups to Willard Hotel.

The gathering was called to order by General Chairman C. H. Taylor, who introduced H. F. Chandler, president of the advisory board of Masonic clubs. After a short address, Mr. Chandler introduced the honored guests, and turned the ceremonies over to Mr. Bowen.

After the installation, Mr. Taylor took charge of the entertainment program, which was opened by the orchestra under direction of Meyer Goldman. William H. "Judge" Burton entertained with 15 minutes of stories.

Four choral selections by the Capitol Choristers, were followed by a "pearl dance" and an interpretative dance by pupils of Miss Colton's School of Dance. Afterward the floor was cleared for dancing by all.

The officers of the advisory board are: Mr. Chandler, president; Donald D. Isbell, vice president; Thurston G. Brown, secretary, and E. F. Skidmore.

Mr. Bowen was assisted in the installation by four marshals, Frank J. Daly, W. F. Hayes, C. T. Newman and Capt. R. Earl Boyd.

Included in the club presidents inducted were: R. H. Thompson, R. Earl Boyd, James T. Gallahorn, Donold D. Isbell, Elton J. Layton, John S. M. Zimmerman, Arthur A. Wright, J. B. Edmunds, L. G. Buehler, H. B. Russell, J. O. Porter, F. A. Varney, Frank W. Kelsey, J. H. McCall, J. H. Harding and S. C. Brady.

Late Writ Service Criticized by Judge

Hitt Frees Man Taken From Home at 11:30 o'Clock at Night.

Holding that 11:30 at night is not a proper hour for a policeman to serve a warrant for a minor infraction of the traffic regulations, Judge Isaac R. Hitt, in Police Court, yesterday dismissed a traffic charge against Stanley D. Willis, 1723 Varnum street northwest, an attorney.

Mr. Willis was given a ticket, which he ignored, and at 11:30 o'clock on a night shortly after that he was taken from his home and forced to go to a station house to post collateral. In dismissing the charge Judge Hitt said that officers must use better judgment in serving warrants for minor violations of the law.

The charge against the attorney was that he passed a traffic light. He denied the charge, and after he had told Judge Hitt about the nocturnal arrest the charge was dismissed.

Girl, 6, in Hospital After Taxi Accident

Mary Rinaldi, 6 years old, of 624 Third street northwest, was seriously injured yesterday when struck by a taxicab operated by James C. Dunn, 30 years old, of 607 Fourth street northwest.

The child was struck when she ran from between two parked cars on Third street, near G street. Dunn took the girl to a hospital, where it was said she was suffering from a possible fracture of the skull, lacerations of the head and shock.

PROGRESS REPORTED BY JOBS COMMITTEE

Organization Completed as Benjamin Is Confirmed as Executive.

Completing its organization, the District of Columbia committee on employment yesterday received and approved reports from its executive secretary, finance committee chairman, and executive deputies.

The committee received the report of Paul Benjamin after confirming his appointment as executive secretary. Benjamin replaces George J. Adams, jr., who resigned last month.

In his report Benjamin outlined the organization of the committee and praised the work of its officers and active members. He told the committee that 90 per cent of its employes had been unemployed. Their salaries, he said, constituted only approximately 5 per cent of the committee's total disbursements. This figure represents about half the average of other similar organizations.

Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor, and chairman of the committee's finance committee, reported that the committee had on hand yesterday a balance of $3,780. The balance at the beginning of January, he said, was $14,942. Disbursements have totaled $25,301 this month. Since January 1, $10,000 has been received from the Community Chest, which so far has given the committee $35,000 of the $240,000 appropriated for it. Maj. Donovan reported that another installment would be necessary before the end of the month.

Wide Search Is Started For 2 Missing Students

Police authorities in nearly every Southern city between Washington and Miami, Fla., last night were asked to look out for two Central High School freshmen students who were believed to be on their way to the Florida city.

The boys, Frank Geraci, jr., 15 years old, of 4819 Alaska avenue northwest, and Robert Moran, 16 years old, of 1045 Quebec place northwest, disappeared Thursday. They left for school and did not return. R. F. Moran, father of Robert, and Mr. Geraci, reported the runaways to Washington police and asked their help. The parents said their sons had often talked of going to Florida and they believed the boys were on their way there.

Burns From Stove Fatal to Woman

Mrs. Nellie Smith, 70, Is Victim; Her Daughter Also Injured.

Mrs. Nellie Smith, 70 years old, died at Providence Hospital yesterday afternoon as the result of burns suffered several hours earlier when her clothes became ignited from an oil stove at her home, 800 A street southeast.

Miss Elizabeth Smith, 38, daughter of the woman, heard her screams and rushed to the bathroom where the stove was. Attempting futilely to put out the flames enveloping her mother, the daughter received painful burns. Finally with the aid of neighbors, who wrapped blankets about Mrs. Smith, the blazing clothes were extinguished.

A Casualty Hospital interne treated Mrs. Smith and she was then taken to Providence Hospital. The daughter was also treated at the latter institution and later returned home.

Elgen Appointment Wins Senate Committee Vote

District Group Sends Bill on Credit Unions Back to Commissioners for Report—Objections Are Heard From Deputy Comptroller.

The Senate District committee yesterday placed its approval on President Hoover's appointment of Riley E. Elgen to the Public Utilities Commission, following hearings in which the Interstate Commerce Commission valuation engineer himself took the stand.

Approval followed eulogy of his attainments by Assistant Corporation Counsel William A. Roberts, who praised him as "level-headed and unbiased." A letter from Interstate Commerce Commissioner Ernest I. Lewis lauded his talents.

Senator Arthur Capper's bill to incorporate credit unions in the District was sent back to the Commissioners for report, after a representative of the currency comptroller's office opposed favorable action on the bill as it stood, complaining that the District is "already overbanked."

F. G. Awalt, deputy comptroller, objected to the perpetual grant given to the unions under the bill, and to dual jurisdiction over the unions by the Comptroller of the Currency and the District Commissioners.

Assistant Corporation Counsel William A. Roberts, representing the Commissioners, spoke for the bill. He said its principal function was not commercial, but one of relief within organizations of employes. He favored certification of the unions by the District Commissioners following report by the Comptroller, and reduction in the license fee from $50 to $25.

Woman Hurt as Auto Hits Boys' Band Bus at Bridge

A heavy Capital Traction Co. bus, bearing members of the Elks Boys Band to Mount Vernon Hills, Va., where they were scheduled to put on a program over radio station WJSV last night, crashed head-on into an automobile, seriously injuring a woman. The accident occurred at the south end of the Highway Bridge.

The woman, Mrs. Suzanne Savoy, 30 years old, of Seminary Hill, Va., was taken to Emergency Hospital by H. C. Bates, of 1410 Irving street northeast, where she was admitted for an emergency operation. In addition to several lacerations to her forehead, scalp and lips, physicians said her skull may have been fractured.

The automobile, driven by the woman's husband, Brew Savoy, 32 years old, was making a left-hand turn from Military road into the Highway Bridge approach. A truck attempted to pass the bus on the right. Savoy, according to police, paused to let the truck go by and then continued the turn, crashing head-on into the bus. Washington police investigated the accident, but said they had no authority in that territory.

The bus driver, Clyde B. Hutchinson, of 42 B street southwest, was allowed to leave the accident scene almost immediately in order to get the band members to the radio station in time for the program scheduled to start at 9:30 o'clock.

Girl Faints on Discovering She Is Locked In; Rescued

Two policemen and a civilian were forced to break into Judd's Pharmacy at 2750 Fourteenth street early yesterday to rescue a young woman who had fainted when she discovered she had been locked in the place.

Miss Beatrice Rhinehart, 20 years old, of 2715 Fourteenth street northwest, had gone to the drug store shortly before closing time to make a telephone call. She entered the booth and talked for some time. When she came out she discovered the clerks had gone for the night. Miss Rhinehart phoned Robert H. Shurr, employe of another drug store, and detailed her plight.

Police whom he called were forced to break a lock on the back door of the store to gain entrance. Miss Rhinehart was revived and taken home.

16-Year-Old Benedict Held As Honeymoon Collapses

Police yesterday broke up the honeymoon of a 16-year-old boy and his 15-year-old bride. The bridegroom was booked on a charge of investigation at the Fourth Precinct station, and is being held at the House of Detention. The bride is still missing and her irate father charges that friends of her youthful husband are keeping her concealed from him.

The couple, George Leon Harrison, of 635 Ninth street northeast and Clara Chadwell, of 924 H street northeast, slipped out to Rockville Thursday night, obtained licenses and were married. They gave their ages at 19 and 18, respectively.

When Clara failed to return home, her mother, Mrs. Bessie Chadwell, became anxious and reported her missing to police and asked their aid in locating the girl.

Yesterday morning the girl's parents learned she was married. Policewoman L. F. Kelly arrested the bridegroom in a house in the 300 block of D street southeast, but the bride was not found. Clara's father insists that friends slipped her out the back door when the policewoman came to the house. He also angrily insisted last night that he would swear out an abduction warrant for the youthful bridegroom.

Panhandlers of Congress Members Face Law's Ire

Panhandlers are annoying members of Congress. At least Fourth Precinct police were asked last night to keep a sharp lookout around the House Office Building and clear away the swarm of individuals who sidle up to the lawmakers of the Nation and open up with the formula: "Say, Buddy, how about a dime for a cuppa coffee?"

The request was made by Lieut. P. H. Cook, of the Capitol police, who is stationed at the House Office Building. Lieut. Cook said he had not received any complaints about the annoyance from any of the representatives, but added he knew the vicinity of the building is infested with panhandlers.

Pickings appear to be good there, according to Lieut. Cook.

WIDER JURISDICTION FOR COMMISSIONERS URGED OF CONGRESS

Grant Suggests Extending of Scope to Properties Not in District.

INADEQUACIES OF LAW ARE STRESSED IN PLEA

Would Amend Proposed Plan for Increasing Body's Authority.

Extension of the regulatory powers of the Commissioners to "United States lands and property outside of the District of Columbia, placed under their control by law," was asked of Congress yesterday by Col. U. S. Grant 3d, Director of Public Buildings and Public Parks.

"I am impelled to make this suggestion only by observance of harmful conditions arising from inadequacies of the existing law as the Commissioners interpret it," he informed the House District committee.

The committee already has before it a bill to increase the Commissioners' regulatory authority in the District, but the Grant proposal would amend it to apply to adjacent United States Government property.

"Such an addition would permit them to handle matters of traffic and crime at the Virginia end of Key Bridge and of Highway Bridge," Col. Grant told the committee.

He declared he favored giving the Commissioners "wider power to carry out the tasks assigned them by law," but added his suggestion should not be interpreted as a wish to "extend their jurisdiction." He said he did not want the bill amended unless the suggestion met with approval of the Commissioners themselves.

Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, whose Senate District committee has before it a bill to broaden the Commissioners' powers, recently advocated increasing authority of the local heads, after Representative Fiorello LaGuardia (Republican), New York, referred to Congress as a "board of aldermen" on District matters.

Window-Smasher Took Watches, Court Is Told

Leon Curtis, alleged window-smasher, was held for the action of the grand jury on a $5,000 bond yesterday when Ira B. Meyers, 518 H street northwest, testified before Judge Gus Schuldt, in Police Court, that he saw Curtis reach through a hole in the show window of a jewelry store at Seventh and G streets northwest and take several watches.

Meyers heard the crash of the glass as the window broke. Turning, he said, he saw Curtis reach in and take the watches. Curtis was caught and turned over to police.

Dr. R. R. Walker's Illness Is Fatal

Noted Surgeon Victim of Fever Resulting From Polluted Water.

Dr. Reginald R. Walker, one of Washington's most prominent surgeons, died yesterday at his summer residence on River road near the Burning Tree Golf Club, Md. His death was caused by typhoid fever contracted more than a week ago while hunting in southern Maryland, where he drank polluted water. Dr. Sterling Ruffin, also prominent as a surgeon, is in a critical condition at Garfield Hospital, suffering from the same disease contracted in the same manner.

Dr. Walker was a member of the staff of Episcopal Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Hospital and of Children's Hospital, and maintained his town residence and office at 1746 K street northwest. He was recognized as one of the foremost throat specialists of the East.

He was a member of the local medical society and of the American Medical Association and of other professional associations. He also was a member of the Racquet Club, the Blue Ridge Rod and Gun Club and of the Metropolitan Club. Funeral arrangements have not been completed. He is survived by his widow, two sisters, Mrs. Lillian Todd and Miss Blanche Walker, both of Baltimore, Md., and a brother, W. H. Walker, local realtor.

PROMOTED

Capt. J. E. Bobo (top), advanced from a lieutenancy, under orders issued yesterday by Acting Superintendent of Police L. I. H. Edwards, and Lieut. John Flaherty (bottom), who was a detective sergeant.

BOBO AND FLAHERTY OBTAIN PROMOTIONS

Former Becomes Captain of Police and Latter Gets Lieutenancy.

Police Lieut. J. E. Bobo was promoted to captain yesterday and Detective Sergt. John Flaherty was elevated to a lieutenancy under an order issued yesterday from the office of Acting Superintendent of Police L. I. H. Edwards. A number of transfers, principally affecting the second Precinct, were announced also.

Capt. Bobo was transferred from First Inspection District Headquarters, under the instructions, to administrative headquarters, where, it is understood, he will assume charge of the special investigation squad. Lieut. Flaherty was assigned to the Fourth Precinct.

Lieut. L. E. Kelly was transferred from the Traffic Bureau to the Sixth Precinct; Lieut. W. H. Carlin from the Sixth Precinct to the First, and Lieut. W. H. Lineberg from the First Precinct to the Traffic Bureau.

Other transfers were as follows:

Sergt. T. L. McNamara, from Traffic Bureau to administrative headquarters; Privates W. H. Brauning, from Second to Ninth; C. E. Cooper, from First to Second; L. E. Cline, from Third to Second; Claude Mathey, from Fourth to Second; L. W. Walker, from Fourth to Second Precinct; Eugene Denielewicz, from Fifth to Second; W. W. Oliff, from Sixth to Second Precinct; K. H. Davis, from Seventh to Second Precinct; A. H. Cochran, from Eighth to Second Precinct; J. P. Miller, from Ninth to Second Precinct; R. M. Harper, from Tenth to Second Precinct; W. F. Dineen, from Tenth to Second Precinct; A. W. Taylor, from Eleventh to Second Precinct; J. A. Godbold, from Traffic Bureau to Second Precinct; T. B. T. Morrow, from Second to Tenth.

Telephone Films Shown To Glover Park Citizens

Members of the Glover Park Citizens Association last night witnessed an exhibition of motion pictures sponsored by the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. and the first meeting of the group this year, held at the Industrial Home School. Wireless telephony, telephone systems in China and listening telephonically to heart beats were depicted to the citizens.

Installation of the year's slate of officers and discussion of civic matters also was participated in by the Glover Park Association. Myron R. Walker is the president for 1932.

Notre Dame Alumnae Plan Prom

KEECH ASKS UTILITY BOARD TO RECALL ITS TAXI-METER ORDER

WANTS BOTH SYSTEMS ALLOWED FOR PRESENT

Return of Gen. Patrick and Davison Expected to Result in Action.

People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech late yesterday filed a memorandum with the Public Utilities Commission urging that the taxi meter order be rescinded and that both the meter and the zone cabs be permitted to operate in Washington at least for temporary period so that the public might designate which type it prefers.

Taking advantage of the action of Justice Jesse C. Adkins in remanding the taxicab order appeals to the commission for the consideration of additional testimony, the people's counsel urged the commission "to give the matters presented before the court most serious consideration and, likewise, review both the testimony before your body and the findings in your order in the light of what has transpired since its promulgation."

Declaring that it is "certainly evident that the public generally is opposed to the change from zone to meter system of operation," Mr. Keech reminds the body that "the public has, through every medium available to it, in an affirmative way voiced its desire that the zone system be retained. The House of Representatives has also stated its opposition to the abolition of the zone system."

Prompt Action Expected.

With the return of Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick and Maj. D. A. Davison yesterday, the utilities body expects to give prompt consideration to the testimony submitted by the court and to Mr. Keech's memorandum. A report to the court may be made next week although the meter order has already been postponed for 60 days after the court's decision is announced.

While admitting that the public is not the only party to be considered in making regulations for the cab industry in the District, "it is unquestionably the most important," he added, "for without its patronage, neither the drivers nor owners of cabs can function."

An "adequate number" of operators and drivers are "ready, willing and anxious to serve the public under the existing zone system," the memorandum states, "and the mere fact that there is a claim, even if well founded, that certain drivers and operators are unable to make a 'go' of it under existing conditions, it is not the commission's duty, nor does the right exist in the commission to readjust the rate scheme so as to make it compensatory to those persons."

Confiscation Charged.

The commission is reminded that the meter system probably will drive many operators out of business and is told also that "those who remain will probably have their present income cut down." Even the fact that the proposed meter rates are comparable to the present zone fares will not induce the public to patronize meter cabs as they have flat-rate cabs, Mr. Keech contends, as has been shown in the failure of the Nickel Cab Co., with lower meter rates, to meet the zone cab competition.

The people's counsel further points out that "many persons and concerns" have purchased equipment for the purpose "of operating on the zone system" and that the meter order will result in effect in the confiscation of their property and that the difference in the fare set by the taxicab operators and fixed by the commission constitutes a confiscation of the public's property.

Explaining his proposal that the dual system of operation be tried, Mr. Keech suggests that the commission fix boundaries and rates for the zone operators so as to effect uniformity. Such action, he said, would meet with the approval of the public and the "vast majority of drivers and operators, leaving disgruntled only those who through some personal and selfish reason desire operation under the meter system, such as meter companies and those whose one desire is to remove most of the cabs from the streets."

Insurance Rule Sought.

In conclusion Mr. Keech made a plea for speedy legislation requiring all cab operators to carry liability insurance for the protection of passengers. The insurance requirement is "the only equitable convenience and necessity rule," he stated, "and will serve to eliminate from the streets all irresponsible and undesirable operators."

Under the present public utility act the commission has no authority to require the insurance provision, but efforts probably will be made to put through such legislation at this session of Congress.

The people's counsel also points out that Justice Adkins "was intensely interested" in the question of whether the notice of the taxicab hearing was sufficiently definite to put the public and others on notice that the zone system was to be abolished.

Should this notice be held inadequate, the meter order would be held invalid and the whole matter of taxicab regulation would be where it was before.

Jett Given Jail Term And Fine in Liquor Case

J. Franklin Jett was sentenced to pay a fine of $400 and to serve a year and a day in jail yesterday, when he was brought before Justice F. D. Letts to receive sentence, following his conviction on liquor charges last week.

Through Attorney John H. Burnett, Jett noted an appeal and he was permitted to go free, pending the outcome of that appeal. Jett's attorney plans to contest the case on the grounds that there was no probable cause for the issuance of the search warrant upon which Jett's home was raided and a quantity of liquor found.
